When asked to attend the interrogation of the prisoner, Colonel Kullahko begged permission to restify in writing.

the prisoner, Colonel Kullabko begged permission to testify in writing.
At the inquiry Begroff manifested much Independence and unconcern. He said that when he approached Stolypin the premier was whelly unguarded. He drew a revolver from his hip pocket, covering it with his handkerchief.
When Count Polotoky, who was close to Stolypin, hesitated to identify the prisoner, buried out

"Yes. I shot him."
On the way to the fortress Bogroff saked for a cigarette, remarking:
"The whole business has upset me dreadfully. I have not yet come to

Speaking on arbitration here tonight, Speaking on arbitration here tonight, the Fresident said the advance made in the treaties negotiated at his instance with England and France was noteworthy in agreeing to arbitrate all questions excepting those which affect the vital interest or the honor of either country. These provide that all justiciable questions shall be arbitrated between the two countries, and justiciable is understood to mean any question of international character rising between the two countries in which one country made a claim against the other and which could be decided by the application of the principles of law

"Everyone will agree," said the President, "that it is a long step forward to arbitrate the settlement of questions arising between two coun-tries. The objection to the limitation in the existing treaty is that there are few questions of importance of an in-ternational character arising between two countries that in one phase or the other, in the opinion of one or the other party, does not involve either its vital interest or its rational honor. vital interest or its national honor Distinct Advance Proposed. ture that the proposed freaties make a decided advance upon existing treaties, because they do not leave it to the decision of either party to say whether the question is a justiciable one, but they leave it to a joint high commission to consist of three citizens of each party, to decide by a vote, cither unan-imous or five to one, whether the question arising is justiciable or not. If they decide that it is justiciable, then the executive and the Senate are duty-bound and treaty-bound to take the steps necessary to a proper submission. the question to a board of arbi-

w if the Senate desires, or if Congrees desires, there is no reason why the three Americans to be appointed apon such joint high commission should not be confirmed by the Senate, if it is thought dangerous to trust the President only to make the appoint-

But I so further than this I would be willing to leave the question of whether an issue arising between two sountries is justiciable to the decision of a board of arbitration which is ultimately to decide arbitrable questions. I would have that body pass not only upon the merits of the question, but also upon the jurisdiction and ultimately I have hope we will come to that. This is a step in that direction and takes away from the executive and the Senate the absolute power to withhold questions from arbitration they do not think are justiciable. mately to decide arbitrable questions.

Money Is Well Spent.

The President in his speech at the State Fair at Syracuse earlier in the day began by saying that, although the Department of Agricul-ture was custing $15,000,000 a year, and although part of the cost might be saved by a closer-knit organization, yet he believed an increase in future yet he believed an increase in future expenditures ought to be expected in the interest of the Government. He

We have today in this country, in "We have today in this country, in continental United States, about 1,300,000,000 acres of land, of which $72,000,000 are included in the acreage of farms. In the last 10 years that acreage did not increase more than 35,000,000, or a little over 4 per cent. In that same time our population increased 10 per cent. Of the $73,000,000 acres, 477,000,000 acres include woodland and unimproved land. The improved land in farms has increased about $5,000,300 acres in 10 years, or proved land in farms has increased about 62,000,000 acres in 10 years, or some 10 per cent, but this, it will be seen, is not equal to the increase in about $2,000,000 acres in 10 years, or some 10 per cent, but this, it will be seen, is not equal to the increase in population.

"Now, if our population increases as rapidly as it has heretofore we shall in 80 years have upwards of $100,000,000 people in this country to support on this $75,000,000 acres, much of which is probably not capable of producing a great deal. There are some $50,000,000 acres should not remain so. The United States have a great deal. There are $15,000,000 acres petuate friendly and commercial relations with this country."

all these it is perfectly palpable that within the life of many who are born now we shall be pressing the limit of our self-supporting soil unless some other method than by the mere extension of area be found for the increasing of our crop production.

"In the next 100 years, it this is to be a self-sustaining country, we must adopt now methods of farming and pursue them with eagerness and intelligent entorprise.

"In the next 100 years, if this is to be a self-sustaining country, we must adopt new methods of farming and pursue them with eagerness and intelligent enterprise.

"There has been, as we know, a movement from the farm to the city. How can these present evils that threaten the progress of our agriculture be remedied? How can the movement from the farm to the city be stopped? How can proper labor be secured upon the farm? Is there no remedy, or must we change our nature as a people and become a purely manufacturing Nation and look for our future supplies to some other source in distant countries which themselves are looking forward to a l'mit on their production?

"I am an optimist and believe that slivations, however threatening or immediately dischursing, have in themselves elements that justify hope of betterment. The increased price of farm products has increased the status of the farm and has made more certain the profit of the farmer. That necessarily works on the cupidity of those who in the past have gone into the city because it offers a prospect of a better income and a more comfortable living. Today, with improved roads, with suburban railways, with the telephone with a rural free delivery and, I hope soon, with the parcels post, the life of the farmer will approximate much more nearly that of his brother than it ever has in the past.

