Kate Douglas Wiggin Brings to Thousand Hearts Easter Cheer

Many Little Children of the Slums Made Happy Each Year Through Her Kindness and Charming Personality.

KATE LOUGLAS WIGGIN, OF "R EBECCA OF SUNNYBROOK" FAME, WHO MAKES HUNDREDS OF TOTS HAPPY EACH EASTER.

street, sad-eyed Hebrews, olive-Neapolitans, merry-faced Erin-ites, with eyes as blue as twin lakes, here and there a happy little Topsy, her wool tied with resplendent scarlet bows in honor of the season, all these little strangers of the city stream into the doors of the Clarke Neighborhood House in Rivington and Cannon streets, New York, for their Easter celebration.

"Don't shove, Becky. Keep your place there in the line, Isadore." The friendly bluecoat who has mar shalled so many similar Easter crowds tries to straighten the eager line.

"Sure, you won't get in ne quicker by shovin', and she won't begin the Eastern hymns 'till every last one of Smell the greens and Easter lillest Hear the sweet, high notes of child voices as the 200 children of this neighborhood kindergarten join hands and circle about, marshalled and smiled pon and inspired by the radiant, craceful figure of Kate Douglas Wig-tin, who finds Easter day at Clarke Drama Great Su House her most pressing engagement of the year. But we must close the loors as she bends over the children. riving each a word of greeting or approbation and playing Easter angel as probation and playing Easter angel as the distributes the gifts. We will turn back 25 years to another picture in the life of this successful author.

Kindergarten First Inspiration.

She is a girl figure here, the kinder-gartner in the Golden Gate Kinder-garten, San Francisco. The group of children huddled close about and list-ening to one of her wonderful "enceupon-a-time" stories, is less in num-ber than the throng that fills our free kindergartens today, but they are the ame sort of bables; starving for love, acking in wholesome home environ-nent and longing with all the power f their child souls to love, to be that sheltered the original of Timothy, n "Timothy's Quest," and Patsy, in The Story of Patsy, "grew the move-ment that has given to all waifs of the street the Joys of the child-garden. Phrough 25 years of playing with little children, telling them stories, working cith them and working for them, Kate with them and working for them, Kate Douglas Wigsin has given us a new type in fiction, the type revealed in Carol Bird and the grateful little Euggleses in "The Birds' Christmas Carol": Timothy, the foundling asylum waif Timothy, the foundling asylum waif whose search for a home for Lady Gay, his 18-months-old protege, is immortalized in "Timothy's Quest": Patsy, the plucky little Irish lad, and Recept myself."

HRE HUNDRED little walfs of the | becca, that bravest of all Mrs. Wigbecca, that bravest of all Mrs. Wiggin's heroines, who conquers prejudice, and wins for herself a place in her aunt's "brick house," which she entered so unwelcome a guest. These are all militant characters; they weave dream stuff in the pattern that will enfold us through all the years.
Through them, Kate Douglas Wiggin has given us romances made of the homespun threads of everyday life.
This author of published volumes which reveal upwards of a score of titles and whose sale list to date is which reveal upwards of a score of titles and whose sale list to date is over 1,699,090 copies, has, herself, been a part of the humdrum, everyday hu-man living about which she writes and whose incidents she paints, with a pig-ment, the color of gold. She was born to Philadalphia, but seent most of her ment, the color of gold, she was burn in Philisediphia, but spent most of her life in the quiet little village of Hol-lis, Me. She attended the district school there, made famous in "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," and although she never puts her friends' pictures between the covers of her books, it may be surmised that the village folk who fill the pages of this most successful of her stories, find their prototypes

Drama Great Success

Sunnybrook Farm" should make a place for itself on the American stage and hold that place for hundreds of nights While the putrid love story, the sordid society drama and the cheap musical comedy came and went, Ursula St. George, the girl actress who takes life quite as seriously and sweetly as did Rebecca, transformed footlight into country sunshine as she romped with Emma Jane, charmed Mr. Aladdin, and comforted sad Mrs. Simpson for one of the longest runs New York has ever known.

"How were you able to construct so successful a play" the dramatic critics are in the matter of sallaging the temptation held out.

T. Daniel Frawley, the well-known Coast actor and producer of other days, is almost a long to the publicity agent, is almost a Mason will have the part of Alexander Mason It was inevitable that "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" should make a place Known.

"How were you able to construct so successful a play?" the dramatic critics asked Mrs. Wiggin.
"It was an adventure in play-making," she replied.

"I sat down at my desk, prepared to plan new scenes and write additional dialogue, but as I took up my pencil dialogue, but as I took up my pencil-yes, I have written out, myself, every line in every one of my books, and every copy of every line—I found that the work was going to be of a piece with all the other work that I have done in my life. There was little room for difference of opinion between the author and the stage manager in this livestage. The play is very like the

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

EDITED BY LEONE CASS BAER.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF

Hainter. Yes! Yes!"

