

DAIRY CENTER SEEN

LaPine District Has Great Future Says C. L. Smith.

MORSEN'S TRACT FIGURES

Agriculturist for O-W. R. & N. Declares Controversy With Governor Is Needless and Costly—Colonists Invade Rich Section.

What is destined to become one of the richest dairy districts in the Northwest is the territory in the immediate vicinity of La Pine, in Southern Crook County, declares C. L. Smith, agriculturist for the O-W. R. & N. Company, who has just returned from a trip into Central Oregon.

Mr. Smith met with the Commercial Club at La Pine early last week and joined in a discussion of plans for the further development of the dairy industry in that section. While irrigation is the greatest need of the territory, much land can be developed successfully and profitably without irrigation.

The controversy between Governor West and J. E. Morsen over the opening of Morsen's tract of 35,000 acres under the provisions of the Carey act has retarded the development of the La Pine country four or five years, said Mr. Smith yesterday. "If the difficulty is not settled soon the development will be further hindered."

Both Men Are Right, He Says. After studying the situation I have come to the conclusion that both men are right in their contentions and that each is doing what he thinks is right. But there is nothing to quarrel over at all. They are quibbling about technicalities, the way I understand it. They remind me of a couple of school boys. Neither wants to give in to the other.

Morsen has 35,000 acres of valuable land that can be used for dairying or for any other kind of farming and until he settles his differences with the Governor he cannot or will not do much toward developing it. It seems that Morsen has complied with all the requirements of the old Oregon laws and that since taking up the land and while his application to have it withdrawn from the forest reserve was pending the state law was passed. Now the Governor wants him to adjust his affairs so as to comply with the new law. Morsen says he has complied with the law. He is right, because he has complied with the old law. The Governor says he has not complied with the law. He, also, is right, because he has not complied with the new law. There isn't much difference between the two anyway, and there is no reason at all for the opening of the tract. Morsen has a legitimate scheme and hundreds of farmers are ready to start development on the property as soon as he is able to give them water. The people of La Pine now are trying to effect a settlement. If they do it will mean additional property for that section."

Eastern Colonists Come. Mr. Smith says that a number of farmers are settling on the land in Southern Crook County. Many immigrants from Eastern states have recently arrived in the territory. All newcomers are well satisfied and started on the road to success. Crop conditions in Central Oregon are more promising than in any recent year. The farmers are jubilant.

The dry farming country in Northern Crook County is looking particularly fine. The wheat is all over the Agency Plains, near Madras, and found the wheat in excellent condition. I talked to farmers who have been there for eight and ten years and they tell me that things look better now than in any spring since they came there. A large amount of additional acreage has been put out this year. Many new settlers have come into Central Oregon and they are cultivating their first crop. The wheat production of the interior this year will beat all records.

Dairying Gets Attention. While the Northern part of Crook County is devoting its attention to the dairy industry, the people of the southern part are mostly interested in dairying. Three carloads of registered Holstein dairy cows were shipped into the La Pine country last week. Chester Carlson, of Guernsey, was received a few weeks ago. The country is peculiarly adapted to dairying. The soil will grow all kinds of clover, alfalfa, timothy, as well as root crops. Stock will thrive in that locality, but Mr. Smith believes that the dairy industry will be even more profitable there than fat stock growing.

The dairy products of La Pine find a market in Portland, as they can be easily transported. The entrance of the railroads into Central Oregon has aided the dairying materially.

CHINTOWN HAS BOYCOTT

Police Are Called to What is Feared Would be "Tong" War.

While Americans conducting a boycott usually confine themselves to the display of placards, Chinese cartons of their custom of doing accidental things in a super-occidental way, applied direct action to the furtherance of a boycott, in old Chinatown, yesterday morning, and as a consequence the police were called, on reports that a tong war had broken out, with fatal results. The scene of the disturbance was the Wing Mow Lung Ching store at 21 Second street.

A business conducted under that sign had been through the hands of a receiver, and the attendant litigation had produced feelings between the parties. Yesterday some unknown hand posted up a boycott notice, which a clerk in the store tore down. Thereupon a young Chinese entered, carrying a package supposed to contain red pepper, and a revolver, which he thrust under the nose of the astonished clerk. In the hubbub which arose he escaped, a few minutes before Detectives Hallyer, Howell, Day and Hyde arrived to probe the supposed murder.