"In addition to all these elements that are working to the restoration to the farmers of increased efficiency in their management, is the education that is being given in the country and on and near tha farm in scientific agricultural. In the states we have long had agricultural colleges. Now these are being aupplemented by agricultural high schools and by what are called the consolidated rural schools, all of which have the effect to create much more than hereforer a closer farming on proper principles.

"This will give to the brothers who is any on the farm a much more certain prospect of a sood income and a comfortable living than those who seek to so in professions

Experiments Are Proposed.

Experiments Are Proposed.

"The vocational schools must be increased in every state. It is proposed that in every county and every state there shall be a trained agriculturist, to be paid by the county, who shall by actual experiments on the different farms in the county, illustrate the proper methods of tilling crops, of rotating them; and who shall give the benefit of his experience as to the proper organization of farms, as well as the improvement in the breed of plants and in the breed of cattle and other livestock. It is thought that by such actual experiment in connection with the high schools and agricultural colleges such a stimulus may be given to the present generation of farmers that its effect upon the coming generation would be doubled.

"Of course, we must observe economy in every expenditure of the Government and we must not allow our enthusiasm in favor of a particular cause to blind us to the necessity of care in the disbursement of public money, but I am bound to say that I do not know any part of the Government business in which the public will receive a more certain advantage than from money expended under the appropriation bills for the Argicultural Department of the United States."

TACOMA, Sept. 16.-Attorney Frank-TACOMA, Sept. 16.—Attorney Frank-H. Kelley, who returned from San Fran-cisco last night with Marjorle Rieman, aged 16, and her mother, Mrs. Porter Magnuson, to whom the custody of the daughter had been given by the Super-ior Court in San Francisco, said today that suit would be filed Monday charg-ing Father C. G. Van Goethem, the mother superior of the Academy of the Visitation and Sister Aloysius of that Institution, and Attorney Louis I. Institution, and Attorney Louis I. Lefebvre, all of Tacoma, with abduction and demanding $25,000 damages. The complaint now being prepared, Attorney Kelley said, will allege that the priest, the mother superior and Sister Aloysius engineered the disap-pearance of the girl, several months ago. The girl had been taken from the convent here by her mother and was to accompany the latter to Alaska, but disappeared in Scattle.

It is charged that she was met by Father Van Goethem and that, with the other three named, he contrived to keep her hidden finally spiriting her to the convent in San Francisco. This was all with the consent of the girl, but the complaint will allege that she consented on a false representation concerning her mother.

Situation in Democratic Camp of Idaho Grows Unusually Interesting.

OMAHA'S EX-MAYOR IN DEAL

Dahlman and Governor Travel Back East Together and Talk Over Conditions -- Success of Party in Gem State Strikingly Remote.

BOISE, Idaho, Sept. 16.—(Special.)— Ex-Mayor Dahlman, of Omaha, has been to Boise with the end in view of promoting the political fortunes of Governor Harmon for the Presidency in

Mayor Dahlman is presumed to represent the antithesis of sentiment to the Presidential idol of the Democracy of the Gem State. While many of the of the Gem State. While many of the Idaho Democrats admire the great Commoner, few of these adhere to the bellef that he is to be seriously considered as a Fresidential candidate.

The principles which be espouses, however, are somewhat sacred to the hearts of Idaho Democracy, however, and this forecasts the mild suggestion at this stage of procedure that because of the antipathy of Harmon to Bryan in 1896 it may be that the former Omaha Mayor may have up-hill work in his advocacy of the political fortunes of the Buckeye chieftain.

Wilson Has Friends. Wilson Has Friends.

Through his advance thought Gover-nor Wilson has hosts of friends in the Idaho Democracy. Yet many find oh-jections to him through a fear that his past environment precludes the prob-ability of his coping with the danger-ous elements in crafty politics which would surround him in the Presidency. would surround him in the Presidency.

Speaker Clark is in favor among many Gem State Bourbons. His short term as Speaker has impressed some of these, however, with a necessity of retaining him where he is. Still others urge the declaration that his prime familiarity with Congressional routine work from the inner circles would fit him so admirably for the job that he could be well spared, as Speaker, for could be well spared, as Speaker, for the performance of the greater service in the Executive chair. Others reason that Clark would be compelled, as the candidate, to over-come the sentiment which might injure him in the North and East because he comes from a state below the "Mason and Dixon line."

With these divergencies of opinion among Democrats, the wise ones are guessing that out of the chaes will reguessing that out of the chaos will result a delegation from Idaho, uninstructed. These reason that such a course would be the part of political wisdom, as in the National convention many "favorite sons" will be on deck with loyal delegations behind them. "lightning rods in hand," preventing the probability of choice until many hallots are taken.

Governor Hawley accompanied ex-

Governor Hawley accompanied ex-Mayor Dahlman to his home on his way to the New Jersey meeting of Governors and it is probable they had interesting conversations on route over the future Presidential streams. the future Presidential situation as concerns the Idaho delegation to the next National convention.

