

SHRINERS LINGER AS PORTLAND'S GUESTS

Stragglers Still Pouring in on Way Home From Los Angeles.

ORGANIZED PARTIES LEAVE

Members of Every Temple Promise to Boost for Rose City When National Convention Is Invited to Meet Here.

Although organized bodies of Shriners returning from the imperial mecca at Los Angeles were absent yesterday, Portland remained the oasis for more than 100 individual members, who lingered here as guests of various nobles of Al Kader Temple. Homeward-bound pilgrims will be conspicuous figures in Portland for several weeks to come.

With the departure late Friday afternoon of William J. Cunningham, imperial potentate, and the farewell Friday night to members of Aleppo Temple, of Boston, the week's festivities so far as Portland is concerned came to a close. Headquarters at the Portland Hotel, the scene of much gaiety last week, were closed yesterday, and the red fire no longer was in evidence. Members of the reception committee were on hand to greet "stragglers" that came. Hides to various points of interest in and about the city were provided for them the same as had been given the organized bands of the days before.

Levi Whitelaw, a member of Mecca Temple, of New York, is passing a few days in Portland, having left the special train party here. Mr. Whitelaw is a diamond importer and has many business friends here.

"I often wondered why we did so much business in Portland," said he, "but I can now see why. I had no idea that the city was so big and that it represented so much wealth. I consider Portland among the best cities in the West."

Members of the Arab patrol of Al Kader Temple, who acted as the imperial escort during Mr. Cunningham's visit, were at the hotel again yesterday to welcome the visitors. Several nobles lingered in Los Angeles and other California points at the close of the conclave and their places in the ranks were taken by substitutes. From the imperial potentate to the most humble member of the organization, it was agreed that the climate, the scenic advantages, the hotel accommodations and the hospitality of Portland entitles this city to the National convention of Shriners, should Portland ever aspire to entertain the order.

Portland planned somewhat ago to invite the Shriners to this city in 1915, the year of the Panama-Pacific Exposition, but Islam Temple, of San Francisco, withdrew, San Francisco, they say, is entitled to the conclave in the year of the fair and Portland will aid in placing it there.

include in their records an entry showing the exact time at which the police are notified of emergency cases. While there have been instances where the police have not received word of cases of violence reaching the hospitals as required by a recent ordinance, in the case at issue it was found by detectives who made an investigation yesterday, that full report of Mrs. Monagle's act was filed at headquarters at the time it happened. Routine compliance with the hospital ordinance has been irregular from the first, and the blame is handed between the hospital and the police. The hospital attendants assert that in many instances the reports they make are received curtly and without show of interest. In the rare cases in which

NEWSPAPERMAN WILL AWAKEN INTEREST IN BOY MAYOR CONTEST.

Justin W. McClachren, who did much of the press work for the Boys' Carnival and "Boy Mayor" contest of two years ago, has consented to do what he can to awaken general interest in the Boy Mayor election this year.

Mr. McClachren has had wide newspaper experience in the East, having been connected at different times and in various capacities with the Detroit Free Press, Chicago Record, Chicago Evening Post and the Sioux City Journal. He was editor of the "Northwestern" Magazine for two years and is at present editor of the "Valve World," a technical magazine published by Crane Co. He has always taken a deep interest in the "Boy Scouts," newboys and similar organizations.

necessary police action is delayed through the lack of timely reports, there seems to be no certain check upon the question whether notice was received. It is to cure this defect that the hospitals will record each notification sent to Police Headquarters.

Funeral arrangements for Mrs. Monagle were made through her uncle, John Lehner, of Seaside, and the body was quietly interred in Calvary Cemetery yesterday afternoon.

Scores of People Are Daily Finding the Same Conditions at the Great Closing-Out Sale of Reed-French Piano Co.

This is the one big money-saving opportunity on best makes of pianos. We have gone through the stock and slashed prices right and left. Absolutely the biggest cut in prices that was ever known on pianos of a superior quality. Buyers can shop the town over, attend every kind of piano inducement ever offered or dreamed of, and their footsteps will turn back to the reliable house of Reed-French Piano Co., the house that has not been in the habit of conducting sales, the house that has always been known for the high quality of the instruments handled and square dealing.

It's Time to Know the Facts

Just a little reasoning power reveals the opportunities here presented to piano buyers of Portland and vicinity, seldom if ever before offered, for he it known that the Reed-French Piano Mfg. Co. are retiring from business in Portland. Every instrument, no matter what, must be and will be closed out. It is to be no half-hearted effort, nor an excuse to sell pianos, but a genuine closing out and closing up of the Reed-French Piano Co.'s business.

In order to accomplish this great undertaking quickly and close out this huge stock in quick order it was realized that these magnificent pianos would have to be priced without profits, which has made spontaneous selling and their immediate disposal a positive certainty. Just stop and consider what it means to be able to select your piano from a great variety of the best makes, styles and finishes at about half the figure of retail price. These conditions you will find at this closing out sale, as scores of others are finding out daily, for the remarkable success of the sale to date, the large number of instruments selected daily by the most critical buyers is the best proof we can offer you of the genuineness of this money-saving offer.

