Chairman of Committee Announces Line of March for Rose Festival Event — Award Goes to Most Unique Entry.

"More than $800,000 worth of automobiles, covered with a riot of flowers, will be in line in the automobile parade of the Rose Festival, Wednesday, June 13," says O. K. Jeffery, chairman of the parade committee. "Allowing for a very short distance intervening between each car, the parade will extend over a line of march more than six miles long."

The automobile parade is to start at 2 o'clock on the afternoon set for this event. To avoid the possibility of any of the committee has issued requests that all cars be in line by 1:45 at Thirteenth and Burnside streets where the parade will be formed. Each machine must bear a number for the convenience of the starters and judges.

Prize for Most Unique Car. A prize has been offered this year for the most unique car in the parade, a point that has been overlooked in previous years, and it is expected that this will be an incentive that will bring out a display of ingenuity and cleverness in decoration that will surpass anything in the automobile parades of the past festivals.

RAILROADS DUMP GARBAGE

Residents Complain That Northrup Street is Made Unsanitary.

At a meeting of the Health Board yesterday the City Health Department was instructed to proceed at once to prevent the railway companies from dumping garbage from dining cars and cattle cars at the foot of Northrup street. Complaints from various sources were received by the board, showing that the street is being used for a general garbage dumping ground, much to the detriment of the health and sanitary conditions of the vicinity. The report shows that this is particularly true in the district bounded by Hawthorne avenue on the north, East Thirtieth street on the east, Division street on the south, and Grand avenue on the west, from which district many complaints have been received.

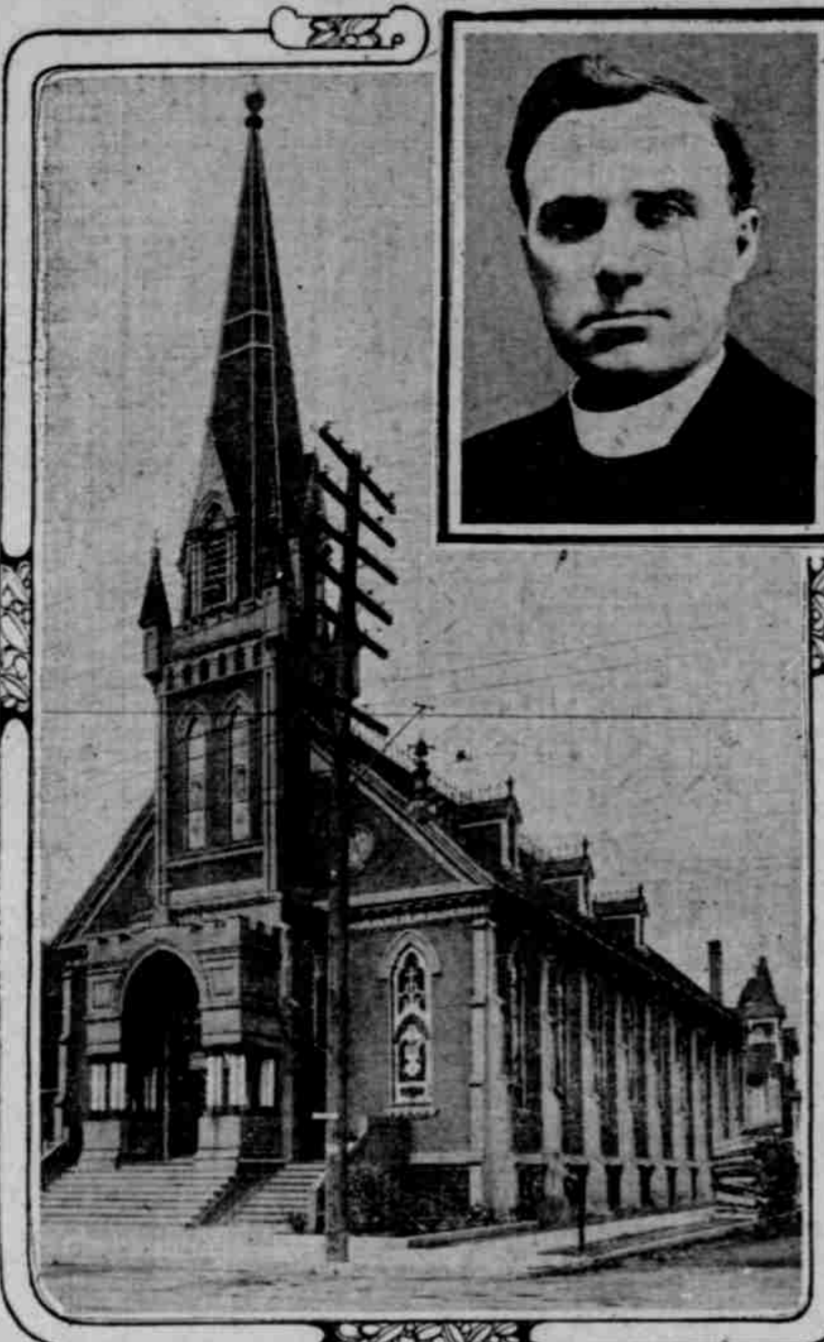

BOYCE PORTLAND BOOSTER

Hotel Manager Praises Victoria and Sees Improvement at Seattle.

