Man, Whose Paper Is Denied Entrance in England, Peculiar.

SEATTLE, Dec. 31.—Edward Holter James, circulation of whose paper, the Liberator, has been forbidden in Great Britain, is a nephew of the late William James, the philosopher, and of Henry James, the novelist. He is a graduate of Harvard and inherited a large fortune. His wife, formerly a Miss Cushing, of Massachusetts, is also wealthy. Mr. and Mrs. James lived in Seattle a few years ago and went in the best of society and lived in a fine house, but James, weary of idleness and started a daily, milking the cows himself. He described himself to his friends as a transcendentalist, holding to the philosophy of the Brook Farm Colony.

STORY OF KING'S FLIGHT TOLD

Manuel's Secretary Relates How Monarch Left Palace.

PARIS, Dec. 31.—Rumors of political intrigues in Portugal, the insecurity of the Provisional Government and a plot to restore the deposed King Manuel, have revived stories of the revolution and today Marquis Lavrado, who was the secretary to the Portuguese monarch, gave an interview that is described as the first authentic account of what happened at the Necessidades Palace on the night of October 4.

The Marquis says that the King and the ministers had been warned of the conspiracy against the house of Braganza, but they wholly misjudged the gravity of the situation. They counted implicitly on the loyalty of the army and navy. King Manuel was playing bridge with his companions at the palace when the revolutionary signal gun was fired at 2 o'clock in the morning. Huddled investigation showed that every telephone wire to the palace had been cut.

Consternation prevailed in the royal house. The servants to a man deserted, leaving a single loyal regiment to guard the person of the monarch. Soon a message came from Premier Teixeira de Sousa advising the King to depart at once. Manuel refused the advice and donning the uniform of the commander-in-chief, he announced his intention of placing himself at the head of the royal troops.

STRIKES ARE NOT VIOLENT

Portuguese Minister Asserts All Trouble Amicably Settled.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—Count de Alentejo, the Portuguese Minister, gave out today the following as the text of a cablegram received from his government in reply to one which he sent yesterday asking about the reports of a critical situation in Portugal:

"You can see from the reports that have attended the strikes, which have taken place, and that at the request of men and employers they have in general been resolved from his government by the government. The situation in this respect is improving rapidly and there have lately been no new strikes. National finances are every day becoming more satisfactory on account of the strict overhauling of the expenses of the administration.

HAY FAVORS WOMAN JUROR

Governor of Washington Will Not Urge Special Privilege.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Dec. 31.—Governor Hay has denied the request of the Sunnyside women who sent him a petition that he recommend to the Legislature a bill exempting women from jury duty. He said today that ladies who recently served on a jury here, the first since suffrage took effect, are earnest and sincere in their belief that women should serve on juries. The trial judge of that case praised their services highly and urged that women jurors be generally called. I have been advised by prominent women of the state generally to favor their service on juries and I shall make no recommendations otherwise."

ROSEBURG COUPLE CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNI- VERSARY.

ROSEBURG, Or., Dec. 31.—(Special.)—Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Rhoades celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in this city December 12. They were married near Champeau, Marion County, Oregon, in 1860. Mr. Rhoades was born in Illinois on August 20, 1844, crossing the plains with his parents by oxteam in 1847. Mrs. Rhoades was born in Kent, England, on October 27, 1845, and came to America with her parents via Cape Horn in 1851-52, landing after a voyage of seven months, at Portland in February, 1852. Her father was Samuel Parren, who settled in Washington County, residing there until his death.

About two years after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Rhoades removed to Pacific County, Washington Territory, where for more than 48 years Mr. Rhoades was engaged in the oyster business, in which he still holds large interests. In October, 1899, they removed to Roseburg, Or., engaging in the mercantile business.

Thirteen children were born to their union, ten of whom are living. Among them are Mrs. G. W. Brown, Beaverton, Or.; R. D. and C. O. Rhoades, Mrs. H. M. Wilson, Mrs. R. M. Seaman, Mrs. R. M. and Mr. J. F. Goodpasture, of Bay Center, Wash.; Mrs. C. J. Kallgren, of Seattle, Wash.; Mrs. H. J. Stearns, of Salt Lake City, Utah; and Miss Grace Rhoades, of Roseburg. Twenty-seven grandchildren and three great-grandchildren are living.

grounds of incompleteness and of wrong deduction with respect to the evidence produced. It is probable that old precedents, which the Lorimer used to clear the title of Mr. Lorimer to his seat, irrespective of certain corruption that might possibly have prevailed at Springfield, will be attacked, and that a demand will be made for a new seat.

Public Sentiment Is Feared.

