WILL FIGHT MOST LIKELY

Two Testaments of Portland Woman to Cause Contest.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 26.—(Special.)—

Two wills left by Marie Murphy, of Portland, who died at the home of Mrs. John Wright, may result in legal proceedings being instituted by relatives of the deceased to obtain possession of her estate.

The first will was drawn by Attorney Charles T. Mahoney last Saturday. By its terms she leaves her estate to her younger brothers, Walter and Charles, who now reside at Shelburn, Or. Her property included, 1909 on deposit at the Hibernia Bank here, four diamonds in possession of Mrs. Wright, a gold watch, $50 in cash and two trunks containing valuable furs and wearing apparel.

MAN NOW LOST FOR WEEK

Search Is in Vain for Cashier Who Disappears in Snow.

BOISE, Idaho, Nov. 26.—(Special.)—The disappearance of B. E. Corbin, cashier of the Union Trust & Savings Company, of this city, who was lost in the snow drifts and timbered section in eastern Fremont County, is still as much a mystery today as it was a week ago, when he was last seen.

Many searching parties are braving the cold weather along the high divide of the Yellowstone National Park, in the philanthropic man hunt. Mrs. Corbin announced today that she will leave tomorrow for the section her husband was last seen to search for him.

SOCIAL CLUB IS RAIDED

New York Police Take 78 Prisoners on Gambling Charge.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—The biggest raid on an alleged gambling house that New York has seen in many days was led by Deputy Commissioner Driscoll, in person, today against a so-called social club in East Forty-second street. Seventy-eight prisoners were taken.

ELLIOTT OPPOSES SURPLUS OF LAWS

Northern Pacific President Says Business Needs Time to Get Breath.

OREGON TO BE DEVELOPED

Optimist on Northwest, Elliott Declares Railroad Next to Agriculture — Effect of New Merger to Be Beneficial.

Adverse legislation must cease so that business will have a chance to catch its breath, if the country is to continue its progress, said Howard Elliott, president of the Northern Pacific railroad, who arrived in Portland in company with a number of other officials on a special train last night.

"We have too many laws now," declared Mr. Elliott. "It is unfortunate that conditions demanded so much legislation, but it was brought about largely by public sentiment. The people wanted the power of the railroads curbed and there were plenty of legislators to answer that demand. Many needless laws resulted.

"In the same way this public sentiment controls the railroads as it does the legislation. If the financial interests become frightened through adverse sentiment, it halts progress."

He explained, as he has done in previous discussions, that the subject since coming into the Northwest, that the danger confronting the people as well as the railroads, either right or wrong, is a hesitancy in putting more money into the transportation business. He said that the men at the heads of the various railroads know that such a feeling exists, but he predicted that it soon would disappear.

Local business men do much to form a better feeling toward the big business interests by sane and careful discussions of the questions, by studying conditions and by encouraging legitimate industry, he declared.

Northwest Needs People.

Mr. Elliott is an optimist on the Pacific Northwest and has repeatedly stated that he cannot see any way to prevent a continued increase of both freight and transportation business. Next to agriculture, he pronounces railroading the most important industry. Each is largely dependent upon the other, is his opinion.

"The railroad owner desires to observe every law that is passed," he added, "but no law can be passed by a legislative body or order given by a commission that can be made to invest its money. So long as the adverse sentiment exists, further investment will be retarded."

Will Build Up Country.

The company has no plan of immediate improvement in view, further than that already outlined, which will be completed in the double track between Portland and Tacoma and the extension of the Oregon Trunk and United Electric railways, in which the Northern Pacific holds a half interest. Mr. Elliott expressed himself as a great believer in the system of building up a country through its railroads, but stated that in this undertaking mutual assistance is required.

He also discussed the prospects of a union depot in Portland and gave the information that he has had some recent correspondence with R. S. Lovett, head of the Harriman system, on this subject. The Northern Pacific owns a 49 per cent interest in the present depot and is favorable to the early erection of a new structure. While he declared that nothing definite is likely to develop in the immediate future, he expects the work to be done within a few years.

Nothing but good can result from the recent consolidation of the Northern Pacific and associated lines with the North Coast—good for the affected interests and good for the other railroads and the entire Northwest—he asserted.

NEW DEPOT TO BE BUILT

Southern Pacific Plans Improvements at Ashland.

ASHLAND, Or., Nov. 26.—(Special.)—

The Southern Pacific Company will at an early date commence the work of building its new interurban depot and waiting rooms on North Main street. Material for the branch line from Helman street to the junction of North Main and the Plaza has arrived and the work of construction will be pushed. A contract has also been let for wrecking and removing the old frame buildings along the right of way.

As soon as the branch line is ready for material the company contemplates increasing its motor-car service between Ashland, Medford and Grants Pass, which will prove very popular to residents of the Rogue River Valley. Right agent J. B. Eddy has been in the city recently negotiating with property owners along the new uptown branch and Assistant Engineer J. F. Meager is now on the ground and has taken active charge of the construction work.