Edward Boyce, vice-president and managing director of the Portland Hotel Company, returned yesterday from a business trip to Puget Sound and British Columbia. In speaking of the business conditions in that section he said: "Victoria impressed me particularly as it has grown into a most prosperous and active city with bustle and life equal to any American city of the coast. This came as a surprise for when I was there last it was completely dead. It is entirely different now and is a competitor for business of all kinds with the best of the Northern cities. I found Seattle beginning to feel increased activity due largely to the opening of the Alaska season. Many Eastern people are arriving at Seattle to locate there. When it comes down to cold facts Portland's activity puts it in a different class from these Northern cities and their residents know it."

ST. MARY'S CHURCH PLANS BIG JUBILEE CELEBRATION

Twenty-fifth Anniversary to Be Observed by Entertainment in Columbus Hall—Some of Organizers Still Living.

St. Mary's Church and The Pastor Rev. W. M. Daly.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH, on Williams avenue and Stoughton street, Albina, called the "mother of churches," will celebrate its 25th anniversary, the silver jubilee, next Thursday night with an entertainment held in Columbus Hall, where Archbishop Alexander Christie will preside. Judge J. P. Kavanaugh will speak on the subject, "The Work of the Pioneers of Oregon," and Rev. Father George P. Thompson, pastor of Madeline Church, will deliver an address on "Our Forefathers in the Faith." Daniel H. Wilson, assisted by the choir and leading Portland musicians will provide music. It is expected that Rt. Rev. C. J. O'Reilly, Bishop of Baker, formerly pastor of St. Mary's Church, will be present. At the celebration the remnant of the early members will be present. June 3 Bishop O'Reilly will celebrate the pontifical high mass and Rev. E. V. O'Hara will preach the sermon. The Ancient Order of Hibernians and St. Joseph's Society, which George P. Thompson is organizing, have been invited to attend.

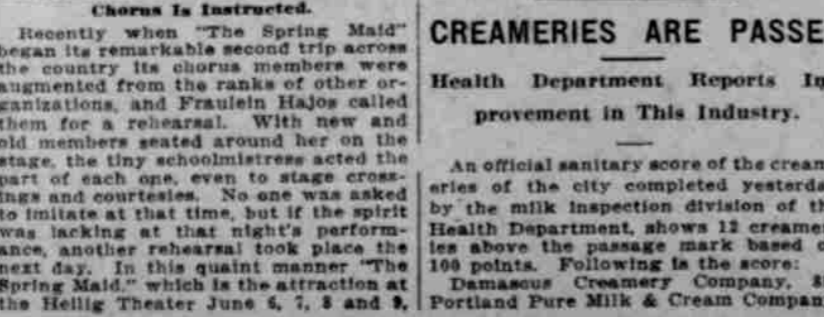

Church Dedicated in 1887. St. Mary Church was dedicated by Archbishop W. H. Gross Sunday, June 7, 1887, the parish having been at first called St. Francis, of East Portland, up to that time. The first mass was celebrated in Hill's hall in Albina by Rev. Father Louis Verhaeghe, who was pastor of the church when it was organized in 1886 at the home of the late John Kelly in Lower Albina. There were present John Kelly, recently deceased; John Glasziok, John Golden, James Ryan and Edward Hynes. Mr. Glasziok and Mr. Hynes are still living. It was due to the determination of Mrs. Kelly that the meeting did not adjourn until the church was organized. She locked the door until the committee organized the church. The new church was cared for by St. Francis until July, 1888, when Rev. G. B. Van Lin was appointed pastor. In 1889 the Dominican Sisters came to Portland and St. Mary's school was opened September 4, 1889, by Sister M. Alberta, O. S. B., assisted by Sister M. Emelia, O. S. B. Rev. C. J. O'Reilly, present Bishop of Baker, succeeded Father Van Lin, who died. Father O'Reilly built up St. Mary's Church rapidly.

MIZZI HAJOS MAKES CHORUS "TOE MARK"

Diminutive Star in "The Spring Maid" Comes Back to the Heilig With All Her Foreign Sweetness, June 6 to 9.

