ONLY TWO LEFT TO GUARD LONE LIGHT

Accidents at Tillamook Rock Reduce Corps of Four Keepers to Pair.

INJURED ARE TAKEN AWAY

Food Sparse at Isolated Point, Chinese Cook Tosses Meat and Vegetables to Men—All-Day and All-Night Watch Kept.

Two men are keeping lonely vigil, watch and watch, on Tillamook Rock, the lighthouse crew of four having been reduced one-half in two weeks by separate accidents.

Both of the injured men were taken off by the Tillamook steamer Sue H. Elmore on separate trips, and one was left at Bay City and the other at Astoria.

According to statements by the men on the rock, no tender has called recently, and some of their provisions were running low. Captain Shrader, of the Elmore, gave them a sack of potatoes, and the Chinese cook tossed a roast of veal and some vegetables into the boat on the occasion of the Elmore's last stop there.

The first accident on the rock occurred August 2, when Tom Jones, assistant keeper, fell from the derrick, which he was painting, a distance of 35 feet, to the hard rock, sustaining terrible injuries.

The Elmore, coming by a few hours later, was hailed and requested to take a message to the Lighthouse Inspector asking that a tender be sent out at once to take Jones ashore. Captain Shrader responded with an offer to take him on the Elmore to the Bay City hospital at once, thus obviating the delay which would be entailed by waiting for a tender, and the offer was accepted.

The transfer of the wounded man was accomplished under conditions that thrilled landsmen aboard the steamer. The sufferer was placed on an improvised float and this was windlassed down the steep side of the rock on the tramway used to hoist supplies. Then the crane was brought into play and Jones, in a boat with two lighthouse men, was swung on his float far out over the water and lowered to the waves. This boat was rowed to the Elmore's side and hoisted up on the davits, after which the injured man was lowered down to the deck. He was placed in a sanitarium at Bay City, where he lingers unconscious most of the time.

On passing the rock on her next return trip, which was last Thursday, the Elmore was hailed again, and again was asked to take aboard an injured member of the lighthouse crew. This case was less serious, and the man was left at Astoria. He had been sick about a week, following his injury.

WOMEN ARE SAVED EASIER

Skirts Give Fair Sex Advantage Over Men in Water.

"Women have a far better chance of being rescued from the water than men," says Hugh Brady, the city official lifesaver. "I have known a woman to float on the water for hours, without knowing how to swim."

Buoyancy gained from the air held in skirts is the explanation Brady offers for the difference.

He relates one instance coming under his observation, where a woman threw herself from the old Stark-street ferry and could have been rescued easily, had not a well-meaning swimmer attempted to support her to shore. The moment he grasped her the air was forced out of her garments and when she fought as panic-stricken persons will when drowning, he was forced to release her, and she sank.

"That is why Mabel Monto's body was recovered nearly 100 miles from Oregon slough," said Brady, "while Frisco Day, who was thrown from the same automobile into the river, never came to the surface. The woman floated until the current bore her into the broad river, but Day went down like a plummet and undoubtedly is now buried in the sand within a few feet of where the fatal automobile was brought to the surface."

HARBOR CONDITIONS OBSERVED

Rogue Mouth Low Water Depth Is Reported to Be Three Feet.

Reports upon the condition of harbor entrances along the Oregon Coast were made public yesterday by John McNulty, United States hydrographer, from Coquille, Siuslaw and Rogue River.

The observer at the mouth of the Rogue River reports a low water depth of three feet on the bar and a shift in progress to southward. At Siuslaw the depth is 6½ feet, the channel is stationary and the aids to navigation are in good condition. Coquille reports a depth of nine feet, the channel well to the south, with a sand spit forming along the north jetty for 200 or 400 feet beyond the end of the jetty. The aids to navigation are in good order.

WIRELESS TO TAB WEATHER

Forecaster Beals to Map Calmest Zone Along Coast.

Wireless reports from vessels passing up and down the coast will be used by District Forecaster Beals to map out a zone of comparative calm for coastwise vessels, if the completed figures show that such a strip exists.

The records will be kept for a year, and at the end of that time will be tabulated according to the latitude and longitude of the reporting vessel, and it is hoped that the figures will demonstrate that somewhere close inshore there is a track where winds and currents present less difficulty than elsewhere.

In furtherance of the plan, the forecaster is urging all ship captains to report by wireless at frequent intervals.

KOAN MARU IS IN HARBOR

Japanese Oak Is Cargo—Big Nipponese Merchant Abroad.

With over 4000 logs of Japanese oak, amounting to 1,400,000 board feet, the Japanese steamship Koan Maru moored at the Banfield dock yesterday morning and will begin discharging at once.

The vessel met severe weather soon after leaving the Japan coast, and took 19 days to make the trip across. She brought Kitamura Shigeshi, head of a large mercantile firm, who will tour the Coast cities and study commercial conditions.

Washington Put on Coos Run.