Hawley Gets in Limelight. Governor Hawley becomes an inter-esting figure in the determination of the perpiexing situation in the Demoeratic camp of Idaho. His position is one of power. He has many appointers in all parts of the state and they will be loyal to his wishes in respect to the attitude of the party in this Presithe attitude of the party in this Presi-dential emergency. So far he has re-fused to commit himself. In this he exercises wisdom, for his is a delicate situation. He is the only Democrat in an elective office in Idaho. His elec-tion was secured through the votes of all elements of the Democratic party of his state (and about 10,000 Republican voters on the side). In the election a year ago Governor

In the election a year ago Governor In the election a year ago Governor Hawley received the support of the organization, headed by Chairman Nugent, of the Steunenberg forces, of whom Charley Steuenberg is the residuary legatee, and of the Dubols forces, of whom ex-Senator Dubols is the leading luminary.

These elements in the Demogratic party can only be styled as highly income.

party can only be styled as highly in-congruous. There is slight harmony of feeling between any of the three. For years in Idaho politics the Dubois and the Steunenberg forces (during the life of the late lamented martyred Governor) vied with each other in bitter conflict for place and for power.

Nugent's Ascent Rapid. The ascent of Nugent and his organization was sudden and of that acci-dental character which comes, seldom but certainly, in the form of a decision of the court of last resort, from which there is no appeal. In other words, Nugent was blown into political power through a State Supreme Court decision given by a Republican court, when the Democratic party was evenly divided three years ago, over the vexed Mormon

In vain has he endeavored to build in vain has he endeavored to build up a party of his own, true to his ambitions and jealous of past leaders, not only of the Steunenberg and Dubois crowds, but as well of Hawley, and those whom he has drawn to him in his elevation to the Gubernatorial chair.

Although the new Governor showed all deference to Chairman Nugent in all deference to Chairman Nugent the making of his appointments, and al-though in these selections few Steun-enberg Democrats and no Dubois Demoenberg Democrats and no puncis pemo-crats have received the courtesles of consideration; yet the state chairman is piqued to the point of peevishness ever the record of Governor Hawley, which tends to prove the contention of many Democrats that Nugent is against the further ambitions of Haw-ley, as he was last year when he made against the further ambitions of Haw-ley, as he was last year when he made his successful race for Governor. It is quite natural to forecast that this disposition on the part of the state chairman is tending to unify the former warring elements of the party, the old Dubois and Steunenberg forces.

Bone of Contention Seen. Nugent is credited with ambitions not only to go to the National convention as a delegate, but to control the personnel of the delegation, and to himself be the National committeeman. This promises to be a bone of contention tion.

Judge K. T. Perky aspires for this honor, while the many friends of Simon P. Donnelly (the Sage of Lakeview) the present National committeeman, in sist on his retaining the honor which he has held for the past eight years, when there was no chance for party success.

This strongle over party control in Idaho's Democracy is augmented to the apparent point of bitterness through the somewhat reasonable belief that a Democrat may be chosen Prasident.

REGATTA PLEASES FANS

Portland motorboat fans have returned from Astoria and all are pretty well satisfied with the result of the races at the regatta this year. The Oregon Speed Boat Association, consisting of J. E. Wolf, Elwood Wiles and Mr. Shepard, owners of "Oregon Wolf," brought home ever $2500. When it comes to the racing game Johnnie Wolff is pretty hard to catch. In the second heat of the displacement, freefor-all, the "Wigwam II" gave him the closest run of the event. If one of her cylinders hadn't gone to the bad that heat would have been a pretty one. Portland motorboat fans have re-

The Gregor Brothers, owner of the "Potato Bug," brought home $1975. It was a heavy strain on the boat and she is knocked out of shape.

The "Question Mark," owned by Dr. Jack Yates and Otto Ranft, brought home $250. She broke down in one of the events bending one of her connecting rods and punching a hole in the base of the engine. It will be several weeks before she will be in commission

The "Sea Otter," the "Martha King" and the Sarah Jane" all brought home winning money.

The "Dixie," which was considered a dark horse, met with an accident the first night of its stay in Astoria. The owners attempted to empty their gasoline tanks and refill them by the ald of a lantern. The result was the boat was a mass of flames which raised up into the air to the dock above some 12 feet high. Above the "Dixie" stored in a shed was saved, but the owners were unable to get if in shape to race in the regatts.

The fast boats from Sacramento, "Neon's Flyer," "Fawn II," brought here to show the race fans a thing or two, were outclassed.

J. McIntyre with his Margaret, and Birdsell, with the Whim, each had a few friends along and seemed to be having the time of their lives at the Regatta.

The Artisan, in getting out of Astoria had the Martha King lashed on one side and W. E. Sanford's cruiser Nora on the other side and started out down the bay through the prairie channel for Portland. The Nora stayed with the Artisan for 15 miles, when she cast off and returned to Astoria. The Martha King knocked her rudder out of commission in the slough on her return home and had to be brought to the boathouse by the Artisan.