"YOU stand so—the toe, he always point out—the toe, and your eyes, he must always talk. Perhaps you say nothin', but he eye, oh, he say much. You are at Carlsbad Spa. It see Springtime and the gay officers are there. Oh, one real girl can say much while she not talk at all." Mizzi Hajos, the diminutive star of "The Spring Maid," talking to her chorus girls. "The Spring Maid," as it now is, is very different from "The Spring Maid" as America first saw it, but it is vastly like the production as gay old Vienna knew it in its best days. Personality sticks out. There is spirit and briskeness that have been caught bodily and brought across the seas by the energetic little Hungarian player who was chosen to create the leading feminine role in the opera, as well as a round half dozen more famous ones, because she had "personality"—the something that vivifies a playwright's puppet of imagination into a real flesh and blood person. She does not teach ballet steps, though it is told that she herself was made to study and practice hours a day as part of the course of instruction at the Academy of Budapest. She does not suggest gestures, posturing, or even the use of a fellow-player's voice; but it is told by those who have watched her that all her efforts seem to be directed to the exhilaration of those around her to their utmost limits, leaving the minute points of the manner of telling the story entirely to each one's individual methods and mannerisms. Chorus is instructed. Recently when "The Spring Maid" began its remarkable second trip across the country its chorus members were augmented from the ranks of other organizations, and Fraulien Hajos called them for a rehearsal. With new and old members seated around her on the stage, the tiny schoolmistress acted the part of each one, even to stage crossings and courtesies. No one was asked to imitate at that time, but if the spirit was lacking at that night's performance, another rehearsal took place the next day. In this quaint manner "The Spring Maid," which is the attraction at the Heilig Theater June 4, 5, 6 and 9,

The score shows much improvement over the first score made about four months ago. The scores are made on the standard set down by the Government Department of Agriculture, based on the sanitary condition of the creamery plants and the methods of handling the creamery products from the time the milk arrives at the plant until it leaves for the market in the manufactured product. STUDENTS SEE PAPER MILL. Commercial Geography Class of Jefferson High Goes to Oregon City. The commercial geography class of the Jefferson High School made a trip to Oregon City Saturday and visited the Willamette Paper & Pulp Company's plant. They were met at the wharf by Messrs. Sheehan, Phillips and Borden, and escorted through the various sections of the mill. They followed the process from taking the logs out of the water until it is in paper and made into 1000-pound rolls for shipment. The rolls of paper seen in the shipping room were about two feet in diameter and eight feet long, weighing 1000 pounds. Following the trip through the paper mill the class went to the bluffs overlooking the Willamette Falls and enjoyed a picnic dinner. Montana Calls Tulane's President. JAPAN'S TRADE GROWS

PORTLAND'S BUSINESS IN ORIENT FLOURISHING.

Wheat Imports for 1911 Increased $900,000. Flour Also Showed Substantial Gain. Thomas M. Sammons, United States Consul-General at Yokohama, was in Portland yesterday on his annual leave of absence, and expects to be in this country about two months. He goes direct to Boston where his son will be graduated from Harvard, June 17. He will return to Portland for a visit before returning to his post in Japan. Mr. Sammons was formerly a Tacoma newspaper writer. His work in Japan consists largely in fostering trade relations between that country and the United States and he is rated well by the State Department. Portland is directly interested in the work of Mr. Sammons, as is shown by the fact that wheat importation into Japan from the United States showed an increase during 1911 exceeding $900,000 over any previous year. This was largely due to the placing of a duty on the importation of flour. Notwithstanding this duty on flour and the great increase in wheat importations, flour imports from the United States also increased. Most of this flour comes from the Wilcox mills of Portland. The total increase of imports to Japan last year from the United States was over $1,900,000. This, Mr. Sammons declares, is unprecedented. It is also gratifying to note that up to the present time the imports this year have shown a corresponding increase. The total of imports to Japan from the United States last year was $41,000,000, and Japan exports to the United States goods to the value of $80,000,000 annually. The total commerce of Japan is more than $200,000,000 a year, and of this the imports are approximately $43,000,000 in excess of the exports. Japan's export business with the United States represents 32 per cent of its entire export trade; of its total purchases from abroad it takes between 15 and 16 per cent from the United States. Japan sells more to the United States than it does to the entire continent of Europe. The chambers of commerce or commercial clubs of several cities, including Boston, New York, New Orleans, Los Angeles and San Francisco, have already arranged with the State Department at Washington to have Consul-General Sammons deliver a lecture on Japanese trade relations in those cities during his visit to the United States, and it is probable a similar request will be sent in from Portland.

They will be employed in overhead construction, bonding and other work necessary to the electrification of the road. "We are proceeding with our work," said D. W. Campbell, general superintendent of the Southern Pacific, yesterday, "regardless of the fact that the City Council has not granted us a franchise to operate over Fourth street. We want to have everything ready so that we can connect our lines and begin service into the city as soon as we reach a conclusion with the Council." Mr. Campbell has just returned from San Francisco, where he attended a conference of general superintendents of the Southern Pacific system. Cottage Grove Class Launched.