HEROIC WORK REWARDS NEWPORT LIFESAVER

Captain Otto Wellander, Keeper of Yaquina Bay Station for 12 Years, Goes to San Francisco as Superintendent of Pacific Coast Division.

NEWPORT, Or., May 18.—(Special.) Captain Otto Wellander, keeper of the Yaquina Bay lifesaving station for 12 years, will leave Newport for San Francisco in a few days to take up his work as superintendent of the Pacific Coast Division of the U. S. Lifesaving Service.

A number of social entertainments will be given both in honor of Captain Wellander's promotion and as farewell parties. Mrs. Wellander and her son, Holt, have kept even pace with the Captain's popularity in acquiring friends.

When Captain Wellander first came to Newport the lifesaving station was two miles down the coast and the lifeboat was kept in the bay. He was quick to see the loss of time and asked that the station be changed to Newport. The former superintendent and inspectors upheld his demand and the change has undoubtedly resulted in the saving of lives where quick action has been demanded.

Captain Wellander paid little attention to small things and if his men were "on the job" he was lenient with them, for which reason a personal feeling of indebtedness sprang up between the men and their "skipper," and this resulted in voluntary discipline and unusual interest displayed in their work by the men.

Slover Would Employ Public Attorney to Act for Ignorant and Destitute Ones.

Police Chief Slover has announced that he will lay before the police committee of the Executive Board a proposal to omit from the records of arrests an entry of the amount of money taken from the prisoner. By this means he expects to balk attorneys who have had "runners" in the City Jail to solicit Police Court business.

A record is kept of the cash and other valuables taken from each prisoner, and it has been the custom to enter this in a column on the arrest ticket, which is open to public inspection. Some lawyers keep a close eye on this column and solicit interviews

BOILING JAM BURNS BOY

Explosion of Cooking Kettle at East Side Factory Injures Employee.

By the explosion of a huge kettle of boiling jam that he was stirring with a stick at the candy factory of F. F. Haradon & Son, at 412 East Davis street, Thomas Honan, 16 years old, was severely burned about the upper part of his body and on his face yesterday.

Another worker in the same room was slightly burned. Honan is at St. Vincent's Hospital. The boy was standing on a small step ladder so that he could reach the vessel, and the force of the explosion knocked him over. The hot liquid shot to all parts of the room, and the kettle was shattered into bits. Immediately after the accident young Honan got up and ran to the faucet, where cold water was turned on him, after which he was covered with flour, pending the arrival of a physician.

It is believed that the valve for the escape of steam generated within the kettle was not sufficiently open and this caused the explosion. Young Honan lives at 348 Benton street. The family arrived here a few weeks ago from Salida, Colo. His father is a locomotive engineer.

Trusses Like These Are A Crime

Get Rid of Elastic Bands, Springs and Leg-Straps, such Devices Have Forced Thousands to Undergo Dangerous Operations.

Trusses like those shown above—the belt and leg-strap, elastic and spring contraptions sold by druggists, surgical supply houses and many self-styled "Hernia Specialists"—make life miserable for everybody who wears them.

And—even when drawn so tight you can scarcely stand to keep them on—instead, they often do immense harm—they squeeze the rupture, often causing straining of the pelvic house in front—press against the sensitive spinal column at the back.

The Plaster Truss Is This. Rupture—as explained in our free book—can't be relieved or cured—can't even be kept from growing worse—unless constantly held in place. Just as a broken bone can't "knit" unless the parts are held securely together.

And—just as a broken bone can be held—the right kind of truss is the only thing in the world that can keep a rupture from coming out.

What a difference it will make when you get the kind of truss that kind of truss—without flinching a cent of your money.

See the famous Cluthe Truss or Cluthe Automatic Massager. Far more than a truss—far more than merely a device for holding the rupture in place.

Go different from everything else for rupture that it has received 15 separate patents. Thousands say it is as comfortable as the softest pillow.

No belt, elastic belt or springs around your waist, and no leg-strap, nothing to pinch, chafe, squeeze or hurt. Self-regulating, self-adjusting, it is held in position by suction—can't shift or slip—keeps you in a position that is honestly guaranteed to hold your rupture every minute of the day.

Sent on 60 Days' Trial to Prove It. We have so much faith in the Cluthe Truss—we have seen it work wonders for so many others—that we want to make one especially for your case and let you try it at our risk.
