WOLGAST IMPROVES FAST

Fighter's Muscles So Strong They Weren't Cut in Operation.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2 .- At the Clara Barton Hospital tonight it was said Ad Wolgast was doing finely except for pains which he suffered occasion-

"In Wolgast's case," said one of the these pains are considerably less than in the ordinary run of cases. He is doing as well as anyone could possibly expect and there are no indications of a setback."

Dr. Pollard said that in his opinion

Wolgast would be able to fight again 'as good, if not better than ever."
"We found," he continued, "that the muscles of Wolgast's stomach were in such fine condition that it was not necthe case in these operations. We sim-ply separated them, and did not cut any. For this reason Wolgast will be after he recovers from the effects of the operation."

Children Found Playing With Explosive in Streets.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Dec. 2 .- Following the death of three boys here as the result of their experiments with detonating caps in a bonfire, and the interruption of a game of "shinny" in which the "hall" was a chunk of dynamite, the police are today investigating the discovery of dynamite in widely scattered sections of the city.

In a residence district workmen laying a cement walk yesterday dug up eight sticks of dynamite a few inches below the surface, while in the cellar of the house of an Italian contractor 13 children were found at play in a street with a large quantity of the ex-

The vote polled was much larger than at any previous school election and the enfranchisement of women did not add to the vote, for women have always voted for school directors.

A committee of business men had charge of the Shorrock-Bowden campaign and appealed to the voters to defeat Socialism and keep it out of the schools. Nearly all the daily and weekly publications opposed the Socialist ticket. Winsor many years ago was State Senator from the Port Austin district in Michigan.

Visiting Nurse Association Issues Statement Showing Work Done in the Last Year.

With the opening of booths in two down-town department stores yesterday the annual sale of Red Cross seals was begun. Tomorrow two more booths will be opened and before the middle of the week seals will be on sale in a score of places in addition to the large stores and office buildings. The sales yesterday in the Meler & Frank store gave a nucleus for a fund amounting to $65.52. Meier & Frank purchased $100 wotrh of seals addi-

A statement issued yesterday by the Visiting Nurse Association shows that during the year from November 1, 1910, to November 1, 1911, 2142 visits were made to the tubercular poor. Special milk was provided for patients to the amount of 4948 quarts. Eggs were provided to the number of 1093 dozen. In addition to the regular nurse furnished by the association, a number of spe-cial nurses were engaged temporarily. The eggs furnished during the year amounted to $383, the milk used, $587. Bedding was furnished during the year to the value of $116.

The two additional booths to be at Woodard & Clarke's store under the direction of Mrs. Sherman O'Gorman, and one at Lipman, Wolfe & Co.'s store, under the direction of Mrs. Henry Metager. The booth will be occupied tomorrow morning by Miss Marjorie Hausman and Mrs. J. A. Cranston; in the afternoon by Mrs. A. L. Hexter. At the request of the Consumers' League the seal booths will not be open after 6 o'clock throughout the campaign.

Prominent Citizens Attend Brilliant Function Marking Completion of Development Enterprise,

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Dec. 2 .- (Spedal.)-Following a christening similar to that of a big battleship, the new White Pelican Hotel, built by the Klamath Falls Development Company, was tonight iaunched on its career with a banquet for nearly 200 persons, which was the most notable social event which this city has known. The breaking of the bottle of wine on the marble steps in front at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon was done by Mise Louise Benson, daughter of Judge Henry L. Benson, of the Circuit Court, who was toastmaster at tonight's dinner.

The hotel was fully prepared for the opening, despite the great amount of work necessary, and President S. O. Johnson. Vice-President C. X. Wendling. Treasurer W. H. Johnson and others for the building company were the recipients of many congratulations, both from guests present and from those abroad unable to attend.

Julius L. Meier. of Portland, telegraphed a cordial letter. From Portland came a delegation representing President William Sproule, of the Southern Pacific, as follows: H. E. Lounsberry, general freight agent, and John M. Scott, general passenger agent. The hotel was fully prepared for the

The recent horse show was a success, especially as to finances. The club master of hounds reported increased attendances at the regular paper chases held and requests were read from a number of the members importuning the holding of these events more often. In the past it has been customary to hold chases every two weeks and on all holidays and it is possible that weekly runs will be held, though this matter will be decided later by the newly elected officials.

