See Washington Street Windows

See Washington Street Windows

When this store's policy of doing business was determined upon, one of the cardinal rules laid down for the guidance of department managers was that positively no goods were to be carried over from one season into the next, no matter how great the financial loss entailed might be in the carrying out of this plan. In accordance with this ruling the Women's Ready-to-Wear Department offers, beginning tomorrow, its entire stock of Tailor-made Suits—about 2000 garments—at about 50c on dollar, and by way of good measure will make no charge for needed alterations. In order to facilitate choosing, the entire collection has been grouped in five great lots, and arranged on racks bearing the sale price in great, big figures. Not much need to say anything about the desirability and newness of the Suits—you know they're in town only about five weeks, and there's very little need to say much about the new prices, except this: They sold very freely at the former prices and will therefore move at a double-quick pace tomorrow. Better come early in the day for best choice.

TURNER IS MECCA

Thousands Attend Christian Missionary Convention.

$7419.47 RAISED IN YEAR

Organized in 1878 With 30 Buildings, This Number Has Increased to 132, Embracing a Membership of 20,000 Souls.

TURNER, Or., June 29.—(Special.)—The Oregon Christian Missionary Convention is in session here this week. It opened June 22 and will adjourn Monday. The spacious camping grounds where the tabernacle is located is a well-populated tent city, and the facilities for camp life in the beautiful groves, through which flows an abundant stream from Mill Creek, make it a delightful location for a large gathering. The homes of all accommodating Turner citizens are taxed to their capacity with guests. Nearly 500 visitors in regular attendance are noted in the books this year. Besides the delegates from all of the Christian churches of the state, hundreds of visitors are in attendance. Sermons and addresses by speakers of National reputation are on the programme. The large tabernacle, with a seating capacity of 3000 people, is daily showing increasing attendance. The opening day nearly 1000 were present, and it is expected that between 2000 and 3000 people will be present at the close. The history of the Oregon Christian Missionary Convention is an interesting epoch of Oregon pioneer days. Organized in 1878, at Dallas, for the purpose of extending its work throughout the state, the meetings at that time comprised 30 churches. There are now 132 churches, with a membership of 20,000. Fifteen new churches have since been built and 10 new congregations organized during the past year, and $7,419.47 raised for state missions. H. L. Turner and Mrs. Turner, pioneer settlers, after whom this town was named, donated six acres of ground to the Marion County Association many years ago. George L. Turner, Mrs. C. A. Davis and Lewis H. Turner, in 1891, built on a four-acre tract a large tabernacle.

JUDGE IS GRILLED

Hanford Scored in Hearing at Seattle.

PERSONAL HABITS TOLD

Detective and City Weighmaster Say They Have Seen Jurist in Intoxicated Condition—Inquiry Continues on Monday.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 28.—The House judiciary sub-committee that is investigating the conduct of United States District Judge Cornelius H. Hanford today concluded its inquiry into the disfranchisement of Leonard Olson, the Tacoma Socialist, and called witnesses to testify to the judge's personal habits. A. M. Olson, a detective, was the first of those witnesses summoned, without previous warning to him, and he protested against testifying, saying that his investigation had been conducted last Fall; that his memory of what he learned was somewhat indistinct, and that he should be permitted to consult his notes which were turned in daily to the detective agency. The committee excused him until Monday. Olson testified, however, in part: "One evening I followed Judge Hanford from the time he left a barroom on Second avenue until he arrived at his home, 15 minutes later. He did not stagger when he walked to the car that carried him home, nor when he walked from the car to his door, but on the car he was apparently under the influence of some intoxicant. "My personal impression is that the judge was intoxicated, but at the same time it is possible that his condition was due to sleepiness or heavy work." Witness told of two other occasions when he had seen Judge Hanford apparently intoxicated. John Bathurst, a city weighmaster, who acknowledged that he was prejudiced against Hanford for his decisions on the bench, testified that about 8 o'clock one Sunday evening last Autumn he saw Judge Hanford emerge from the Rainier Club and walk north on Fourth avenue, staggering from one side of the broad walk to the other, and once stepping into the roadway, but recovering himself. "He was either very drunk or very ill," said the witness. Two girls saw the judge and turned and laughed at him, Bathurst testified. One day said the witness, he had seen Judge Hanford apparently drunk.

BANKERS VISIT OLYMPIA

Financiers After Tacoma Conference Call on Governor Hay.

OLYMPIA, Wash., June 28.—(Special.)—Olympia was visited today by more than 200 Washington bankers attending the state convention in Tacoma. On reaching the city this morning by boat, the visitors were taken to the executive mansion in automobiles, and were there entertained by Governor and Mrs. M. E. Hay. At the conclusion of the reception the guests were escorted to the City Park at Priest Point, where luncheon was served. This was prepared by the Elks and 500 guests were present. One of the features was the festive goodluck, a delicacy which is found only about Olympia, and was unfamiliar to most of the visitors except through the papers. Patriotic and popular selections were rendered by the Olympia band. The tables were set in a grove of trees in the park, and were tastefully decorated with flowers, while flags and bunting were draped among the trees.

Cupid Active in Linn County.

ALBANY, Or., June 29.—(Special.)—Cupid has been very busy in Linn County this month and a total of 34 marriage licenses have been issued since June 1. This is an unusually large number for one month in this county. June is always a big wedding month here, but the number thus far issued already exceeds last year's record for June by seven.