At the outset some of those who were inclined to oppose the report of the committee had little idea that the taking of a vote would accomplish more than the moral protest of a minority of the Senate. Today the feeling in the same circles is different. It is proclaimed that the effort to unseat Lorimer is to be a determined one. The belief is asserted that when a full exposition of the testimony is made, as is proposed, members of the election committee are likely to feel sorry they did not read the evidence before signing the report. It is declared that the same exposition of the case will arouse such a public sentiment throughout the whole country that it is doubtful whether a majority of the Senate will oppose the resolution that will command a record vote.

Before the case reaches its final stage the old question as to whether a majority or a two-thirds vote is necessary to vacate the Lorimer seat will be raised. It requires a two-thirds vote to expel a member, but only a majority to prevent a member from taking his seat on the grounds of the illegality of the election.

MRS. MARTIN UP FOR LIFE

Woman Sentenced Second Time for Seeking Judge's Life.

OAKLAND, Cal., Dec. 31.—Mrs. Isabella Martin was for the second time given a life sentence in the courts today, for the dynamiting of Superior Judge Ogden's home. Judge Wells denied her motion for new trial, but granted a 30-day respite on the sentence.

The crime for which Mrs. Martin was sentenced was the blowing up by dynamite of the home of Judge Ogden on the evening of March 19, 1907. Her putative son, "Baby" John Martin, confessed at the first trial that, acting under her orders, he had exploded the bomb, but failed to place it properly and Judge Ogden and his family escaped death, though their house was badly damaged. Mrs. Martin, an eccentric woman of means, nursed a grievance against the jurist because of adverse decisions against her in litigation.

Livestock Shipments Grow.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—Fourteen million eight hundred and twenty-nine thousand two hundred head of livestock were shipped into Chicago during the year 1910, according to the annual report of the Union Stockyards Company just issued. The report shows an increase of 141,000 cattle, 90,000 calves, 792,000 sheep and a decrease of 617,700 hogs and 2,000 horses, as compared with the previous year. It took 256,700 cars to haul the livestock, which is valued at $256,000,000.

Splendidly equipped passenger trains are to run soon from New Orleans through to Mexico City.

1910 COMMERCE PASSES RECORDS

Grand Total for Year Beats Banner Year 1907 in Business Done.

IMPORT FIGURES HIGHEST

Exports Fall Off $75,000,000 Compared With 1907, Owing to Home Consumption of Food—Manufactures Partial Offset.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—The foreign commerce of the United States for 1910, including both exports and imports, promises to set a new record in the history of the Nation. The 11 months ending November, for which the bureau of statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor has secured complete figures, have brought the grand total of exports and imports to the enormous sum of $2,063,334,954.

Only the banner year 1907 compares with this figure. The total commerce for the first 11 months of that year was $2,047,234,045. The trade figures for December, the closing month of this year, are expected to swell the total of foreign commerce nearly $2,400,000,000.

Exports Short of 1907 Record.

The breaking of commercial records will not apply to exports. The imports will reach the highest figure in history, but the sum of the exports will probably fall $15,000,000 short of that of 1907. Notwithstanding this decline and the increase in the imports, the balance will still be close to $300,000,000 in favor of the export side of the account.

The greater quantity of materials imported is due to the development of manufacturing industries which import crude materials or import articles partially manufactured, in order to complete the manufacture in this country. The slower development of the export trade is due mainly to the fact that the United States is exporting a smaller quantity of breadstuffs and other food products each year and is more nearly consuming its total output of such articles.

Imports 90 Per Cent More.

The "all year's" figures for exports are expected to be $1,840,000,000, and the imports $1,550,000,000. This is an increase of 90 per cent in imports over the year 1900 and an increase in exports of 10 per cent over that year. The importation of crude materials and materials for further manufacture more than doubled in that time. On the export side the value of the going foodstuffs for 1910 is but $340,000,000 compared with exports of $240,000,000 of such products in 1900. This is a decline of more than 25 per cent. The export of manufactured articles, on the other hand, shows a gain of 65 per cent in the 10 years.

MAN, IN PRISON, INDICTED

Convict, Who Assaulted Guard
Simpson, Must Stand Trial.

SALEM, Or., Dec. 31.—(Special.)—The grand jury brought in an indictment today against Thomas O'Rourke, a convict at the penitentiary, who assaulted Guard Simpson a few weeks ago with a knife and stabbed the guard several times. Under a statutory provision O'Rourke must stand trial for his life, this being one of the three capital offenses in this state.

It is not known whether O'Rourke will be pardoned that he may be tried for this offense, or whether he will be allowed to serve out his time before he comes up for trial.