The completion of the new clubhouse at Garden Home, where the members can gather after each paper chase, is believed to have stimulated the interest in these events.

In the past year the club finished the construction of a haif-mile race track on the grounds at Garden Home, and it is now proposed to hold a Spring meet there in April or May. The club voted to complete improvements for the grounds recommended by retiring President Cronin, and also to complete the construction of a first-class pole field as early as possible.

NOBODY KILLED, BUT IT HAD ITS GOOD POINTS

Even Absence of Injuries Couldn't Keep Addison Bennett From Enjoying Oregon-Multnomah Game and Wriggly-Fingered Bandmaster.

BY ADDISON BENNETT. HEN Phil Tieman was the champion billiard player of the world. some 40 or more years ago, he was sitting in his billiard parlor in Cincinnati one forenoon, when a stranger entered and asked Phil if he would play a game. Phil was willing. So they strung for the lead. Phil won, and proceeded to run the game out. This was repeated three times, when the stranger put his cue in the rack and started to walk out.

Phil halted him and asked if he had not forgot something. The fellow felt of his pockets, saw he had his hat and coat, and replied, "I guess not." Whereupon Phil said, "Haven't you forgot to pay for three games of bil-liards?" "Billiards," replied the stranger, "billiards? Why, you derned stranger, "billiards? Why, you derned fool, I haint played no billiards."

Thursday afternoon it looked for a long time as if the University of Oregon team of football players could say the same thing to the Multnomah boys, changing the billiards to football, but just as I had it all figured out how I would open my story, and close it, and tell that the Eugene boys had again failed to show the necessary "stibbins," just then that chap by the name of Latourette grabbed the ball and made for the Multnomah goal.

Helen, the tall girl with the big yellow chrysanthemum, who sat next to me, discovered the situation before I did, and rising in her seat and letting forth a scream, a yell and a hurrah and tiger all in the same breath, called my attention to the feat. Having no convenient brick to bring her back to earth, I had to listen to her hurrahs and huzzas, her college yells and declamations for a moment or two before I could in my mind untangle the mass of players on top of Latourette, but the ball beneath them was on the

And in the game nobody was gilled, hence some may think it was a tame game, as tame as an old maid's pink tes, but it was not. It was quite spirited at times, but only two or three of the Multnomah boys were incapacitated and none of the Eugene chaps.

and none of the Eugene chaps.

And those Multnomah fellows played a good game, what might be called a gamey game. I am not well up in the intricate plays, know but little about the rules of tackling and rushing, do not know a forward pass from a backward nass for the life of me a backward pass, for the life of me could not tell why that fellow carried a pillow from place to place and never allowed anybody to fall on it, and never sat down on it himself; and whenever, as he frequently did, the referee said there had been an offreferee said there had been an offside play. I wondered which side and why, and why it was that no near-side plays were alluded to. Neither did Helen know, although she is a Eugene girl this season.

But all this has nothing to do with the leader of the band, who was, after all, the main feature of the game. When he wiggled his finger to the north, the team—I mean the band—played far away and tunefully; when he wiggled it to the south, there was a developed to the south, there was found out that his Victoria Cross, the most esteemed medal of honor of the British Army, had been stolen. cupy the post of honor, so to speak, the casket, perhaps they will delight the audience with a dirge. Perhaps they will take pleasure in so doing. But if that leader wiggles both fin-gers at once during such ceremonies—

The score was 17 to 6, which was not so bad, considering there were bets offered of three to one on the Multnomahs. And then it must be remem-bered that it was only by a display of splendid nerve that the Eugene boys played at all, being in mourning for one of their members who met a terrible death only a few days ago. When one remembers that, he will give those eleven young men credit for meeting those seasoned players of the Multnomans with the pluck and spirit that they displayed Thursday. All praise and honor to them for fulfilling the engagement rather than disappoint thouands of people.

And it was a clean game throughout. Sometimes a player would get his dander up a little, as all trained athletes will upon great provocation. But the anger cooled in a moment, and all went off harmoniously and pleasantly.

No doubt the best team won, but the reversal of form of the Eugene boys was so great since the University of Washington game that they are en-titled to all praise; and no doubt those who praise them most will be the boys who vanquished them.
