

Gadsbys' Holiday Show Now Ready

Such is the wide range of our assortments that suitable selections may be made therefrom for every member of the family. To make a single illustration, we allude to the custom which is coming into favor of giving young people articles of furniture for their room that are to be their very own and which will be a connecting memory link when such pieces are some day transferred to the new home—there to be more highly valued because of their association with the old. The question of expense is one that need not be seriously considered, for the ideal gift is to be found here in many attractive forms, at surprisingly low prices.
