COMMANDER WEBSTER A. EDGAR

NEW YORK, May 20.—(Special.)—Charles C. Moore has been chosen to head the great exposition that will be held in San Francisco in 1915 in celebration of the completion of the Panama Canal. Mr. Moore for some time has been a resident of New York, although he recognizes San Francisco as his home.

has been selected to superintend the Naval Academy at Annapolis. Theodore K. Vall is president of the American Telegraph & Telephone Company, the so-called "telegraph trust."

NEW YORK WONDERS AT STRANGEST SLAYER, WHO CRIES FOR PUNISHMENT

Mrs. George O'Shaughnessy, Who Committed Premeditated Crime, May Never See Sing Sing—When Husband Threatened to Commit Suicide, Woman, Devout Catholic, Kills Husband, Whose Soul She Says She Saved.

NEW YORK, May 20.—(Special.)—All New York is interested in little Mrs. George O'Shaughnessy, the strangest murderess ever locked up in the Tombs. Although her crime was premeditated, the chances are that she will never be punished.

inadequate to properly punish certain offenses.

a book in the hands of a fellow-dealer, but when once he has got it sold and got the money, it is "professional ethics" to mock at the buyer.

The woman has only been married a year. Then her husband showed marked attention to a young girl, and the wife reproved him. There were a number of arguments and finally the husband announced that he would commit suicide.

Now that the How sale is over, certain eminent authorities on books and bindings are coming to the front with the announcement that certain of the volumes disposed of there are spurious. One man when asked why he did not make the charge during the sale, replied:

Decision Fixes "Swindlers." A recent decision of the United States Court of Appeals has put a "crimp" into a swindle which usually flourishes around this season of the year.

Now Mrs. O'Shaughnessy is a devout Catholic and the threat terrified her. According to her belief, if her husband took his own life, his soul would be lost forever. So to save him from this fate, she plucked up a revolver and shot him to death. Then, having saved her husband's soul, she surrendered to the officers of the law and demanded to be executed with a little delay as possible.

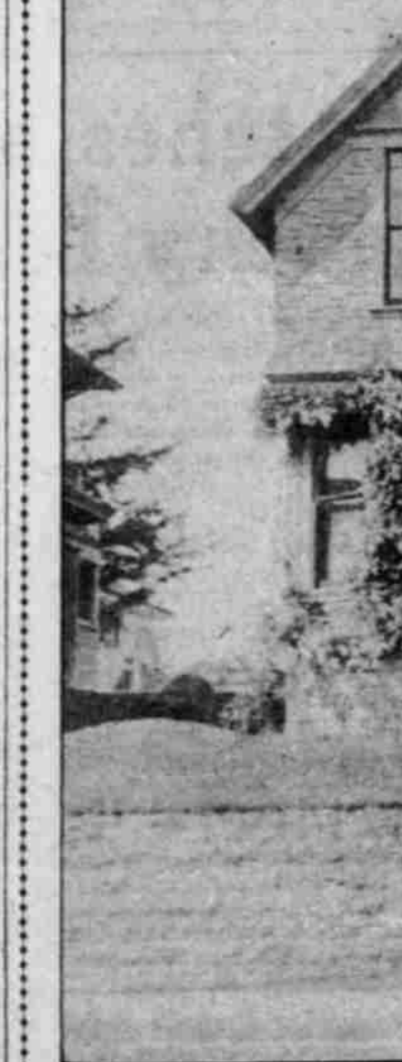

"It is not ethical in our business to say anything about a sale until the sale is over. Frequently frauds and imitations are sold, but we do not speak of them until the conclusion of the sale, because it might work an injustice and affect many things that are genuine."

Tricksters have reaped a harvest in former years. Usually they advertise in such a way that purchasers believe they are buying in a valuable suburb or seashore resort. If it is for example, St. James, the famous colony of actors, the "ad" will read: "St. James' Manor Park, St. James, Long Island." Investors, of course, think they are getting a tract in a dismal swamp, 10 or 15 miles inland, and with absolutely no facilities.

More Surprises Come.

Even after she was locked up the woman continued to astonish the officials. She had about $200 and invested part of it in a beautiful floral piece, bearing the inscription "My Beloved Husband." Then she requested that she be let out of prison long enough to go to the funeral. This being denied, she sent what was left of her money to a priest with a note in which she said, in part:

It is a deplorable form of robbery, because most of the victims are poor persons, who are attracted by the small payments asked, and see a chance to get a homestead at reasonable rates. It has been figured that in previous Summers fully $1,000,000 has been taken in annually by these swindlers, and heretofore the victims have had absolutely no redress, as the crooks were always careful to give them a "deed," although the property was utterly worthless. Now that misrepresentation is illegal, the operators stand on the same plane as goldbrick men, and are in danger of arrest every day.

Jerome's Brother Let Out.

Incoming tourists will miss Colonel Lovell H. Jerome, who in the past has been the most prominent person on the revenue cutters that went down the bay to meet the liners.

Detectives who have investigated the case say that the murder has many peculiar features. The killers were had it, not been that O'Shaughnessy threatened to kill himself, he would have been alive today. The wife was ready to forgive him for running around with the other woman, but when he hinted at suicide, she determined that the one important thing was to save his soul.

District Attorney Whitman frankly expresses himself as puzzled over the case. The woman shows no signs of insanity, she is simply a very devout Catholic. The chances are, however, that she will be sent to an asylum. It is doubtful if a jury would even convict her of manslaughter, but it is so walky that a Judge would free her.

Judge Poster "Gayed."

Judge Warren W. Foster, the most dignified and learned member of the Court of General Sessions, has been "gayed" by his associates recently to an extent that makes him yearn for the Summer vacation. And the trouble was all caused by John Smeld, a putty-faced Hungarian pastrycook on a Cuneo liner.

For the force at this port has been reorganized, and the genial brother of former District Attorney William Travers Jerome has been let out.

Jerome was Uncle Sam's official "greeter." He was assigned to meet distinguished foreign visitors, to whom special courtesies were to be shown, and to look after the comfort of passengers generally. Jerome was extremely popular and will be missed by the veteran travelers who always took their troubles to him. He is a West Point graduate, and for a time served in the Army, but has been connected with the custom service in various capacities since the late sixties.

HOME OF J. C. STUART, 271 HALSEY STREET, SHOWING WISTARIA IN FULL BLOOM.

Japanese wistaria thrives in Portland's climate. A wistaria vine now in full bloom is attracting much attention at the home of J. C. Stuart, 271 Halsey street. Mr. Stuart obtained the root 15 years ago from the old smuggling steamer, Hayfina Republic, which had just arrived from Japan, and other roots were obtained at the same time by James Laddie, British Consul, and J. C. Robinson. Mr. Stuart's wistaria is now blooming in its greatest profusion, and the blossoms are blue and white. It is at its best only for a week or two.