MARSHFIELD, Or., Aug. 12.—(Special.)—It is announced that the steamer Washington is to be put on a regular run between Coos Bay and San Francisco. She is expected here from the latter port in a few days. The vessel will carry about 60 passengers and will also carry freight. It is understood the Washington will carry coal from the Beaver Hill mine, owned by the Southern Pacific, and will also carry lumber from North Bend.

Cargo Keeps Craft Afloat.

Supported only by the lumber in her hold pressing against her deck beds, the steamer San Jacinto, which was towed into the river Friday by the tug Cudahy, arrived up yesterday and was moored at the St. Johns drydock. She is drawing 21 feet of water and is believed to be seriously damaged. The injury was received near the Grays Harbor jetty. She will be lifted on the drydock Monday.

Bark Reported Chartered.

The French bark Charles Gounod, which sailed from London for this port July 15, is reported to have been chartered in transit, but none of the shipping firms was able to say yesterday which firm had engaged the vessel.

Steamer Leggett Departs.

After discharging her cargo of cement, the steamer F. H. Leggett left down the river yesterday morning to take a return cargo of lumber at Tongue Point.

GOVERNMENT STEPS IN FEDERAL COURT TO TAKE UP SILETZ HOMICIDE CASE.

Uncle Sam Hearkens to Complaint of No Prosecution and Revives Case Against Slayer.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 12.—(Special.)—Threatening letters sent several months ago from the Siletz reservation, aimed at the prosecution of offenses there, are evidently bearing fruit. Colonel E. Hofer, of this city, who has just returned from that vicinity, says the Federal Government will take a hand in the prosecution for the murder of Jim Warner, a Siletz Indian. This comes, Colonel Hofer says, in spite of the fact that a Lincoln County grand jury failed to find a true bill against Loyal Chandler, who had been held following a Coroner's inquest. He was bound by Justice Beaches, of Yaquina, for manslaughter on a $2000 bond.

A special agent of the Department of the Interior for suppression of crime among the Indians has been gathering evidence for several weeks, and has reached the conclusion that there was considerable reason for the letters addressed to the Governor which complained of the administration of justice among the Indians. The case will be taken before the Federal grand jury in Portland the latter part of this month.

The crime was committed on territory on which the Federal Courts have jurisdiction. It was alleged before the Lincoln County grand jury that Chandler shot Warner because Warner refused further to drink with him. Warner was also to be a star witness in a prosecution for violation of the liquor laws. Following the appeal of the settlers to Governor West, he ordered that prosecution follow or he would hire a special prosecutor to take the case in charge.

Delayed Honeymoon Celebrated.

TACOMA, Aug. 12. — There was a happy reunion at the railroad station yesterday, when Richard Spiering, of the U. S. S. Virginia, arrived home after a world cruise, to meet his bride, who was Miss Alice E. Carmel. They met when the Atlantic fleet was here three years ago. It was a case of love at first sight. They were married June 25, and next morning Spiering had orders to join his ship. He is a painter, and got a job immediately on arriving home. They will occupy a new bungalow on Roosevelt Heights.

NAME OF ALLEGED HILL SLAYER TOLD

Suspect Arrested at Marshfield Says That He Knows Who Killed Family Here.

POLICE ACT ON REPORT

Sheriff Stevens and Mass Confident That Captive Has Guilty Knowledge of Crime—Clews to Be Followed.

Saying he knew the murderer of the Hill family, but vigorously denying his being the murderer and refusing to speak when closely pressed, Harry Smith, alias Hisage, who was arrested on a charge of horse stealing by Chief of Police Carter, of Marshfield, is believed by Sheriff Mass, of Clackamas County, and Sheriff Stevens, of Multnomah County, to have guilty knowledge of the Hill murder. Smith acknowledged to the Marshfield authorities that he had a great crime on his mind, but refused to tell what it was, though saying it was not the Hill murder. Sheriff Stevens has been in communication with the Coos County authorities since Smith's arrest. Smith is incarcerated in jail at Coquille.

"What are you arresting me for?" Smith asked Chief Carter. "You may send me to the pen for horse stealing, but I did not commit the Hill murder."

The Hill murder had not been mentioned by his captors, but when Smith spoke of it he was questioned as to his knowledge of it. He gave the correct date of the murder, but said he was then on Puget Sound. He told conflicting stories of his actions in the last six months. Afterward he sobbed, saying over and over that he was in no way connected with the Hill murder.

"I've got something on my mind, something more serious than horse stealing, but I can't tell you what it is," he said in explanation of his weeping.

Smith will be taken to Roseburg, where the charge of horse stealing will hold him until the Portland authorities are able to trace him through the Portland names and addresses in the notebook where he pointed out the name of the man whom he charged with the deed. Sheriff Mass and Sheriff Stevens are working together in Portland on the case.

