

BOURNE GETS INTO SPEAKERSHIP FIGHT

Henchmen About State Align for Cause of Jerry Rusk.

DOUBLE MOTIVE IS SEEN

Friends of Acting Governor Bowerman Declare Senator Is Directing His Efforts Toward Eastern Oregon Man's Defeat.

While not unexpected, the hand of Senator Bourne appeared yesterday in the fight over the organization of the Legislature.

Through individual work of Bourne lieutenants and numerous telegrams from Bourne supporters throughout the state, Statement No. 1-anti-Assembly members of the House were implored to support Jerry Rusk for speaker.

While supporters of Rusk from the beginning of the contest have insisted that the House should be organized by election of a Statement-anti-Assembly man, it was not until yesterday that Bourne's hand appeared prominently in the game.

The friends of Acting-Governor Bowerman say that Bourne's activity is directed not so much toward the election of Rusk to the Speakership as to the defeat of Bowerman for President of the Senate.

Rusk's success in the contest for Speaker naturally would be an important factor in eliminating Bowerman as a candidate for President, declare Bowerman's supporters, and it is this result Bourne is seeking.

This participation by the Bourne forces has served only further to complicate the organization of the House.

A few of Eaton's supporters have elected to Rusk, Eaton, while a Statement man, nominated and elected as an Assembly candidate.

His allegiance to State No. 1 won for him the support of several Statement members. It was a part of this support that Eaton unquestionably lost to Rusk yesterday although the latter does not yet have sufficient votes to elect.

Many of Eaton's friends resent the introduction of Statement No. 1 and the Assembly as issues during the selection of speaker.

They feel furthermore that the qualifications of the rival candidates for the Speakership should be determined by the Legislature, not by the voters in the recent election and should not be agitated or considered as a factor in organizing the Legislature.

They feel furthermore that the qualifications of the rival candidates for the Speakership should be determined by the Legislature, not by the voters in the recent election and should not be agitated or considered as a factor in organizing the Legislature.

Consequently there is some ill feeling among supporters of Eaton because of the strenuous efforts being made to force them to the support of Rusk.

It should be a choice have to be made between Rusk and Thompson, they might otherwise support in preference to the Lake County man.

Thompson is enjoying the support of every available member regardless of his position on the statement or assembly questions. His friends last night made it plain that in the doubtful members Thompson is decidedly a formidable candidate for the Speakership.

Rusk's supporters late last night claimed 23 available votes. The colleagues of Eaton, however, still maintain that he has a good lead over his two competitors. They represent that Eaton has 24 members pledged and an enough contingent votes to give him the election either on the floor of the House or in a caucus.

With only 10 members in the House, the friends of Thompson smile at what they regard unfounded claims of strength by the other candidates. At midnight last night the indications favored an interesting contest between Rusk, Eaton and Thompson.

Friends of Eaton last night admitted that sufficient influence had been brought to bear on the candidates before to cause them to turn to Rusk, but they insisted that they could lose additional strength and still win out.

If Rusk becomes too formidable a candidate there is a possibility that the Eaton and Thompson forces will get together. Which of the two can show the greater strength and urge the retirement of the other is a problem.

Supporters of both Thompson and Eaton last night declared that they would go to the day ends with Senator Sellen and his friends claiming 11 votes. It is known that several of Rusk's supporters will align themselves with Thompson before they will throw their votes to Eaton, should the latter show himself the strongest candidate.

Regarding the organization of the Senate, the day ended with Senator Sellen and his friends claiming 11 votes, enough to elect, while the Bowerman people would not concede to the Menomah County man more than 11. Claims of the Sellen forces that Von der Heiden, of Jackson, and Barrett, of Washington, had joined the Sellen camp were refuted yesterday by the Senators themselves.

Von der Heiden assured personal friends that he was not pledged to either of the two candidates, while Barrett advised members of the Bowerman camp that he was still supporting Bowerman. Sinnott, who has also been covered among the Sellen supporters, yesterday informed friends that he had made no promises as to his vote on the Presidency.

Friends of Bowerman continued their efforts yesterday to secure sufficient signers to insure a caucus. Those Senators who are supporting Bowerman are in the city are said to have signed the call. The effort to get a caucus will be continued today.

The contest of the Senators and Representatives will go to Salem in a special train which has been provided by the Oregon Electric. The train will leave the company's depot, Front and Jefferson streets, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. In this way the scene of operations incident to the organization of the two houses will be transferred to the Hotel Marion, at Salem.

usual pre-session talk, for the one subject of conversation is economy. It is assumed that Howard D. Taylor, of King, will be Speaker of the House, and W. H. Faulstich, of Pierce, President of the Senate. Senators Jesse Huxtable and R. A. Hutchinson, Spokane, refuse to concede Faulstich's election. Huxtable is a candidate for the place himself.

