NEW OFFICERS ELECTED

Mount Vernon Chosen as Meeting
Place of Press Association in 1912—Resolutions Thank for Entertainment Provided.

PACIFIC BEACH, Wash., Aug. 5.—(Special.)—The 25th annual convention of the Washington Press Association today concluded one of its most successful gatherings at Pacific Beach, selecting Mount Vernon as the next place of meeting.

The following officers were elected: President, Fred O. Jones, Mount Vernon; Vice-President, Arthur A. Smith, Port Angeles; Secretary, Fred Spear, Waterbury; Treasurer, Louis Jacobson, Concrete; Editor, G. F. McCann, Castle Rock; Correspondent, Thomas Crawford, Centralia; Chronicle, orator, John L. Wilson, Seattle; Post-Intelligencer, poet, Albert Johnson, Hoquiam; Washingtonian, executive committee, E. E. Hazard, Vancouver; Columbian, E. A. Hazeltine, South Bend; Journal, W. B. Jessup, Bremerton; Searchlight, J. B. Best, Everett; Herald, and Edith Tozier Weathered, Tacoma.

Engine Thrown Off Track.

The convention arrived here on a special train from Hoquiam after being delayed by a near-wreck, when the engine killed a bull, which threw the locomotive from the track.

During the afternoon the members and their wives were entertained at the home of George H. Emerson, where a light luncheon was served. During the afternoon Superintendent W. C. Albee, of the Northern Pacific, entertained Deed H. May, president of the association; A. A. Smith, secretary; and Mrs. Smith; William Pitt Trimble, candidate for Governor, and L. H. Gray, of Seattle, at dinner in his private car. President May was late in calling the meeting to order and the crowd went to Mr. Albee's car, where they discussed Mr. Albee's attempt to name the Governor on a sidetrack, as John L. Wilson said, was done several years ago.

Home Attracts Visitors.

The residence of Mr. Emerson is a typical lumberman's palace, situated on a cedar knoll which is one of the natural beauties of the surroundings left to make it interesting and rustic, and yet with all the advantages of civilization, and free publicity for the campaign against tuberculosis. Resolutions of thanks were adopted for the good time shown them, including the commercial organization of Hoquiam and Aberdeen, the Grays Harbor and State Press, Grays Harbor & Light Company, Neil Conner, of Cosmopolis. The members of the association pledged that when they returned to their home papers to make their readers "hear Hoquiam hum," and if they are bound to move, "anchor at Aberdeen," and "never leave Cosmopolis."

BORAH MAKES PROTEST

Idaho Senator Believes Public Lands
Should Produce.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Aug. 5.—Senator Borah of Idaho, while in sympathy with a Government policy of conservation that aims at the prevention of monopoly and improper use of natural resources, is much opposed to conservation that results in non-use; he is not in favor of the making of blanket withdrawals which withhold desirable lands from entry and development. Holding such a view, he has entered vigorous protest against a blanket withdrawal which has tied up a big area in the Snake River Valley. So obnoxious is this withdrawal, that he has written the Secretary of the Interior in protest. In his letter he says:

Settlement Is Discouraged.

"The result of this withdrawal has necessarily discouraged settlement and placed a cloud upon the title of all unpatented Government land entries, even though made prior to the withdrawal. It is true that the law provides a method by which the settler or land owner can have his land excluded, but it is a long, tedious, expensive method and results in hardship to those whom I know it is not the desire of the Administration to embarrass.

Typical Instance Cited.

"It is difficult to one who has not come in actual contact with such things to know the great detriment to the state which it occasions. I had occasion a few days ago to examine a homestead entry and it was covered with four blanket withdrawals. Such things are as conclusive against settlement as if settlement were forbidden.

"The difficulty with these withdrawals is that they injure the settler, the man of small, limited means more than any one else, and, as I have said above, I feel that it is not the desire of the Administration to injure that class of people. Hence, I take the liberty of bringing the matter to your attention.

Early Relief Asked.

"May I ask, therefore, that the department give as immediate attention to this situation as possible? It affects the interests of not only a large number of people, but the interests of the whole state. No objection is being made, or will be made, to the withdrawal that have any basis in fact, to a withdrawal that actually covers coal lands or actually covers power sites.

FRUITS ARE ABUNDANT

ALL KINDS BUT MELONS AND CANTALOUPES WORK OFF.

Latter Sell at Buyers' Prices in the Seattle Market—Spring
Chickens a Drug.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 5.—(Special.)—Trading was brisk in all departments of the produce markets today. While receipts of small fruits were heavy, dealers were for the most part able to work off the supply of ripe fruit. There were two exceptions, however, watermelons and cantaloupes. Buyers had their own way with both these commodities. Prices covered too wide a range to establish a market.