Then there is a lot of "heads," each growing smaller in size, but all equally emphatic, and following close is a thrilling tale of how grim death was the arted by the charming little Portland ingenue. Here it is, word for word:

"Miss Kellermann didn't appear just then. She may have mistaken the uproar for another one of those dreadful encores, which are the bane of an actress' existence. Some one had to be a heroine in a hurry. One young land ingenue. Here it is, word for pass it to Miss Trayers, who was keep-

word:

"The miniature tide which Annette Kellermann had just been creating while disporting as a porpoise in the artificial tank before the audience at The Rose of Panama' in the American Music Hall last night proved to be the tide of fortune for Fay Bainter, who took it at its flood, leaped into the foaming water to save Stella Traters, of the chorus, and leaped out again to find herself a famous person.

Travers by some of her real hair and mask the harding dive; she simply plunged into the tank, grabbed Miss Travers by some of her real hair and the pass it to Miss Travers, who was keep-ing her thead above the water at least that the time, but both owner and gar-ter to rearily fell in.

"Suddenly the crowd parted and Fay Bainter came to the front. She would have been there sooner, but she had experienced some trouble in getting the harding dive; she simply plunged into the tank, grabbed Miss Travers by some of her real haif the time, but both owner and gar-ter to rearily fell in.

"Suddenly the crowd parted and Fay Bainter came to the front. She would have been there sooner, but she had experienced some trouble in getting to the front to the

arbed by her unpremeditated plunge ato the water, though she took the ip in her street clothes, than she was en she found the curtain down and love to do. o one but the members of the com-ing there to applied. She didn't care in either the bath or the publicity, ut when she found that she had to compt the latter as a consequence of the former she smiled, blushed and athered in all the compliments in

"Just how Miss Travers succeeded falling overboard no one seemed how. But when she found herself at of her olement she announced he fact to the rest of the company. flocking out the singe door show, in the same sweet has floated over the foot-

NDER a four column portrait of | lights every evening for some time

a very smile-y and pert appearing young person, the New York Morning Telegraph prints in large type, under a Chicago dateline, March 17:

"You are a dear brave girl, Fay Notice You are a dear brave girl, Fay Wiles You Was a dear brave girl, Fay Wiles You Was You was a dear brave girl, Fay Wiles You Was You was a dear brave girl, Fay Wiles You Was You was a dear brave girl, Fay Wiles You Was You was a dear brave girl, Fay Wiles You was a dear brave girl, Fay was the same of the control of the cont actress' existence. Some one had to be a heroine in a hurry. One young lady removed a garter and tried to pass it to Miss Travers, who was keep-

Travers by some of her real hair and lifted her out upon the stage before the grateful young woman could have a chance to get a half-nelson on her rescuer's throat, as drowning people

"While the two amateur mermaids were shaking themselves like water spaniels, Miss Kellermann came out of her dressing room and found that an understudy had been playing her part. To prove that she wasn't enough of an accress to be afflicted with temperature about the park of the state of th ament, she rushed back, dug up one of her finest medals and insisted upon pinning it upon Miss Bainter before the whole company.

the whole company.

"Then Miss Bainter told the story of her life. She sald she had been brought up in California and had played in the surf at all the beaches of the Pacific Coast. Then, deciding she could never

Herbert Ashton, a former Portland man, and for many years identified with local stock organizations, will restage director for "Madame X," which opens on that night at the Heilig. Mr. Ashton's wife, Lillian Branscombe, remembered as a player of soubretto roles, is acting with the Edison film Given a title and an audience and Edwin Milton Royal will be supremely happy. Those are the only ingredients lacking in his purpose to present before the public his latest play.

The piece is written, Liebler & Co. have accepted it, and Hugh Ford, the general stage director, is fairly itching to begin rehearsals, Also the presses of a lithograph company yawn for copy. But the play is as yet unnamed.

The tentative title is "The Snare." The story concerns a woman for whom a snare has been laid and who promptly a snare has been laid and who promptly proceeds to fall into it. Amelia Gard-ner has been engaged for the role, but the management and the author have as yet been unable to agree upon a title.

