

A STATEMENT

The only notice of suit started against me by the United States Cashier Company, that has been served upon me, is the advertisement published in this morning's Oregonian. This fact convinces me that the alleged action against me is purely an advertising bluff and typical of the methods which have been adopted by the United States Cashier Company in all of its advertising.

At the time the Potter Cashier was delivered to the United States Cashier Company that device was in perfect working order, with the exception of the Adding Mechanism, and I have the receipts of that company in proof of it. I wanted to complete the adding device before delivery was made, but the United States Cashier Company absolutely refused to allow me the required time to do so. I have repeatedly made efforts to get access to the machine for the purpose of perfecting the adding mechanism, and I have been consistently and persistently refused the opportunity to carry out that part of the work.

I stood ready to complete and perfect the adding mechanism of the Potter Cashier the moment the opportunity had been granted.

I do not propose to enter into any newspaper controversy with such a company as the United States Cashier Company has proved itself to be by the advertising methods which it has used. I merely ask the people of Portland to watch for the outcome of this interesting development.
