PUBLICITY IS BIG FEATURE

E. J. Daly Says When in Europe He Heard Pleasing Comments on Portland Roses—Eastern Folk Eager to See City's Show.

Loyal support is being shown the Rose Festival by the merchants and other business interests of the city since the announcement was made a few days ago that the celebration was to be an assured fact.

Letters have been coming into headquarters by the score, most of them announcing the renewal of subscriptions and many of them saying that the donors would double their donations of the former years.

During my trip in Europe, I heard of the Rose Festival everywhere. People spoke of Portland and its beautiful roses, and consider that the home of the loveliest flowers in Portland.

I would like to take occasion to say that many of our wealthy property-owners who have been enjoying the benefits of the Rose Festival in Portland, realize the importance of this event. They have been enjoying greatly increased rentals, owing to the great increase in population in Portland.

Woodard, Clarke & Co.—You may enter our subscription for $100, same as last year for the Rose Festival.

Joe Morak, who a few months ago was given an appointment as a guard at the Linton rockpile by Mayor Wash-

Our firm can personally testify to the financial benefit accruing to the merchants of Portland through our annual Summer Rose Show.

As an evidence of our appreciation of the benefits of the Portland Rose Festival, we wish to notify you that we will increase our usual donation.

Brownsville Woolen Mill Store, by J. L. Bowman—I have recently seen in the papers some talk of the Rose Carnival being discontinued, and as I think it would be a serious mistake and a great loss to our city, from an advertising standpoint, I am pleased to have the opportunity of doubling my last year's subscription.

For the past two years, immediately following the Rose Carnival, I have been in the East, where I have made able comments heard on every hand and the large amount of news concerning it published in the Eastern papers, believe the Rose Show to be worth fully $1,000,000 to Portland. It is almost on a par with the Mardi Gras held in New Orleans, and as a business man I would like to see $100,000 spent next year in giving the best carnival ever held in the United States.

The Rose Carnival has been one of the big things in making Portland the best town in the country, and we cannot afford to lose the direct benefit which it brings.

CHURCH SEEKS LABOR DATA

Better Understanding Is Urged by Central Council Speaker.

Representing the local survey committee of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, J. D. Nielan spoke before the Central Labor Council Friday night and urged a better understanding between the working classes and the church people and asked the council to prepare statistics and other information regarding labor conditions in Portland.

Mr. Nielan requested information particularly regarding the effect of organized labor on working conditions and the percentage of the various crafts organized and unorganized. He also requested comparisons of conditions as existing among organized craftsmen with those existing among the unorganized crafts.

Those present heartily agreed with the sentiment of the speaker, and Arthur W. Lawrence, secretary of the council, was instructed to secure the data requested.

BURNSIDE CARS ASKED

Property Owners Petition City to Extend Service on Line.

Burnside-street property holders and others west of Fifth street and north of Morrison street are interested in a petition to be submitted to the street committee of the Council next Friday afternoon, requesting that some of the Burnside-street and Steel bridge cars be run up Burnside to tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth or Thirteenth street, thence to Stark, Washington or Morrison street, and down one or all these streets and back home by Fifth, Third, Second or First street. The petition asks that a like number of cars be run in the opposite direction, by First, Second, Third or Fifth street, Morrison, Washington or Stark street, Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth or Thirteenth street, and back to the East Side via Burnside street. "This service," say the petitioners, "will not only relieve the tremendous congestion on Fifth street and lower Washington street, but will accommodate without transfer a large number of passengers whose business is within the area named. At present the section west of Fifth street and north of Washington street, including Stark street, Oak street about to be opened, and Burnside street, is without any local car service, the present Burnside-street car being run from Fifth to sixteenth street only to keep the franchise, and running practically empty, because few persons want to transfer at Fifth, and again at Sixth street to get up town. We would do away with the transfer now made at Washington street, which is particularly inconvenient mornings and evenings, by carrying passengers so much nearer where they want to go, that a transfer will not be necessary. Retail merchants near the present point of transfer can save time and money by staying in a car routed around the other way over the same route."

EASTWICK FIGHTS CASE

BROTHER OF EX-OREGON MAJOR IS DECLARED INSANE.

Suit of Wife of Ben C. for Divorce Answered by Phillip G. Eastwick.

Valuable Estate Is at Stake.

First having his brother, Ben C. Eastwick, heir to 5 per cent of a Philadelphia estate valued at more than $1,000,000 and the owner of considerable property in addition, adjudged insane and committed to a private asylum, Major Phillip G. Eastwick, who recently arrived from Philadelphia, has started suit in the Circuit Court to annul the marriage of his brother to Mrs. E. M. Harris. The marriage was contracted March 1, 1910.