Tomatoes have cleaned up. Berries were in good demand at $1.15 to $1.25. Green corn was plentiful and lower. Good cucumbers were scarce at 40 cents to 50. Beans sold slowly at 7 to 8 cents. Celery is now arriving more freely and quoted 15 cents and up per dozen. The potato market was easy at 2 cents.

The price of spring chickens will be cut to 15 cents at county shipping points next week. This cut, dealers hope, will result in smaller shipments. A heavy stock of spring chickens was carried over tonight. Plenty of fresh local ranch eggs are arriving. In a small way an effort was made today to obtain 33 cents for the best. The cheese market was firm. An advance in the near future would occasion no surprise. The wheat market was strong with full prices offered for all varieties. Oats and barley were also firm. Vigorous buying in the country is largely responsible for the strength of the market. Hay was easier. Receipts are surprisingly heavy. The price of export flour was advanced to 55 per barrel. Miller's agents are selling for October delivery, most plants having sold about all the flour they can grind during August and September.

UNION NOT RECOGNIZED

Southern Pacific Refused to Deal
With Organization in Shops.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—The Southern Pacific Railway Company, in a statement given out today by F. G. Athearn, head of the Department of Economics, officially refused recognition to the newly organized "Federal Union of Shop Employees" of the Harborman lines, and will continue to deal with separate classes as heretofore. Mr. Athearn said that the building of fences around the shops at Oakland and San Jose was merely a coincidence and had nothing to do with the new demands. Notices containing the statement of the federation's demands, and have been sent out from here to be posted in all of the shops of the system.

ALBANY, Or., Aug. 5.—(Special.)—That her husband threw a pail of milk against her face when she asked him to stop beating a gentle cow is an allegation made by Terrance Crabtree in a complaint for divorce filed in the State Circuit Court here today against Martin Crabtree. The wife also alleges that he told her he "would tear her all to pieces before morning and that he would just as leave kill her as a rattlesnake."

Albany Militia Officers Promoted.

ALBANY, Or., Aug. 5.—(Special.)—Second Lieutenant Propst has been promoted to be First Lieutenant, and Frank M. Powell, Sergeant, has been appointed Second Lieutenant of Company G, Fourth Infantry, Oregon National Guard, of this city. Both have passed their examinations and were commissioned on August 1st. They have served a number of years in the Guard, and have been prominent in the local company. Lieutenant Powell is Deputy Postmaster of Albany and also head constable of the Oregon state camp of Modern Woodmen of America.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 5.—(Special.)—John Stevens, of Albany, engineer for the Coville & Eastern, was today appointed construction engineer of the new levee for the Eastern Oregon Branch Insane Hospital at Pendleton. The levee will be of reinforced concrete and will be constructed for the protection of the asylum property from flood waters of the Umatilla River.

WISNER ATTACKS STATE FISH BOARD

Warden Clanton Is Accused of Political Wirepulling
by ex-Official.

OPINION IGNORED, HE SAYS

Cry of Economy Is Denounced as Farce by Man Who Was Legislated
Out of Office—Hatcheries
Will Suffer by Action, Hint.

OREGON CITY, Aug. 5.—(Special.)—Declaring that Master Fish Warden R. E. Clanton discriminated against him and did not rest until he had succeeded in abolishing the office of State Superintendent of Hatcheries, J. N. Wisner, who was legislated out of that office a few weeks ago, this afternoon said that the new State Fish and Game Commission, recently appointed by Governor West, is deep in the mire of politics, and that the actions of the Commission and the Master Fish Warden prove that he (the superintendent) would not have to take orders from me.

Treatment Is Resented.

"When Clanton took me to Astoria, he left me in hotels and ante-rooms while he talked to people who were interested in hatchery work, and that trip was the end of all the work Clanton ever gave me or allowed me to do. He said Game Warden Finley wanted me to help with the office work. I asked for work on many occasions, for a chance to handle the fish cultural records, to be permitted to take up investigations and to visit stations. Clanton let me take one trip to Bonanza, but said if I went to other stations, the men would quit.

Methods Are Scored.

"The truth of the matter is the State Fish and Game Commission are not after the services of a fish culturist. They do not want the knowledge of a man who has spent years in the department of fish culture of the United States Bureau of Fisheries. Both the Master Fish Warden and the State Game Warden are being indulged in the department of fish culture of the State. The information furnished by Mr. Finley's office for the envelopes have his name and address on them. The state's money is being cheerfully spent in indolence and idleness. The Commission gives out that the office of State Superintendent of Hatcheries was abolished for reasons of economy. The Clanton-Finley press bureau may result in the construction of an impregnable personal machine, but little else worth paying for and I do not believe the sportsman and farmers will pay for it gladly."