Open 6th and Burnside Reed-French Piano Mfg. Co. 6th and Burnside Open Evenings

MR. HERBERT G. REED,
President Reed-French Piano Mfg. Co., Portland, Or.

Dear Mr. Reed—The baby grand piano has been delivered at our home, and to say we are delighted with its beauty of design, tone and finish, is but putting it mildly.

It may interest you to know that when I visited your store it was with the sole intention of buying an inexpensive used upright for my ranch, but the values you are offering in the highest grade instruments were so apparent it did not take me long to select the beautiful grand for my Portland home, sending the old home piano to the farm, as you will remember, I must say that I have never seen high-grade pianos sell for such little prices as you are making in closing out your business, and you certainly will have no trouble in disposing of every instrument quickly.

Thanking you for your most courteous treatment, I beg to remain
Yours very truly,
STAPLES THE JEWELLER.

Y.W.C.A. WORK SHOWN

DOMESTIC SCIENCE AND ART STUDENTS HAVE EXHIBIT.

Appealing Edibles and Equally Attractive Creations in Millinery Subjects of Admiration.

The domestic science and domestic arts classes of the Y. W. C. A. held an interesting exhibit Thursday evening, Friday to mark the close of the terms in these two departments. Many interested visitors thronged the assembly hall, where the exhibit was a dish of every conceivable variety of a dish was to be seen on the attractively decorated tables. A great many of the guests expressed astonishment over the many ways that dishes were served. Cookery is so old a story to most housewives that they are amazed to find how much of interest there really is in it.

"That is because they know so little about the chemical composition of foods and the reasons for having the different dishes that make up the daily menu," said Miss Faxon La Mont, the domestic science teacher. Miss La Mont said that she felt her pupils had absorbed the feeling that had cooking as well as had thinking was the cause of most human ills because they both cause indigestion.

The pupils in a good domestic science class have a golden opportunity to reap the results of the years of experience of a scientific cook, besides getting at the fundamental principles just as they would in studying any other important subject.

Equally interesting was the exhibit of the domestic arts department where the hats, shirtwaists and various articles made in this department are displayed on the platform of the assembly hall. More interest seemed to be taken in the millinery than in anything else in the exhibit. All the hats were made at comparatively small expense as were the beautiful artificial flowers shown. In one instance, as a student had four hats on exhibition that totaled $1 in cost.

"Of course she used material that she had in the house," said Miss Lewis, head of this department. "Now, don't say that she used any old thing, because she didn't." She used old pieces of material that she could not have used for anything else and that is real economy.

These four hats one tailored, one semi-tailored, and two lace effects, were as chic and becoming as any seen in the shops.

Friday night the newly graduated cooks, attired in white, invited friends to dispose of their exhibit.

This exhibit was very satisfactory to everyone concerned, as affairs of this kind usually bring out competitors and so awake desire to prove individual ability. This is unfortunately often lost sight of in the monotony of housework.

CHILDREN NEED HELP

JOHNSON TWINS CAN BE SAVED BY REGULAR ATTENTION.

Tubercular Trouble May Be Alleviated Should Charity Folk Come to Rescue.

Previously acknowledged $282.00
D. & T. H. 10.00
Total $292.00

Donations to procure medical attention for the Johnson orphan twins, who are being cared for by generous persons who contribute toward their maintenance at the Open-Air Sanitarium, are falling off perhaps on account of the public not realizing the existing conditions.

A daily call for aid has been kept up by The Oregonian in the interest of the 4-year-old boy twins. Their mother died several months ago leaving them not only destitute but suffering with tuberculosis, the disease which resulted in her death.

One of the children has a bad ankle, causing him to use crutches. This ankle can be cured if attended to regularly at once otherwise it eventually will cause the disablement and death of the child.

Any investigations are invited in the hope that somebody will care for the children as the city has made no provision so far.

Public Library Notes.

If there are any business houses that are discarding their city directories for 1911, now that the 1912 edition is being distributed, the public library would be glad to receive the 1911 copies for their exchange collection. Every directory received by the library can be exchanged for a 1912 directory of some important city in the United States, thereby making the library's collection of directories much larger than would otherwise be possible. These directories may be left at the librarian's office, or, if notified, the library will be glad to send for them.

The reference and periodical rooms of the central library, Seventh and Stark streets, are now open on Sundays from 2 to 9:30 P. M., and afford a quiet, comfortable place for study and reading.

Through the courtesy of Mrs. W. M. Ladd, the children's department of the central library has on exhibition a rare collection of butterflies. Specimens from South America, India and Ceylon are included, as well as many from our own country.

Beginning June 1, the children's room will close on Saturdays at 6 o'clock.

The Albina branch library, corner Rodney avenue and Russell street, will be closed on Sundays after June 1.

Beginning June 1, the North Albina branch library, 1131 Albina avenue, will open at 2 P. M., instead of at 12:30 P. M., and remain open until 9:30 P. M., as usual.
