PORTLAND TAKES THREE IN SERIES

Beavers Beat Vernon by Score of 4 to 3, Including One Home Run.

STEEN DOES GOOD WORK

Villagers Shut Out for Six Innings but Take Advantage of Less Brilliant Play Beginning With Seventh.

BY W. J. PETRAIN.

Portland clinched the storm-shortened series by making it three out of four from Vernon yesterday when Mc-Credle's Beavers pounded Jack Raleigh for four runs, including a homer by Roger Peckinpaugh, and beat Vernon by a score of 4 to 2.

"Big Six" Steen mounted the hilltop for the home guard and for six innings he shut the Villagers out without the semblance of a hit, during which time his pais in giee piled up a quartet of aces due to the bunching of four hits including Buddy Ryan's twosmash in the third and a circuit wallop with none on the sacks by Peckinpaugh in the next session.

With this lead Steen trifled with the hearts of the fans by letting up to an extent and the Vernonites came through with three binglets in the seventh which tailted a couple of runs, and then he allowed Roy Brasher to uncork a triple in the eighth which sent another ace across for the invaders and the fans were some afixious How-ever, the old reliable best bet steadled in the ninth and closed the Hooligan bunch out runless and another victory bunch out runless and another victory was lodged in McCredle's basket. As San Francisco lost again Portland now has a lead of five full games with which to start on an invasion of the southland tonight.

With Rodgers down, Murray singled in the third, but Steen fanned, which made two out. Chadbourne outguessed Raleigh and singled and Buddy Ryan scored both Murray and "Chad" with a corking two-bagger to the flagpole. Sheehan singled and Ryan scored, but Tommy was headed off at second. The fourth brought Roger Peckinpaugh's fourth brought Roger Peckinpaugh's long homer which eventually proved te winning run.

The Beavers and the Vernonites hook up in the final game of the present home stand of the Portland team this afternoon and Harry Panwell will pitch for Portland against Brackenridge for ernon. The official score of yester-

DE NEFFE MYSTIFIES SOLDIERS

Multnomah Nine Defeats First In fantry Team, 9 to 0.

With Southpaw De Neffe working nicely, the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club baseball team yesterday shut out the First Infantry team from Vancouver Barracks on Multnomah Field. The score was 9 to 0, Several Multnomah men deserted the team at the last moment and a makeshift outfield was used. However, good support was given Pitcher De Neffe. De Neffe.

The soldiers were able to get only four hits off De Neffe. In addition they "booted" the ball five times when it counted. Multnomah made one error counted. Multnoman made one error and got seven hits. One run was scored in the first inning, two in the fourth, two in the fifth, and four in the sixth inning. Hemphill and Cashatt replaced Schreibe and Bladen as battery in the sixth inning. De Neffe struck out nine batters, while the two Vancouver twirlers fanned eight clubmen. The players were:

STEEN started as if after a record game, for he did not allow a hit for six innings. In the seventh Patterson opened with a single, and then Stinson and McDoneil did likewise.

When the Hooligans were finding Steen in this lively fashion, Hogan amused the right field bleacherites by all kinds of ludicrous gyrations, but his work went for naught.

When the Vernon crew manipulated a couple of scores across in the sev-enth Hogan sent out a hurry call for Roy Hitt to warm up and sent Johnny Kane in to bat for Raleigh, but once Johnny falled in a pinch and poped to Rodgers.

Buddy Ryan yesterday again demonstrated that he is not bothered much by left-handed pitching this year, for he pulled down drives off Raleigh, and his second hit was a two-bagger which brought over the first two runs for the Peckinpaugh's homer was a beauty. for the ball sailed high over the right field fence west of the flagpole, and there was no doubt of its character as soon as it left the bat. Even the Ver-non players realized and Stinson and Carlisle made no effort to chase it. Artie Krueger registered two two-baggers yesterday in successive trips to the plate, and both were scored off different pitchers. Krueger's first double was made off Raleigh in the sixth, and his second off Roy Hitt in the eighth.

Both Sheehan and Murray muffed foul flies in the third inning yester-days and immediately after each one Steen fanned the batter. The victims were Brown and Raleigh. Brown fouled to Sheehan, who dropped the ball, and the pitcher gave Murray a chance.

The "Roadsters" dropped another game by failing down in the eighth inning. Up to that time Bloomfield had Vancouver shut out, but he went up in the air and allowed four hits which gave three runs, a lead Portland was unable to overcome was unable to overcome.

Frank Archer and Irving Gough have been waived by the other Pacific Coast League clubs and will join Nick Williams' Northwestern League team to-morrow. Gough will fill in nicely in Williams' weak hitting outfield, while Archer ought to make good as a

The Oakland club seems to have put the San Francisco team on the ham-mer just as Portland did the Oaks sev-eral weeks ago. The Scals have been losing to Los Angeles in the nicest and most gratifying most gratifying manner of late, for the victories of the Angels insures first place for at least a day or two.

