SOCIETY

INFORMAL affairs have dotted the week's calendar, the death of the well-beloved daughter of Judge and Mrs. Charles H. Carey, Miss Louise, causing a depression which simply made entertaining out of the question.

Miss Carey's wedding to Harold M. Sawyers was to have been one of the most brilliant functions of the year, and the felicity with which the coming event was regarded was replaced by a deep seated grief which even the presence of charming visitors could not dispel.

Sympathy has been extended to the family and to Mr. Sawyer, all of whom are possessed of a wide circle of friends.

* * *

Young fiancees who are being overwhelmed with felicitations are Miss Lessie Leadbetter, whose engagement to Harland Wentworth, of Minneapolis, Minn., was announced in these columns last Sunday, and Miss Helen Smith, whose betrothal to Dr. F. John Besson, formerly of Philadelphia and now of Portland, this engagement appearing in last Sunday's issue also.

Miss Leadbetter is a prominent tennis player and her fiance, Mr. Wentworth, is also a devotee of the court game.

Miss Smith plays, too, but has not served as long an apprenticeship as Miss Leadbetter, so the tennis court is not responsible for her courtship. Dan Cupid having called Dr. John Besson's attention to Miss Smith when she was in a Grecian class play at Miss Marshall's seminary, Philadelphia.

Miss Leadbetter will become Mrs. Wentworth in October and Miss Smith will marry Dr. Besson in the following month. Both young women are intimate friends and revealed their engagements at the same time.

Miss Emilie Frances Bauer invited a group of friends to the home of her mother, Madame Julia Bauer, Tuesday afternoon, on which occasion Miss Bauer delivered an address on Walt Whitman. As Miss Bauer has made an extensive study of Whitman and his philosophy, she treated the subject with energy and conviction. She has been so highly complimented on her presentation of the subject and her English diction, those not fortunate enough to be present have obtained a promise from Miss Bauer to repeat the lecture soon. One purpose of Miss Bauer's address was to correct the impression that Whitman was a vulgarian, and she explained that he was only representing truth and nature truthfully.

She elucidated his philosophy—a vast love of nature, extraordinary honesty, a completely unvarnished attitude toward life and its conventionalities—and justified his attitude wth a warm defense.

Among those accepting Miss Bauer's hospitality were Mrs. Holt C. Wilson, Mrs. Walter F. Burrell, the Misses Hirsch, Mrs. Joseph Ehrman, of San Francisco; Mrs. Max Fleischner, Mrs. Lewis Russell, Mrs. Robert Strong, Mrs. Arthur Johnson, Miss Celia Friendly, Miss Sadie Friendly, Mrs. Henry Metzger, Mrs. Emma B. Carroll, Mrs. Henry Ottenheimer, Miss Genevieve Thompson, Miss German Germaine Samuels, Mrs. Edgar B. Piper, Mrs. F. M. Rothchild, Miss Bella Falk, of Boise, Idaho, and Mrs. Elder.

Miss Bauer will pass the coming week at Seaside.

A delightful motor tour extending over a month through British Columbia and Northern Washington has just been completed by Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Riley and daughter, Ruth, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Riley and small son, Billy. From Portland the party motored to Tacoma and Seattle, where several days were enjoyed at the country clubs of the two cities and the neighboring Summer retreats. By easy stages the journey was continued northward to New Westminster and Vancouver, B. C., and as the car was shipped to Vancouver Island a week was enjoyed in Victoria and the resorts were reached by the provincial roads.

Returning to Seattle by boat and getting a glimpse of the Potlatch, the party continued to Tacoma, and thence to the Mount Rainier National Park, remaining there several days before returning home. They bring enthusiastic accounts of Rainier National Park and are more than anxious to have tourists compare the beauties of Mount Hood with the Washington peak.

* * *

Miss V'Ona Guthrie complimented her house guest, Miss Nathalie Wheeler, of Hackensack, N. J., with a tea Tuesday at the home of her mother, Mrs. R. H. Guthrie, on Everett street. The guests to the number of half a hundred were received by Mrs. Guthrie, who wore white marquisette over yellow messaline. Miss Wheeler, whose gown was white over pink silk, with with black velvet garnitures, and Miss Guthrie, who wore pink chiffon cloth.

Also assisting were Mrs. Kenneth Mackenzie, Mrs. L. S. Weaver (nee Guthrie), Miss Janet Noble and Miss Lillian Buehner.

GOSSIP FROM THE ARMY POST

General and Mrs. Marion P. Maus entertained at dinner Saturday in honor of Colonel and Mrs. Sidney Taylor, who are going to make Washington, D. C., their future home. At the other covers were Colonel and Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Loughborough, Captain Buttner, Captain Carey and Captain and Mrs. Foneo. The table was decorated with pink sweet pea blossoms.

* * *

No mid-Summer ennui is noticeable at the Post, the days being replete with large and small events for out-of-town guests or for the members of the Army who are planning trips. Colonel and Mrs. Sidney Taylor are to go East with their daughter, Miss Taylor, and make their home in the National Capital. For these popular Post folk, a dance was given Saturday evening by officers of the Artillery and women of the Barracks. Many Portland guests were bidden to the hop.

* * *

Another interesting subject which keeps society on the qui vive is the Polo Club, which is to play the Portland Club at the Garrison grounds today.

* * *

This week's calendar indicates that little leisure will be accorded society women of the Post. Among those who have announced themselves hostesses is Mrs. E. H. Yule, who is to give a bridge afternoon Wednesday. The event is complimentary to Mrs. Stewart, of Plainfield, N. J.

* * *

Another hostess is Mrs. Charles H. Clark, who will also entertain with bridge. She has chosen Tuesday afternoon for her party.

* * *

For the largest social afternoon of the week, Mrs. E. H. Yule was sponsor, her tea Tuesday including all the women of the Post. It was to compliment Mrs. Stewart, of Plainfield, N. J., who, with Miss Pauline Sandford, is a house guest of Mrs. Yule. The rooms were decorated with red sweet peas.
