Famous Spanish Singer to Appear at Hellig Theater January 3 in Captivating Programme—San Francisco Music-Lovers Find Vocalist Better Than Ever.

EMILIO DE GOGORZA.

THE coming of Emilio de Gogorza, the Spanish baritone, who has already ensnared the hearts and captivated the minds of all local music lovers with his consummate art and his brilliant charm, is one of the most interesting events of the big musical season. His two recitals will be the second of the Winter subscription series arranged by Lois Steers-Wynn Coman and will be held at the Hellig Theater Tuesday evening, January 3.

Gogorza feels no call to sing upon the operatic stage, according to a letter recently received from the artist himself, for, to him, every number that he sings is an opera in itself. It certainly seems so to his enthralled listeners, for operas have their dull passages, where the inspiration of the composer has faded and waned. But there are never any dull places in the programmes arranged by Emilio de Gogorza. The Spanish baritone has a true instinct for beautiful and appeal-

Military environments characterized the annual ball given by "E" Company, Third Infantry, Oregon National Guards, at the Armory last Thursday night. American flags and tri-colored bunting were draped in appropriate fashion on the walls of the ballroom. In the center of the room the seven handsome cups won by the company at the various military tournaments in which they have participated, grouped in a stand attracted the admiring attention of all the guests. Stacked arms and palms surrounded this display adding a picturesque touch to the general military effect.

Miss Lottie Riegelman, of 1615 Macadam road, was hostess Monday at a successful "hard times" party. Music and dancing were important features of the evening's entertainment, which was also aided much by the ridiculously appropriate costumes worn by the guests. Those present were Miss Anna Bruch, and consolation trophies went to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hatcher.