Amos Rusie is going to officiate as umpire in Portland commencing to-morrow, when the Roadsters and Vancouver open the Northwestern League season here. If Rusie can umpire as well as he could pitch some years ago he will become famous. Here is hoping he gets off well and makes a success of the job.

Portland Unable to Pull Out of Bad Holes Though Bloomfield Pitches Clever Ball in Tight Places. Brashear Is Ejected.

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 6.—(Special.)—A triple by Harris and a single by Speas in the first half of the eighth by Speas in the first half of the eighth inning permitted Portland to break into the run column for the first time in today's game at Recreation Park, and with Bloomfield pitching airtight ball that one run was awful good, but Vancouver came back in her half of the round with a belated batting rally after two were out that made the spectators deliriously happy. The score was 3 to 2.

After Adams and Bennett had fallen easy victims to Bloomfield four bats-men stepped to the plate and hit safely. Lewis, Harrison, Streib and Charney singled in turn and two runs scored. Spiesman hit a fast grounder to Men-sor, who fumbled the ball, and another run was in, which proved to be the winning tally.

Rally Ends Disastrously.

In Portland's half of the ninth singled and Ort hit for two Mensor scoring. Harris and were easy outs and the rally ended right there.

Engle outpitched Bloomfield and allowed but two hits in the first seven innings. Bloomfield was hit freely and was lucky in getting out of some bad holes. The game was featured by much squabbling between the players of both teams and Umpire Shackleford. Manager Kitty Brashear was ejected from the connection to the connection of the co from the game early in the proceedings, and half a dozen other players should have received the same treatment, the umpire allowing their kicking to become almost farcical at times.

QUIET BUT FAST PLAYER

Portland Right Fielder Breaks into Professional Game in New England League at 20 Years of Age.

BY W. J. PETRAIN. One day last week a prominent Portland fan, who halls from the State of Maine, hailed Walter McCredle and importuned him for an introduction to Chester Chadbourne, Portland's new right fielder, expressing a desire to inquire as to Chadbourne's antecedents, having known a family by that name before coming to Oregon.

"If you can find out anything about "If you can find out anything about Chad, you can do better than I," replied McCredie. "He is the king of silence." Chadbourne is quiet and unassuming by nature, but he is not as silent as the manager's remark would indicate, though he seldom joins in conversation. When he does his remarks are always pertiant to the situation. On tion. When he does his remarks are always pertinent to the situation. On the baseball field Chadbourne is in the game every minute. He is studying the situation and trying to figure the opposing batter while he is in the outfield, and trying to outguess the pitcher while at bat. And he is some ballplayer, whether he outguesses them or not. A native of Guidford, Me., ("Chad" calls it "Gliford, State o' Maine,") and we have to let it go at that. He took a fancy to baseball while a small boy and played the game on the grammar and "prep." school teams when in his "teens. Always speedy on his feet, he 'teens. Always speedy on his feet, he soon became noted as one of the fastest amateur players around his home town and he frequently made trips to Port-land, Augusta and Bangor with his school and amateur teams.

He Becomes Professional at 20.

In 1906, when barely 20 years of age, In 1906, when barely 20 years of age, Chadbourne decided to cast his lot in professional baseball, as the management of the Worcester Club, of the New England League, heard of him and made him a nice offer to join that team. He made such a great showing with that club by hitting 227 and fielding in grand style in 114 games that he was sold to the Providence club, of the Eastern League.

He was equally successful with Providence and was sold to the Boston American League team in the Fall of 1997, and the next Spring that club

1907, and the next Spring that club turned him over to the Baltimore team of the Eastern League. In 1908, Chad played 103 games with Baltimore, but he was out of the game for a long period through an injured ankle, and the next season he was traded to In-dianapolis in the American Association.

Chadbourne played with Indianapolis in 1909, when that club finished fourth, after having won the pennant the previous year. Charley Carr, an intimate friend to Chadbourne, was manager of the club, and in 1919, after Chadbourne again injured his ankle and things commenced to break badly for the Hoosiers, Carr's job became shaky and, just before he was let out, he handed just before he was let out, he handed Chadbourne his unconditional release, which gave the present member of the Portland team the privilege of sign-

Providence Claimed Him. While in Chicago last Fall Manager McCredie was informed that Chad-bourne was a free lance and immediately wired the player to submit his terms to Portland. McCredie and Chad-bourne reached an agreement by wire, and the Portland leader returned home satisfied in landing a fine player. On his arrival home McCredie was notified that the Providence club of the Eastern League claimed Chadbourne and the Portland leader immediately ap-pealed to the National Board of Arbi-tration with the result that Chester J.

Chadbourne, or Guildford, Me., became a member of the Portland team.

From the time this speedy, though quiet, outfielder joined the squad at Santa Maria, he became a popular favorite with the team, and in the three weeks the Beavers have been three weeks the Beavers have been home he has made himself solid with the fans. "Chad" may not talk much, and he may not rag and nag at the umpires, but he can play "some" baseball and that is what endears him to the fans. Here is hoping this quiet, gentlemanly player plays here as long as we would like to have him which as we would like to have him, which will be as long as he chooses to play