Medford Bonds Are Approved.

MEDFORD, Or., Dec. 31.—(Special.)—The First National Bank of Cleveland, which purchased the last recent issue of paying bonds from the City of Medford, has approved the bonds and paid over to the city the sum of $21,000, as part payment for their work. The entire bond issue for paving purposes called for was $300,000.

Fishing is still the most remunerative industry of Japanese Sakhalin. The annual catch amounts to more than 10,000,000 yen, while 60,000 Japanese fishermen are employed.

EDITOR WRITES "30"

EDGAR W. HOWE, OF ATCHISON GLOBE, QUITS GAME.

Author of "Globe Lights" Gives Up
Paper to Son and Reporters.
Play Will Be Written.

ATCHISON, Kas., Dec. 31.—Simultaneously with the signal of "30" to his last sheet of copy for the Atchison Globe today, Edgar Watson Howe, or "Ed" Howe, for 35 years editor of that paper, severed his connection with the publication.

Howe recently bought a farm three miles from town, built a house thereon and dubbed the property "Potato Hill." There, he says, he will read a while, work on a play and every three months issue a magazine.

Howe gave half of his paper to his son, Eugene, 23 years old. The other half he sold to reporters and others, who had been associated with him in the newspaper business. In a few weeks, says the editor, he is going to make presents to his children, J. P. Howe, a New York newspaperman, and Mrs. Dwight Farnham, of Seattle, equivalent to that he made Eugene Howe today.

It has long been Howe's desire to write a play. He says Mark Twain suggested the idea to him about 25 years ago. Howe has already completed a rough sketch of the play.

The passing of Howe from active work removes one of Kansas' most widely quoted editors. His column, published daily in his paper, "Globe Lights," presented a quaint philosophy. Howe is 56 years old and has been identified with newspapers in capacities varying from "devil" to editor for the last 44 years.

RAILROAD WINS CONTEST

Walla Walla Loses Fight on Crossings Near Public School.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Dec. 31.—(Special.)—First blood in the fight between the Board of Education and the Northern Pacific in the fight over gates and switchmen at the crossings near Baker school, was won today by the railroad, when Judge George Donworth, of the Federal Court, overruled the city's demurrer asking that the temporary injunction be denied.

The city passed an ordinance requiring gates and switchmen at certain crossings and the railroad asked and secured a temporary injunction, which they hope to make permanent. The hearing of the permanent injunction probably will come early in the year.

TARIFF COMES UP SOON

Committee Promises Taft to Take Up Commission Bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 31.—President Taft again urged immediate action of Congress on his permanent tariff commission plan at a conference with Representatives Dwight and Dainell and other House leaders today.

The ways and means committee, the President was assured, will take up the subject at the earliest opportunity after Congress convenes. Meantime Representative Longworth, who has drawn a bill embodying not only his own ideas, but also features designed to attract the support of the LaFollette, Beveridge, Lenroot and Goode insurgent faction and to reflect the views of the Administration, will be ready to discuss his plan with the committee.

So far, the ways and means committee is not committed to any of the propositions.

CHILD'S CUSTODY ALTERED

Judge Revokes Will Affecting Dead
Man's 3-Year-Old Daughter.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Dec. 31.—(Special.)—Following the court arguments in the case today, Judge T. H. Brecht handed down a decision revoking that portion of Fred Lacy's will which gives the custody of his three-year-old daughter, Dorothy Dee Lacy, to his sister, Stella Lacy, and making Mrs. Nancy E. Wiseman the guardian of the person of the child.

The use of undue influence was the ground upon which the court revoked a portion of the will relating to the child's custody. The remainder, which makes Stella Lacy administrator of her brother's estate as well as guardian of his child's property, is left untouched by the court.

The fight for possession of the Lacy child, which was started in the local court several weeks ago, has attracted much interest on account of the prominence of both the Lacy and Wiseman families, who were the interested parties in the case.

115 MORE MEN INDICTED

Total of Ohio Votesellers Now 1258.
First Jail Sentences Enforced.

WEST UNION, O., Dec. 31.—The departing year was marked here by a grand jury report which returned 115 additional indictments against voters of Adams County, charging them with either bribery or acceptance of bribes in connection with the traffic in votes on November 8 last. The grand total of those indicted has reached 1258.

Judge A. Z. Blair sent five Manchester men to jail today for five months, fined them $100 each and disfranchised them for five years. These are the first jail sentences actually executed, although a suspended sentence has been hung over every one of the guilty men in the wholesale bribery investigation.

Court opened at 5:30 o'clock, the county seat being filled with voters flocking to the extreme eastern section, who had walked in, tramping all night to arrive early and make their pleas of guilty.