VANCOUVER, Wash., Aug. 5.—(Special.)—"When is a dividend not a dividend?" is a question that has been solved by Peter Flynn, of Vancouver. Nearly two years ago a manufacturing company was organized in Vancouver, and Flynn invested in the enterprise, which showed promise of becoming a profitable industry. Later, the president of the concern, Dr. Francis Stewart, disappeared with some of the cash of the company. He was sent to the penitentiary and a receiver took over the affairs of the defunct company.

PICKNICKERS ROUTED BY ANGRY YELLOWS

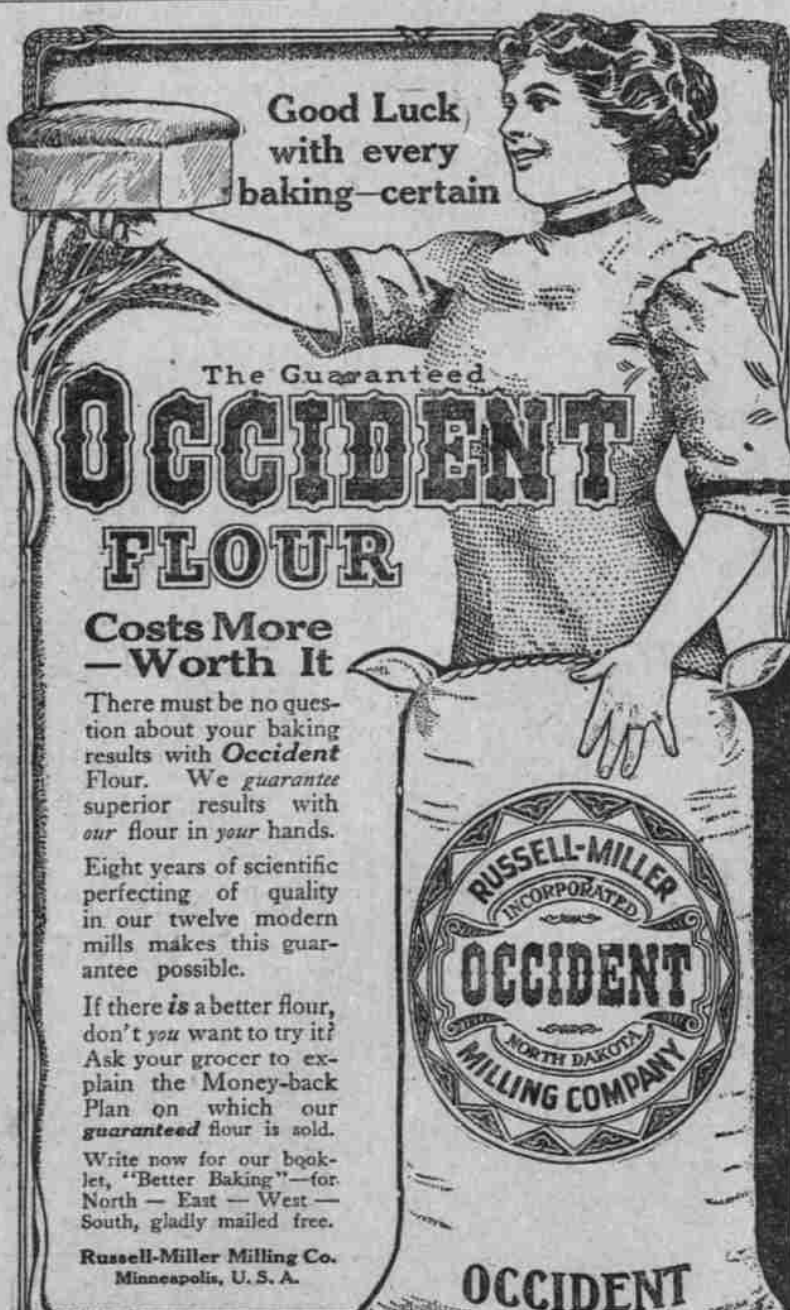

Jackets and 13 Persons Are Wounded by Insects.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Aug. 5.—(Special.)—Uninvited yellowjackets which attended a picnic party last night given to members of the choir and friends of St. Paul's English Lutheran Church, on Burnt Bridge Creek, painfully stung 13 persons under the trees. When supper was finished and the lunch baskets packed, it was suggested that a game called "the last couple out" be played in the meadow. The 50 pleasure-seekers took their position and had been playing a few minutes when Mrs. W. S. T. Derr cried out that something had stung her, and an snave was telling her husband she was stung again. She died in terror. About the same time, Miss Marion Genge shrieked in pain, and almost swooned. Immediately others began to scream and run from the scene, and it was discovered that a big yellowjacket's nest had been disturbed and hundreds were swarming around the picnicers, stinging everyone possible.

The entire party retreated across the field in disorder, finally managing to escape the yellowjackets. As they stopped to get their breath, Carl Luschner was pained to have one crawl inside his trouser leg and sting him twice on the knee before he could kill it.
