Shriners Entertain Head of Order at Brilliant Banquet Board.

DECORATIONS ARE UNIQUE

J. Frank Treat Guest at Elaborate Dinner at Commercial Club at Which 100 Knights of Fez Do Him Honor.

Merry-making and good choer were featured at the gathering of the Mystic Shriners of Al Kader Temple around their impectal potentiate, J. Frank Treat, at the banquet tendered him at the Portland Commercial Club last night. About 199 wearers of the featwere present and told stories and joined in a spirit of good fellowship until a late hour.

The banquat was presided over by W. C. Bristol and was in the hands of a committee consisting of J. G. Mack, Harvey Beckwith, William Davis, A. H. Lea and Joseph McCialland. The tables of the banquet-room were arranged in the form of the insignia of the order, a crescent suspended from a large sword and encircling a star. They were decorated with Oregon grape, laid along the center of the table, and with large broad-bladed swords laid on top of the evergreen along the centers of the tables.

Partland Pleases Potentate.

Portland Pleases Potentate. Following the banquet Imperial Po-entate Treat and other Shriners spoke. Ir. Treat, who was the first to speak, add in part:

"Of all the fine banquets that have been tendered to me in the course of my visits to the different temples, this is the most beautiful and the most inspiring that it has been my privilege to see. I look upon these distinctions as being given, not to hanor ms, but to honor the highest power in the great order of which we are members. Since I have come to Portland I have come to love the city and I have come to love the city and I have come to love the city and I have come to love me as Frank Treat."

Among the speakers of the evening was Robert A. Miller. He was introduced by the toastmaster as "The Democratic warhorse of Oregon," and he made it the occasion of emphasizing the order's mission as the fraternalizer of the members of society, and the eradicator of the effects of religious, political, business or personal differeradicator of the effects of religious, political, business or personal differences among its fellowship.

"I feel," he said, "that reference to me as a Democrat, in this gathering, is as much out of place as it was on one occasion when I was called upon to address a church congregation, and the preacher, for want of more appropriate words, introduced me as the Democratic warhorse of Jackson Country."

Fraternal Orders Binding.

The penalty of civilization." he con-ued, "is that it teclates the indi-ual. Our religious creeds do not bring us together on a basis of mu-tual understanding; politics leads us apart; business is nothing better than organized brigandase, where each one tries to grab all there's in it for him; but our fraternal organizations are the reat mediums through which all these orces are moided together. "This organization is the cement that binds the best people of the earth to-gether. The Kings of Europe, through it, are your brothers and mine. I be-Have that the Shriners and the sopic organizations are doing more for civilization today than any force on the face of the earth. I give my time to it as a religious duty. In these organizations lies the secret that tells why, in times when nations were it srms against each other, and internal strife and turmoil held sway, those na-tions have still persevered in their courses, and have not periahed."

Among the other speakers were J. E. Werlein, ex-City Treasurer; W. C. Bristot, W. D. Fenton, ex-fusice King, of the Oregon Supreme Court: Fred L. Stanler, of Bend; James Cook, George T. Baldwin, ex-Circuit Judge, of Klamoth Falls, and J. M. Poorman, of Woodburn.

Shriner and Salmon Compared

Mr. Fenton was introduced as a man "who crossed the Missouri River with his feet hanging out of the back of a wagon." He said: "The men who wear was the fear are the strongest men and the truest men of the country." Mr. Cook, who is a salmon-packer, told the difference between a Shriner and a salmon. "There is really no difference," he said. "They are both red-headed. But there is more profit in a salmon.

he said. "They are both red-headed. But there is more profit in a salmon than in a Shriner. I never made a cent out of a Shriner."

Miss Hariet Enna, a "liedersinger," of Copenhagen, Denmark, a sister of Dr. Emil Enna, of Portland, a Shriner, sang a Danish song entitled "Blueflower," and an English song entitled "I Love My Old Doll Best." She responded with a German encore.

After the banquet imperial Potentate

After the banquet Imperial Potentate Treat left for Ashland, the amallest city in the world to have a shrine. A ceremonial will take place there in his honor Monday night.

Interest attaches to Mr. Hichens and the production of his dramatic version of "The Garden of Allah" from the fact that it will be produced at the Century Theater, which last year closed its doors as the New Theater, an endowed institution which proved a failure.

The theater is one of the most beau tiful and largest in the country, but its size and faulty acoustics contributed to its failure as an endowed home of the drama. However, George C. Tyler, of Leibler & Co., was quick to lease it and begin a six-months' preparation for "The Garden of Allah," which is said to be the largest production ever staged in a regular theater. Students and patrons of the theater are watching Mr. Tyler's experiment with in-were stationed in the district to pa-trol the streets until daylight. The riots were the result of a feud of several weeks' standing between the whites and blacks. The latter, the police say, started out to find the former, and when the two factions met there was a fight with pistols, knives. fists and missiles. The fighting spread several blocks down the street continued until the negroes fled.

PORTLAND LIVESTOCK MEN TO HELP GOLDENDALE SHOW.

O. M. Plummer, Stockyards Secretary, to Judge Babies Arranged in Stockmen's Style-Prize Up.

Portland livestock men are going to aid in making a success of the third annual Klickitat County Fair, which will be held at Goldendale from Sep-tember 27 to September 30. O.M. Plummer, secretary of the Portland Union Stockyards, was chosen by the fair authorities to judge three classes of stock. He has selected Frank Brown, the well-known stockman, to pass upon the well-known stock-man, to pass upon the beef breeds, draft horses and goats, and Frank E. Me-Eidowney, of Crystal Springs Farm, to judge the harness horses, dairy cat-tle and hogs.

The third class, which proved to be the baby exhibit, Mr. Plummer has de-cided he will be the judge of himself. Mr. Plummer has arranged to put the baby show on strictly a livestock basis with American, English, Scotch, Irish and German classes. There will be prizes for the hest boy and girl under one year and over one year, also a grand champion of all classes, to be the gne best-bred baby in the show. The mother of the finest baby will get a prize from the North Bank Road, in a prize from the North Bank Road, in the shape of a round-trip ticket to Portland and a week's entertainment at the Portland Hotel.

A special prize will be for the Rooseveit class, which will go to the biggest family of children entered. Not less than six in the family will be permitted and there is no limit the other way as to number.

Mr. Plummer says this country needs more hogs and he has figured out that more hogs and he has figured out that more hogs and he has naured out that the only way to get them is to have more farmers. He will also suggest the formation of boys' hog clubs in that part of the country. In Texas there are 1600 boys' hog clubs, conducted on the same line as poultry clubs elsewhere, and they have been a great success.

by William D. Wheelwright, in which he showed how the circumstances in which Arnoid was thrown, joining with by William D. Wheelwright, in which he showed how the efreumstances in which Arpold was thrown, joining with his ambitions and headstrong nature, led to the consummation of the treachery which prevented his name from becoming one of those honored in the roll of the solders who fought in the Revolution. Mr. Wheelwright's paper, with two other papers on historical subjects that were read at previous meetings, will be incorporated in a publication that is to be issued in the near future by the organization.

Memorial resolutions were read and adopted for Lafayette Grover, a member who died May 11, of this year, and for Roswell B. Lamson, who died July 4. The Grover memorial was prepared by General Thomas M. Anderson, the first president of the association, and the Lamson memorial was written by Thomas G. Greene.