Miss Gardner was one of the first leading women in early Portland tiring of taking filings at other people and things, takes the trouble (or is it a pleasure, to G. B. S. to talk about himself?) to tell the truth about himself.

theaters depend on uncomfortable clubs and unhappy homes, and my income depends on the theaters. No sane man would spend an evening in a theater if he could find anywhere else to spend it without being bored or henpecked. "Women drag men to theaters because they get so tired of housekeeping that, no matter how delightful they make the home, they desire nothing more than to escape from it, as a cook desires to escape from the smell of

"I know, of course, that the members of your club have long ago settled down and that to meet one of them in theaters is almost as startling as to meet an actor in the Garrick Club, but still there are a few left, and as I don't want those few to be lured away from the box office, I must decline to give my countenance to your inauguration lunch."

great undraped sisterhood of dancers, has closed her season with the Imperial Russian ballet. After a brief rest she is contemplating going into vausely levelle, many alluring offers having been made for her to appear in the two been made for her to appear in the two per diem. One of these offers, according the production of the part of Alexander way to the part of Alexander on a French romance here at the mass of the production of the part of Alexander on a French romance here at the mass of the production of

DETAILS ARE FEATURE

OF PICTURE SHOW WORK

'Dot' Bernard, Clever Little Actress Formerly of Portland, Explains How She Does It.

Dorothy Bernard Van Suren.

OS ANGELES, March 30. - (Spe- | admonition to exercise discrimination

ing accommodations at all hours and putting up with everything that comes; and the pay is almost anything I ask. in fact they practically allow me to fix

OS ANGELES, March 30.— (Special.)—The essential difference between acting professionally before a moving-picture instrument and acting before a real audience in the flesh, relates largely to precision in detail, according to Miss Dorothy Bernard, according to Miss Dorothy Bernard, according to Miss Dorothy Bernard, and Ing. accompagnations at all hours and leading lady with the Biograph com-leading lady with the Biograph com-pany here, known as Miss "Dot". Bernard to playgoers in Portland, where she played juvenile and ingenue parts at the Baker, beginning at a time when she was only 2 years old. "It is when someone brings it to mind that I really know how deeply at-

"By this time she found herself getting into deep water, figuratively speaking, and a motion that rescuer and rescued get into dry clothing as soon as possible was unanimously car-

La Petite Adelaide, the dancer, has been divorced by her husband, Wil-liam A. Lioyd, of Boston, who publishes a weekly paper listing the various current amusements. The grounds were desertion, Mary Adelaide having run away to Paris three years ago. Since then, however, she has returned, and in vandeville's route visited the Pacific encourage the playgoers to move into new and comfortable premises. The theaters depend on uncomfortable clubs desires to escape from the smell of roast fowl. But modern clubs provide a refuge from home life for both men and women and the more comfortable a club is the sconer members will cease Plorence Roberts in a sketch called "In the Revolution," has been booked for a trial in vaudeville next week at Yonkers, N. Y. As her chief support, Miss Roberts has Richard Buehler.

Occasionally George Bernard Shaw,

In a communication sent to the Players' Club, of London, Mr. Shaw says: "I shall most certainly do nothing to

The engagement has just been announced of Antoinette Leganit, of the Lindsey-Morrison Stock Company, of Lynn, Mass., to William P. Connery, Jr., who appeared in Fortland a few weeks ago as the young reporter in "Get-Rich-Quick - Wallingford." Mr. Connery's father is the Mayor of Lynn. Gertrude Hoffman, exponent of the great undraped sisterhood of dancers.

Come Out of It!

Quit worrying about not having money enough to fit up the home you have been wishing for ever so long.

Come to the Morgan-Atchley Furniture Store

With your problem. We will help you towards a realization of your cherished dreams! You will have placed before you an absolutely complete stock of worthy and dependable Furniture and Floor Coverings. You will be aided in making your selection by competent, courteous salespeople. You will be enabled to buy at extremely easy terms-a comparatively small first payment placing you in immediate possession of the entire home outfit, and of supreme importance are our "always lowest in the city prices"-lowest because

Each Customer Shares the $25,000 We Save Annually in Taxes and Interest Because We Built on the East Side

A Clearance of Odd Dining Chairs

We've several hundred odd dining chairs on hand that we positively must be rid of in a hurry. There are two, three, four, five and sometimes as many as a dozen of a style. It is impossible to give more than a mention of only a small portion of the various kinds. Those herewith mentioned are thoroughly representative as to value:

$2.75 solid cak, early English finish $1.75 box seat Dining Chairs
$3.50 solid oak, early English finish $2.35 leather seat Dining Chair
$3.60 solid oak, early English gold- en finish leather seat Dining Chair $2.95
$9 golden oak wax finish, leather $5.75
$4.50 quartered cak, early English $3.25
$4.00 quartered oak early English $2.95 finish box seat Dining Chair
$4.50 golden wax finish oak slip-$3.25 leather seat Dining Chair
$4.00 solid oak golden wax finish $2.95

See Window Display.

Buck's Ranges

Best in every way-by every test -yet they cost no more than the inferior kinds.