Several weeks ago Mrs. Eastwick began suit for a divorce. Her attorney, M. J. Higgins, has secured an order demanding that her husband appear before Judge Gatens tomorrow and give testimony as to the nature and value of his property. It is probable, however, that Eastwick, having been adjudged mentally incompetent, will appear by his brother and the latter's attorney, Platt & Platt.

Major Phillip G. Eastwick asserts in the action filed yesterday that his brother was mentally incompetent at the time of the marriage and hence was legally incapable of entering into the marital relation. Mrs. Eastwick, formerly Mrs. Harris, is an Eastern woman and it is said that the courtship was sanctioned by Eastwick's mother, Mrs. E. M. Eastwick.

Phillip G. Eastwick was a Major in the Second Oregon Regiment, which was in the Philippines during the Spanish-American War. His father, Phillip G. Eastwick, built a large fortune from R. & N. line and was a prominent Portland contractor. The father is now dead.

JOE MORAK TURNED DOWN

Court Record Bars Him From Obtaining Citizenship Papers.

Joe Morak, who a few months ago was given an appointment as a guard at the Linton rockpile by Mayor Wash-light, was denied final citizenship papers by Judge Gatens yesterday, on recommendation of Naturalization Examiner Hazard, of Seattle. The judge made an order that Morak may again apply for his papers after five years since his last arrest have transpired. Mr. Hazard asked that the order of the court be that he should have to wait five years from yesterday, but Judge Gatens thought this too harsh.

Deputy Sheriff Hollingsworth and Jones were Morak's witnesses and they were forced to listen while Mr. Hazard read off the record of the man in whose behalf they were appearing. It included a charge of bigamy and various convictions in the Municipal Court on charges ranging from assault and battery to drunkenness and street-brawling. Morak, it was charged, married a second time at Walla Walla, Wash., three weeks before his first wife obtained a divorce.

The applicant was inclined to make denials, but finally he admitted his record as the various items were read off to him by the examiner. This was after Judge Gatens had advised him to make a clean breast of his past. The records of the County Court show that in 1908 Giuseppe Maraco had his name changed to Joseph E. Morak.

"I guess Joe was off the beaten path for a number of years," said Judge Gatens, "but since his second marriage three and a half years ago I understand that things have changed considerably."

Those admitted to citizenship were Joseph Obermeyer, Germany; Gustaf E. W. Wickberg, Sweden; William Kamp, Germany; Dominick Liddi, Italy; Nicolaus Gabriel, Switzerland, and Robert Crane, England.

MEMORIAL IS URGED

Oregon's Debt to Jesse Applegate Told at Meeting.

PIONEER HARDSHIPS TOPIC

Dr. Joseph Schafer Recites Early Experiences of Great Founder.

Marking of Oregon Trail Aim of Historical Society.

The life and accomplishments of Jesse Applegate, one of Oregon's most eminent pioneers, was the subject of an hour's discussion yesterday at the annual meeting of the Oregon Historical Society in the Council chamber at the City Hall. Dr. Joseph Schafer, of the University of Oregon, introduced the subject with an interesting account of the remarkable experiences of Dr. Applegate during his tramp from Missouri to Oregon in 1842. His address was followed by personal reminiscences of persons who had dealings with the pioneer in the early days.

"Applegate's discovery of a much more prominent place in the early political history of Oregon than he has been given," declared Dr. Schafer, "He was really one of the guiding hands in the early development of Oregon in all lines. Up to the time he went to the Oregon-California line to make his home he was prominent and popular and was the father of many important steps in the development of the legislative system we have today. Just prior to his death he met with reverses and had many hardships. His body now lies on the hillside of Mount Yoncalla, Or. There is nothing but a small stone slab to indicate the place."

Mr. Schafer declared that the people of Oregon should erect a memorial to the memory of Applegate, whom he styled "the prince of pioneers."

The annual election of officers of the society resulted in the re-election of all the old officers, with the exception of two directors who have resigned. The officers are: President, E. V. Hansen; vice-president, J. R. Wilson; secretary, F. G. Young; assistant secretary, George H. Himes; directors, Mrs. H. L. McArthur and T. Elliott. The two new directors take the places of C. E. Ladd and Mrs. Clara Waldo, resigned.

The society voted to co-operate with the keeper of archives of the state in the collection of old documents of interest to the Pacific Coast and also to assist in every way the marking of the Oregon trail as recommended by the Chicago Historical Society. Short addresses were made by C. B. Bagley, of Seattle, one of the early pioneers of the Northwest; E. O. S. Scholfield, keeper of archives of British Columbia.

Among the visitors present was Joseph Putnam, of Astoria, Or., a grandson of Jesse Applegate.