COMA DUE TO HEMORRHAGE

Mrs. H. E. Archibald Faints and Can't Be Aroused From Stupor.

Mrs. H. E. Archibald, of Vancouver, Wash., who fell in a faint while negotiating the purchase of a piano in a downtown store last Thursday, still remains in a comatose condition at the Good Samaritan Hospital. All efforts of the attending physicians to arouse her from the stupor have failed.

The woman's condition is due to a hemorrhage in the brain, according to Dr. E. H. Anthony. Her left side is partially paralyzed. Although the case is of a puzzling nature it is believed she will ultimately recover.

Deschutes Valley CENTRAL OREGON

No part of the United States has been so much in the public eye during the past few years as the State of Oregon, and no part of Oregon so much as the Deschutes Valley, where great irrigation interests, railroad building, water and electrical power developments, lumbering industries and the development of farms and homes is building up a magnificent commonwealth peopled by a class of progressive and intelligent citizenship. Within the boundaries of Oregon could be housed the entire New England States and still be room to spare. It is a magnificent empire of more varied and latent resources and possibilities than any section of this great nation of ours, and is today beckoning to the many who are seeking homes and investments. Almost within the geographical center of Oregon lies one of the greatest valleys of the state, a valley of magnificent possibilities and future prospects, and which is attracting the attention of more capital than probably any other equal area in the Nation. Millions of dollars are being expended in irrigation work and bringing the waters of the snow-capped Cascade Range of mountains to irrigate the hundreds of thousands of acres of fertile soil upon which many homes are to be built; two millions are being expended by other of the greatest railroad systems the country has ever known, both of which are building trunk railroads both north and south, east and west across this promising valley. Not only are they building their main lines, but arrangements are being made by these great railroad corporations to build in a number of feeders to tap each and every fertile nook and corner of the great territory tributary.

Crops Under IRRIGATION

One field of clover last year yielded hay of the value of $50 per acre; oats made as high as 85 bushels per acre; wheat, 30 to 40 bushels; and other crops accordingly. Owing to the fact that we secured contracts for sale of these places prior to the construction of the railroads, we are able to quote you prices and terms on the above-mentioned places, and many more highly-improved irrigated farms that are exceedingly low in comparison to their true value. Write for literature.

REMEMBER THAT TRAINS WILL

BE RUN INTO THIS TERRITORY
BY FEBRUARY 1ST, 1911.

CULVER JUNCTION

is the destined metropolis of this great Central Oregon country. It is situated at the junction of the Hill and Harriman railroads, and is located in the heart of 400,000 acres of the most fertile and best-developed land in the entire state. Culver Junction will be the distributing point for a territory comprising over 1,000,000 acres of agricultural land. It also lies adjacent to several billion feet of the finest yellow pine timber west of the Rocky Mountains. Climatic conditions are ideal, and with short winters of from eight to ten weeks, it makes it one of the most desirable as well as attractive localities in the entire Northwest.

Both the Hill and Harriman Railroad people realize the possibilities of this coming city and are making extensive preparations for the handling of large traffic at this point. They have, through the center of this town, a grade with a 95-foot crown, together with grade for a 450x20-foot platform, where they are going to build a magnificent union depot. They also have eight entire blocks reserved for warehouse sites, which shows that they expect to handle an immense amount of business. The farms immediately adjacent to this townsite contributed to the wheat markets of the world over 1,500,000 bushels of high-grade wheat during the past year, this being the first year that wheat has been raised for the markets at large in this territory, which justifies the conclusion that this number of bushels will be doubled and possibly trebled in the next two years.

Lots may be had in this hustling town, before the advent of the railroads, which will be in the course of thirty days, at prices ranging from $95 to $115. Terms, one-third cash, one-third six months, balance one year; no interest. These prices are liable to advance any day. Send for literature.

How to Cure Rheumatism

Prominent Doctor's Best Prescription—It Is Easily Mixed.

This is a very simple and harmless formula but it has worked wonders for all who have tried it, quickly curing chronic and acute rheumatism and back-ache. "Get one ounce of Sarsaparilla compound and one ounce of Toris compound. Then get half a pint of good whiskey and put the other two ingredients into it. Take a tablespoonful of this mixture before each meal and at bed time. Shake the bottle before using." Results are felt the first day. Many druggists have these ingredients on hand or will quickly get them from his wholesale house. Any one can mix them.

This was previously published here and many of our worst cases of rheumatism and back-ache were cured by it in a short time. The tonic effect of this treatment is also very valuable. While eradicating rheumatism it also restores vitality.