SOLD ON VERY EASY TERMS

Open Saturday Evenings

GRAND AVENUE AND EAST STARK

Room-Size Body Brussels Rugs at Reduced Prices

Our rug racks are filled to overflowing with the best products of the country's leading carpet mills. We must have room for several large shipments now en route, and soon to be here. We therefore make sharp reductions as follows:

9x12 Body Brussels Rugs

Choice of an even dozen patterns. Some are light chintz effects for the sleeping chamber; others in allover designs for the living and dining-room.

9x9 Body Brussels Rugs

It isn't often that one can find rugs that are exactly square. These are, and will be just the thing for sleeping chambers, on account of the size and on account of their patterns, which are in dainty light effects.

See window display.

studio. Yesterday we were engaged on a modern drama out at the beach. and perhaps tomorrow we shall taken for a spin into the mountains, where the surroundings meet the requirements of the piece.

quirements of the piece.

"You can have no idea what a variety of charming experiences we meet. You know the public is so familiar with our work now, particularly around Los Angeles, that we are permitted to go and come as we please. People are glal to give us the use of their homes and their beautiful grounds. Only recently we were permitted to use the handsome estate of Mr. Huntington, at Pasadena, and not long ago we had the use of the charming home of a countess in Pasadena for Ing home of a countess in Pasadena for one of our reels.

"Our runners are out constantly looking for scenic effects. One day we may be sent to Santa Monica. We start early, in automobiles, and find everyearly, in automobiles, and find every-thing arranged for us when we get there—even to a place for luncheon and slests. Perhaps before we return we may take a run 20 miles farther down the beach. In our machines it is delicious, and we get back home in time for our dinners."

Off the stage Miss Bernard's name is Mrs. A. H. Van Buren. Her husband is in the theatrical business in New Wilmington, Delaware, and

Washington, D. C.
"I wonder if my Portland friends have heard of my wonderful baby," this exquisite little woman went on meditatively. "She is a year and a half old, and the dearest, sweetest thing in the world," and for a few minutes the glory of motherhood cast its gleam through the stage makeup. "It is chiefly on her account that I am so glad to be at this work," she chatted along enthusiastically. "You see, I can be with her and what jolly times

"Mr. Van Buren and I were glad of the chance to get her out on the mag-nificent Pacific for the Winter, for she is so well and happy here. I brought a nurse and we have a coxy apartment that is a perfect dream. My husband's business would not permit him to come with ne but the warmer weather is business would not permit him to come with us, but the warmer weather is soon coming in the East and baby and I expect to join him in May. Then I shall take a rest for the Summer."

Miss Bernard has been with the Biograph people more than three years. Most of her work for the company has been done in Eastern cities and it was not until the beginning of the past Winter that she was sent to the Coast. She pointed out the advantages moving-picture actors and actresses have She pointed out the advantages moving-picture actors and actresses have in the time and opportunities afforded for study and recuperation. "We must be at our very best all the time," she said, "but our work and manner of living are altogether conducive to good health and active minds. We must have our parts letter-perfect, and what is more important, each gesture, movement and posture must be correct, for you know we must express ourselves by our acting, so that the film will tell the full story of the play when spread on the canvas.

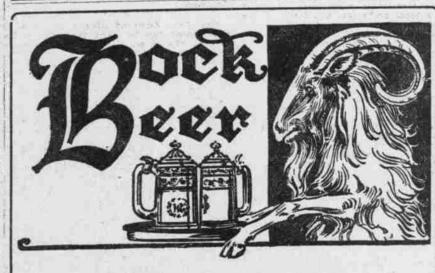

where she played juvenue and lagence parts at the Baker, beginning at a time when she was only $ years old.

"It is when someone brings it to mind that I really know how deeply attached I am to my work with the Biograph." Miss Bernard said to The Oregonian correspondent, who was compelled to pass muster with the local Biograph director to get an interview with her. It is a rule with the company not to permit interviews with its stars, and its players below the stellar circle must remain unknown to the public. An exception is made in the case of Miss Bernard on occasion, for she belongs to the Biograph stars of first magnitude, but she observes the standard and a musually called at about 11 love dear, old Fortland," she said, in love dear, old Fortland," she said, in next Fall. This is Mr. Savage's first trip through the Orient, but Mr. Frawley is regarded as an old citizen all the way from Yokohama to Hongkong.

John Mason will next senson be a star under direction of Charles Fromman, having been specially engaged, not say that I have any favorite pieces.

land people. O. yes, tell them also that papa—they'll remember him. William Bernard, you know, is running the Garrick with a stock company at Salt Lake City."

MT. HOOD BOCK BEER

IS NOW READY FOR DELIVERY

The famous Mt. Hood Bock Beer is made in the old German way, which accounts for its excellence and being unsurpassed.

This year the Bock Beer is superior and will undoubtedly please your palate.

ORDER A CASE SENT HOME

Mt. Hood Brewery

Telephones-Sellwood 904-East 139-B-1319