

RESULTS IN COUNTY ARE BIG SURPRISE

Multnomah Shows Favoritism by Giving La Follette 503 Plurality.

BOURNE TRICK 11TH HOUR

Two Days Before Primary Senator Sends Out Reserves Bent on Appealing to "Common People" on Old-Time Pretext.

Indirect letters, strongly indorsing Bourne and urging the support of the senator, which were mailed to their friends and business associates throughout the county and state.

The coup was perpetrated too late to be committed by Mr. Selling and his friends.

"Cow Counties" Turn Trick.

It did the work in this county, which was turned to Bourne, but the efficacy of the eleventh-hour assault on Selling's candidacy availed nothing in the outside counties, which with few exceptions, were carried by Selling by remarkable pluralities.

Bourne's eleventh-hour campaign manipulators devoted their attention too much to Multnomah County. Apparently they did not consider it necessary to look after "cow counties."

But that is where Ben Selling won the nomination of Lafferty over Circuit Judge Gantenben was a surprise. Clyde failed to break into Lafferty's following in the labor organizations to the extent expected.

George R. Shepherd applied the finishing touches and attained the full responsibility for Lafferty's renomination. Shepherd was at no time in the running. With him out of the contest Judge Gantenben would have been nominated.

Cottel's Strength Surprising.

Dr. W. L. Cottel, ex-State Representative and ex-Councilman, showed surprising strength in his candidacy for Dairy and Food Commissioner.

The contest for this nomination, particularly in Multnomah County, was believed to be between J. D. Mickle, of Washington County, and A. H. Lea, of this city.

Cottel, however, in this county had a plurality of 1,112 over Mickle, who is his closest competitor. The vote: Cottel, 8,811; Edwards, 2,382; Lea 5,122; Mickle, 5,488.

Probably the greatest surprise was the defeat of B. D. Sigler for renomination as Assessor, by Henry E. Reed. The result was due directly to a quiet, vigorous and thorough campaign by Reed, who carried his fight into every precinct in the county.

Friends of Sigler aver that universal dissatisfaction over high taxes, and the fact that he was seeking a third term were factors that contributed materially to his defeat.

It will not be known who the Republicans indorsed as candidate for Vice-President until the official count has been made.

In this county the names of C. W. Fulton, Thomas McCusker, John Keitner, United States Senator Borah, of Idaho, and numerous others were written on the ballot. Thomas Mulhahn, a well-known business man of this city, also received a complimentary vote for this indorsement.

Neither will the ten delegates to the Republican National Convention be known until the vote of the entire state has been canvassed.

In a field of 18 candidates the following ten received the highest votes in this county: Thomas McCusker, of Multnomah, 4712; Charles W. Ackerson, of Multnomah, 2852; Homer C. Campbell, of Multnomah, 2438; Dr. Henry Waldo Coe, of Multnomah, 2,386; Charles H. Carey, of Multnomah, 2,218; Dr. J. N. Smith, of Multnomah, 1,841; Phil Metcalf, of Multnomah, 1,451; J. W. Minto, of Multnomah, 1,288; Fred S. Bigno, of Marion, 1,258; and E. D. Hall, of Wasco, 1,021.

Vote on Eleventh Hour. The result as to the nomination of five candidates for Presidential electors on the Republican ticket also will not be finally decided until the vote of the state has been counted.

Judging from the returns in this county, however, it is evident the voters very generally complied with the suggestion of the representatives of the three candidates for President, who are listed in the name of one of the five following: Republicans: L. M. Lepper, M. J. MacMahon and Grant Thomas, of Multnomah County; William H. Hays, of Marion; and E. V. Carter, of Jackson. MacMahon was the only one of the five whose name was printed on the ballot and received a big vote in Multnomah County. The report is that the names of one of the other four candidates was written in by the voters in the other counties of the state.

County Clerk Fields, who lost the nomination for Secretary of State to Ben W. Olecti, incumbent, was defeated in this county by a majority of 1428; the vote being: Fields, 11,487; Olecti, 12,912.

MESSAGES POUR IN

Ben Selling Is Recipient of Wide Congratulations.

MANY FROM OUT OF STATE

"Best Thing That Has Happened to Oregon in Long Time," Is Substance of Some—Promises to Be Kept, He Says.

When it became reasonably certain yesterday that Ben Selling had won the Republican nomination for United States Senator, congratulatory telegrams began to pour into his office by the dozens, not only from Oregon, but from many other parts of the United States.

In addition to the telegrams Mr. Selling was busy all afternoon answering telephone calls from all over Oregon and many parts of Washington.

It was estimated that he answered no fewer than 200 calls during the day. Dozens of persons visited the office in the Selling building and extended congratulations in person and others sent notes of congratulation by messengers.

Last night Mr. Selling made the following public statement: "I am deeply gratified with the confidence reposed in me by voters of Oregon. The people have spoken and in doing so have chosen me as the Republican candidate for United States Senator, the highest office within their power to give."

"This is an important time in Oregon's history—a time when commercial interests of the state may be broadened, resulting in international commerce of a far greater volume than at present enjoyed."

As Senator of this great state, which I now feel certain I shall be, I will do everything within my power to push forward Oregon's interests."

Supporters of Other Candidates Are Only Lukewarm—Bourne Advocates Lose on Early Returns.

Setting on the election was light according to information gleaned yesterday from the various betting headquarters. Practically all of the money that changed hands was on the senatorial fight, it is said, there being but little money any time on any of the Presidential candidates.

It was estimated yesterday that no less than $100,000 changed hands on the senatorial end of the election. Betting at the first of the week was in favor of Ben Selling. Slight odds were offered but there were few takers.

As the week wore on the money worked along to even, and remained that way until Friday afternoon, when the Selling supporters were offering odds of 5 to 4 there was considerable betting on these figures Friday.

