SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19.-(Special.)-Ralph Willie is popularly supposed to be the proud possessor of the Portland goat. At least that is a supposition that has been generally accepted until today. Either the goat strayed from its claim ant or Willis never was the owner, for the Beavers walked away with the see sion in good shape by a score of 2 to 0. The hit column shows that five hits were recorded off Garrett and the same off Willis, but the score does not show the luck that was back of Willis and the horseshoes with which he was endowed.

Double Plays Help Willis.

Twice when the trouble sign was show ing in the sky, double plays kept the Oregonians from tallying. Garrett's best twirling was in the pinches. Quite frequently he had men on the bases, but even with another Beaver warming up flinger settled to his task and white-

With all that, it was the best game of ball the Caks have played in the series, notwithstanding the two victories they There was much baseball luck attached to their victories, and today, save for the inning in which the two scores were collected, the Commuters played bang-up ball. In fact, the score shows no errors against them and Wil-Ils can thank bimself and no one else for tallies that were made.

Fisher and Ort Drive in Runs.

The Portlanders confined their scoring to the second inning and that with two men out. Camey and Sheehan were down when Rapps was hit by a pitched ball. Fisher drove one into left field that was good for two bases, and Rapps scored, the catcher taking third on the throw-in. Ort followed with a slashing single that knocked against the right field fence nd Fisher cantered home. The score:

Oarsmen and Canoists Hold Last Regatta of Year.

EXCITING FINISHES SEEN

After Races Are Over, Watch Fob Is Presented to Coach Allen, Who Trained Rowing Club Crews Victories at Nelson.

The rowing and canoe racing season in Portland was officially brought to a close yesterday afternoon, when on the side lines for emergency, the little the annual Fall regatta of the Portland Rowing . lub was held. Despite the rain, which delayed several of the ontests, the regatta was a success, all the races being close and exciting.

The regatta opened with a single scull race between A. Pfuender, J. Helwig and L J. Waite, the first winning by less than a length. From the starting gun, fired by H. E. Judge. president of the club, who acted as starter, the race was nip and tuck down the half-mile course. About 100 yards from the finish Pfaender, who rowed on the junior four last season, third.

Then came the lapstreak race be-tween four crews, run in heats. The first heat was between a crew com-posed of Newberger, stroke; Corning, 3; Shockley, 2, and Pfaender, bow, and one composed of E. O. Gloss, stroke; Helwig, 3; Stone, 2, and Stringer, bow. The latter crew won by less than a length. At the start, Ed Gloss, singles champion of the club, hit up a fast pace and his men held the lead to the finish, although the other crew made desperate spurt and gained rapidly the third inning for protesting a de-finished second and third, respectively.

The mixed doubles cance race was another thriller. Six crews were entered and all finished within ten yards of each other, some difficulty being experienced in picking second and third. Miss Bukowsky and I. J. Walte won first place by half a length. Miss Dillinger and Ed Shockley were adjudged second, while Mrs. Burroughs and Fred Newell came

The men's doubles proved the mest apectacular race of the day. Many of the crows ran into each other, with the resulf that one capsized.