The "dry" are caucusing, but there are only a few in attendance and some of the old-time leaders are staying out as they do not want the liquor question reopened. There will be no opposition to the election of Miles Poindexter as United States Senator.

Governor Hay says he expects the Legislature to be devoid of the bitterness of two years ago; to kill off unnecessary measures; to keep expenses to the minimum, and to put through considerable progressive and constructive legislation.

Tentative committee chairmanships to be made by Taylor give appropriations to J. H. Davis, Pierce; Congressional appointments, G. R. Webster, King; insurance, William Wray, King; railroads, E. E. Halsey, Astoria; Judiciary, E. J. Wright, King; harbors and waterways, Charles H. Ennis, King; municipalities, first class, R. E. Buchanan, Spokane; banks, banking, J. E. Leonard, Lewis; fisheries, D. E. McMillan, Whatcom; irrigation and arid lands, G. E. Dickson, Kittitas; roads, bridges, James McNeely, Pierce; revenue taxation, J. C. Hubbell, Kittitas.

Faulstich named the following committee chairmen tonight: Appropriations, J. A. Falconer, Snohomish; banks and banking, E. C. Davis, Grant; cities of the first class, R. D. Nichols, King; corporations other than municipal, A. S. Ruth, Thurston; dairy and livestock, D. S. Troy, Jefferson; education, J. D. Bassett, Adams; educational institutions, Dan Landon, Multnomah; franchises and privileges, J. W. Bryan, Kit-; fisheries, Emerson Hammer, Skagit; insurance, John A. Whalley, King; judiciary, Harry Rosenbaum, Spokane; municipalities, second class, other than first class, F. J. Allen, Yakima; railroads and transportation, D. H. Cox, Walla Walla; roads and bridges, H. O. Flahack, Lewis; state graded school and telegraphs, F. W. Allen, King.

NURSE KILLS HER CHARGE. Poison Administered by Mistake at Tacoma.

TACOMA, Wash., Jan. 7.—(Special).—The blunder of one of the training class nurses in Fannie Padlock Hospital this morning ended the life of a patient in the hospital. St. Olton was the victim.

He was a laborer employed at the St. Paul Mills and was taken to the hospital two weeks ago for stomach trouble.

While making a box of oxalic acid for sodium sulphate, the nurse gave the man an ounce of the deadly poison about 6:30 A. M. and he died in agony a few minutes afterwards.

He is interred with grief. Coroner Shaver will hold an inquest Monday. Olton was 21 and leaves no family.

HARRY TRACY AT SEANCE Dead Outlaw's Shade Laughed After He Had Forced Man to Play Several Selections on Phonograph, Declares Medium.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 7.—(Special).—At a specialist seance and so-called materialization at the home of Mrs. Maude Christopherson, 1822 Twenty-Sixth avenue, Friday night, R. L. Munson, a member of the faith and editor of the Humanitarian magazine, held a loaded revolver in his hand and commanded Patrolman J. O. Revelle, to sit down after the officer had shot the rays of an electric flashlight into the cabinet.

Patrolman Revelle took his seat and did not offer to leave the room in response to the command of the man with the gun.

"There are two more of us," shouted the patrolman over the heads of 40 persons in the room. "Put down that gun."

"Not until I find out whether the shock has killed the medium or not, will I do so, and if she is dead, you don't leave this room alive and I don't care if there are 40 policemen here," said Munson.

Munson says the spirit of Harry Tracy, the outlaw, had sided up to him and said:

"Play the 'Star-Spangled Banner' on the phonograph there," Munson complied and Tracy said:

"That's enough of that. Play The Girl I Left Behind Me."

Munson followed the suggestion. While the tune was on Tracy again appeared, according to members of the circle, and whispered into Munson's ear that a policeman was about to spring a trap.

"Tracy saw the policeman," said Munson, "and intended to knock the light out of Revelle's hand. He didn't have time, but accidentally thumped the Rev. A. J. Speckert over the head with a speaking trumpet he had been using. It fell to the floor, awoke Mr. Speckert, who was in a trance, and served to drown the noise that the officer had created. After the excitement had subsided Harry Tracy crawled on top of the cabinet and lay there laughing."

This is the remark attributed to the so-called wrath of the outlaw by Munson.