When returns began to come in from Multnomah County the situation changed and much money was lost by Bourne supporters. Subsequent returns from other parts of the state changed the complexion rapidly until midnight, when there was no Bourne money to be found.

On the Presidential fight there was considerable money changed hands on even bets of Taft and Roosevelt. One bet was made at even money that Roosevelt would poll more votes than Taft and La Follette combined.

There were many ardent supporters of Taft and Roosevelt who bet even money on their respective candidates. In the offices down the list from United States Senator there was practically no betting.

Small bets were made on Judge Gantenben for representative to Congress, but there was but little Lafferty money, even at odds.

Before adjourning their state convention in this city, the Socialists nominated a complete state and county ticket. The ticket follows: United States Senator—B. F. Ramp, Brooks.

Secretary of State—George Hinsdale, Portland. Justice of the Supreme Court—C. C. Brix, Prineville.

County Commissioner—J. Melrowitz, Portland. Presidential Electors—H. Olean, Deer

EVANS HELD IN HIGH ESTEEM EVEN IN HIS OWN PRECINCT. Something of the high regard and esteem in which Walter H. Evans, Republican nominee for District Attorney, is held by his neighbors and their confidence in his ability faithfully to administer the office to which he has been nominated is reflected in the fact that of 120 voters cast in Precinct 115, Mr. Evans lives in Precinct 115.

The detailed vote in the precinct for District Attorney was: Cameron, 9; Evans, 175; Fouts, 4; Joy, 11.

Island; George Dabritz, Falls City; A. Banta, Portland; H. T. Butler, Portland; P. Lewis, Portland. Circuit Judge, Department No. 4—George Perrine, St. Johns; Department No. 5—J. H. Taylor, Portland. District Attorney—Floyd C. Ramp, Portland.

Joint State Representative, Clackamas, Multnomah Counties—Theodore De Gork, Portland. Five State Senators, Thirteenth District—F. Healy, Portland; Dr. Vincent, St. Johns; George W. Michelson, W. J. Smith, P. Buehler, Portland. Twelve State Representatives—John Jordahl, Joe Orman, H. C. Geeser, E. J. Mulkey, George Treut, D. A. Simons, C. Baker, R. J. Stokes, A. Immonen, George Altman, E. Taylor, Portland.

County Commissioner—Charles Koerner, Portland. Sheriff—E. F. Buse, Portland. County Clerk—C. P. A. Peterson, Portland. County Treasurer—M. E. Dorfman, Portland.

McCusker is Hoping

La Follette Backer Doesn't Concede Defeat.

OUTSIDE VOTE WATCHED

Different Campaign Headquarters Scanning Returns From Up-State Districts—News of Victory Sent to T. R.

"Not until Monday morning when the complete election returns are in will I concede the nomination of Roosevelt in Oregon over La Follette." This was the declaration yesterday afternoon of Thomas McCusker, campaign manager in Oregon for Senator La Follette. Mr. McCusker believed his man will lose in ahead of Roosevelt before the returns are complete.

"I believe the vote from Mr. McCusker," that I might as well concede the state to Roosevelt. This I have refused to do because I believe I have a chance. So confident have I been that I have not as yet telegraphed the Senator who is now in California, the incomplete returns in which I concede the nomination of Roosevelt in Oregon over La Follette. This was the declaration yesterday afternoon of Thomas McCusker, campaign manager in Oregon for Senator La Follette. Mr. McCusker believed his man will lose in ahead of Roosevelt before the returns are complete.

Telegrams have been sent out by the Roosevelt committee to Mr. Roosevelt inquiring him of a victory. These telegrams were sent as early as midnight Friday. Later messages were sent yesterday after a summary of the day's returns had been scanned. The figures at the Courthouse and from telegraphed returns from representatives of the committee in outlying counties were eagerly watched.

F. W. Mulkey, chairman of the Roosevelt committee, Friday night said Roosevelt would carry the state by at least 5000 votes. Later he increased the figure to 20,000. He expressed confidence yesterday afternoon that his summary of the outcome would be substantially correct.

Lively scenes were enacted yesterday in the various political headquarters. To the Roosevelt forces victory seemed certain and their members scanned carefully by crowds of interested politicians.

Returns from counties outside Multnomah were eagerly watched. The office of Thomas McCusker was crowded with those who still believe La Follette will nose his way to the front. Large distances returns were carefully scanned. Mr. McCusker said that while he was interested in the summary of votes at present he did not intend to concede the election until every county has returns on file complete.

Mr. Mulkey received the following telegram from H. M. Dixon, Multnomah campaign manager for Roosevelt: "We take off our hats to you and to the progressive Republicans in Oregon for your great victory. The moral effect of the votes in Oregon and Nebraska yesterday will be of tremendous importance in every other state."

E. W. Sims, of Chicago, secretary of the National Roosevelt committee, telegraphed as follows to Mr. Mulkey: "This committee and its members extend to you and to Colonel Roosevelt's friends in Oregon hearty congratulations on the splendid victory in that state."

BROKER FACES CHARGE

O. J. Brooks Alleged to Have Put Own Name on Mortgage.

Charged with substituting his own name for that of the rightful owner, in a mortgage for $1350, O. J. Brooks, a broker, was arrested by Detectives Moloney and Swensen, in his office in a building at the corner of Commercial and Washington streets, yesterday. The complainant is W. H. Henderson.

Brooks, who came here recently from Rainier, was the go-between in a trade between Henderson and wife and O. T. Wells and wife, in which farm property was exchanged for an apartment building. A part of the transaction was the giving of a mortgage by Wells to Henderson. The complainant alleges that Brooks inserted his own name as mortgagee, and refused to release the instrument, though having no color of a claim. Brooks gave sureties and was released.
