

UNIONS NOT ASKING THEIR MONEY BACK

$3000 Fund Raised Here for McNamara's Regarded as Gone for Good.

HANDS WASHED OF CASE

Labor Leader Says Now That Guilt Is Proved, Law Should Take Its Course—Others Declare Confession to Be Traitorous.

After reflecting for 24 hours over the sensational confessions of the McNamara's at Los Angeles, members of organized labor in Portland have decided to wash their hands of the self-confessed dynamite.

If an official repudiation of the McNamara's takes place in these same circles, it must be initiated by the Portland local of the Structural Iron Workers, of which one of the brothers, John J., was international secretary.

"Now that the reported confessions of the McNamara brothers have been positively confirmed," said Will H. Daly, president of both the Oregon State Federation of Labor and the Central Labor Council, of this city, yesterday, "bona fide members of organized labor have decided to wash their hands of the case of the self-confessed dynamite."

"The money was contributed in good faith when we believed the men were the victims of a conspiracy and when we had every reason to believe in their professed innocence. Now that they have admitted their guilt, we have no desire to have anything further to do with them."

Greater consternation was not found yesterday in any of the labor organizations than among the members of the Structural Iron Workers' local organization. Even by that time, the members of this organization, which contributed liberally to the McNamara defense fund, have decided to refuse to accept as real the confessions of the McNamara's.

This was particularly true of Dan Conley, business agent for the iron workers, who declined either to discuss the case and its sudden termination, or to state whether he believed in any of the local organization at its regular meeting next Tuesday night.

Local labor leaders are according to a recent report of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, the total fund subscribed by members of the organization for the defense of the McNamara's was about $500,000. Of that sum probably $3000 was contributed by the labor unions of this city.

Further Federal Inquiry Into Dynamite Cases Welcomed—If Anyone Is Behind Crimes, Identity Should Be Known.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—"I am not a hound; I am not a hound; I do not seek human life in punishment for any crime."

"This was the angry exclamation of Samuel Gompers tonight on his return from Troy, when a dispatch from Spokane saying the Central Labor Council of that city is planning a country-wide movement to obtain the maximum punishment for the Los Angeles dynamite was shown to him."

"I don't know anything about that. I have received no communication from the American Federation of Labor from the McNamara's thanking me for the support of the American Federation of Labor. If there is anybody that needs to be protected, I don't know of it."

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 2.—Ex-Governor Folk of Missouri, speaking of the plea of guilty entered by the McNamara's, said here today: "I do not believe organized labor should be held responsible for the acts of these men any more than a church should be held responsible for the destruction of any one of its members."

HOUSTON, Tex., Dec. 2.—The Central Labor Council of Spokane, representing 4500 union men, is shaping plans for a country-wide movement to secure the maximum punishment for the Los Angeles dynamite. The programme is to have every labor union organization in the United States telegraph to California authorities before next Tuesday morning, urging that the limit sentence allowed by the laws of the state be imposed upon the McNamara brothers for the crimes they have confessed.
