Realizing that Laurelhurst property is being sold for from 25 to 50 per cent less than other high-class, exclusive additions, such as Irvington, Holladay Park and Ladd's Addition, we have definitely decided to discontinue the special discount to home-builders, which has been in effect for the past year. The date of the discontinuance has not been fixed, but will be announced soon in our ads.

Since this home-builders' discount and the easy payment, second-mortgage plan were put into operation in Laurelhurst one year ago, nearly $1,000,000 has been invested in new homes in the addition. We have accomplished what we started out to do, that is, through our liberal discounts to home - builders we have caused more handsome and expensive homes to be erected in Laurelhurst during 1911 than in any other of Portland's exclusive residence tracts. We therefore feel that the time is near at hand when these privileges should be withdrawn and Laurelhurst property sold at prices that more nearly represent its true value. All that we can now say, definitely, is that these privileges will be withdrawn.

We know of a great number of prospective home-builders who have been negotiating with us for home-sites and feel that it is no more than fair to give these people an opportunity to buy before we finally withdraw the special discount privilege.

Once these discounts are withdrawn they will not be restored, and no exception will be made in favor of anyone.

To take advantage of our home-builders' discount and second mortgage privilege means the saving of several hundred dollars on each lot purchased, which is no small item to the average home-builder.