The prisoner is 42 years of age, weighs 140 pounds, is five feet five inches tall, has a red complexion and sandy mustache and hair. His companion, with whom he was arrested in the alleged stolen buggy in Marshfield, tells a complete story of picking up Smith on the road, and suspicion is not attached to him. Sheriff Quine, of Douglas County, is also investigating his record in that county.

WEAPON IS MADE IN CELL

Hill-Murder Suspect Straightens Jail Bed Hook for Use.

MARSHFIELD, Or., Aug. 12.—(Special.)—Harry Smith, who was arrested here for stealing a buggy and horse at Roseburg and who told the police that he knows the murderer of the Hill family at Portland, has shown signs of viciousness.

The Sheriff of Douglas County was called to Bandon on business and will not take the prisoner to Roseburg until tomorrow or Monday. It was discovered today that Smith had concealed in his cell in the Marshfield city jail a dangerous weapon which he had improvised cunningly. He had worked loose one of the steel hooks which holds the folding bunk and had straightened it out, making a weapon a foot long with which he could have easily killed one of the guards. It is thought Smith intended to conceal this weapon in his clothing, but he was taken from the city jail sooner than he expected and did not have the opportunity.

Smith told Chief of Police Carter the name of the man who, he says, killed the Hill family for revenge. He cried when telling the story and has since shown sudden fits of vicious anger.

Chief of Police Carter says he is not at liberty to give out the name told him by Smith as the case has been turned over to the Portland police. Papers in Smith's pocket indicate that his real name is probably Hissage. He is a Norwegian.

Mine Goes Under Hammer.

GRANTS PASS, Or., Aug. 12. — (Special.)—The Old Channel Hydraulic Mine was sold at public auction in front of the Courthouse Thursday for $99,000 to satisfy a mortgage of $85,000 and a number of liens and attorneys' fees. The mine is considered one of the best placers in the country. The new owners will start operations right away, as abundance of water is ready for work. Aside from miners' liens, an attorney's fee of $5000 was allowed for foreclosing the mortgage.

The new metal known as Liege metal is said to be 40 per cent lighter than aluminum, which makes it particularly useful for airships.

REMEDY OF VICE SOUGHT

MAYOR TO BE ASKED TO APPOINT COMMISSION OF 15.

Ordinance, Submitted in Near Future to Council, Carries $3000 to Cover Expenses of Body.

Mayor Rushlight this week will be asked to appoint a vice commission of 15 members, whose duty it will be to inquire into existing conditions in this city, their cause and, if possible, recommend some definite plan for their correction. Authority for the appointment of such a commission by the Mayor will be provided in an ordinance, which has been drafted, and will be presented to the City Council for passage. The ordinance carries an appropriation of $3000 to cover the expenses of the commission.

Request for the appointment of such a commission will be made of Mayor Rushlight by the special service committee, a standing committee of the Episcopal diocese of Oregon. Rev. Henry R. Talbott, pastor of St. David's Episcopal Church, of this city, is chairman of this committee, which was created and appointed at the Episcopal diocesan convention held in this city about 18 months ago.

The recent disclosures and allegations of graft in connection with the underworld in this city suggested to the Episcopalian committee the advisability of attempting a practical demonstration of its purposes and, if possible, secure the appointment of a representative committee thoroughly to inquire into the social evil as it exists in Portland today. Accordingly Rev. Mr. Talbott called a meeting of his associates last week when, after much discussion, it was decided that the time had arrived for the committee to act.

It was decided to select a list of probably 40 men, including representatives of the ministry, business and professional life and members of the city government and request Mayor Rushlight to select out of that number 15 to constitute the proposed vice commission. Members of the committee later called on the Mayor and outlined to him their plan. He gave his indorsement to the scheme but assured the committee that although he would give consideration to any list of names that might be submitted to him, he would not agree to confine his selections to any list or lists that might be presented. Rev. Mr. Talbott and his associates also requested the privilege of naming the chairman of the commission after Mayor Rushlight had made the selections, but this also was turned down.

At a meeting yesterday the committee decided tentatively on about 30 of the 40 or 50 names that will be submitted to the Mayor. The list will be completed early this week and then taken to the Mayor.

The ordinance, authorizing the appointment of the commission and providing an appropriation of $3000 for its expenses, is patterned after the one by which the people of Chicago a few years ago organized a similar commission. The ordinance calls for a vice commission of 15 members, the chairman to be appointed by the Mayor from among the members.

The mission of the commission as defined in the ordinance will be to inquire into conditions with reference to vice of all forms which affect the moral and physical welfare of the people of this city. The commission is further authorized to make and transmit to the Council written reports of conditions as it finds them, together with recommendations as to what should be done to improve those conditions.

It is believed by the Lancet that the sunburned face is of value because it implies that the individual has been exposed to a fresh, healthy and open environment. The active light rays of the sun undoubtedly give a healthy stimulus to the respiratory process, since under their influence it has been proved that the quantity of oxygen absorbed is greater, while an increasing output of carbonic acid follows.
