

ST. JOHNS OPENS INDUSTRIAL SHOW

Sweet Pea Exhibit and Elks' Regatta Features of Big Celebration.

FOUR BOAT RACES ON LIST

John P. Sullivan, Grand Exalted Ruler, Will Be a Judge—Long List of Awards and Committees Given Out Officially.

ST. JOHNS, OR., July 6.—(Special).—St. Johns will be the scene of unusual activity and attraction this week on account of the Sweet Pea Show and Industrial Exhibit which will open Monday and continue for two days and the Elks' regatta, which is to take place Tuesday afternoon, commencing at 2 o'clock, under the special direction of the Portland Motor-Boat Club, upon the splendid and unobstructed four-mile course along the Willamette fronting on the city of St. Johns.

One thousand dollars will be given in prizes for the Elks' championship of Oregon as follows:

Class A—Fifty-foot—First, $400; second, $150; third, $50.

Class B—20-footers—First, $125; second, $75.

Class C—runabouts—First, $75; second, $25.

Class F—cabin boats—First and second prizes, cups.

The following named persons have been selected as judges: John P. Sullivan, grand exalted ruler; Hon. A. G. Rushlight, Mayor of Portland; Hon. A. A. Muck, Mayor of St. Johns; Henry Wenne, of Portland; Hon. K. C. Couch, ex-Mayor of St. Johns. Several entries have been received.

The Sweet Pea Show and Industrial Exhibit will attract much attention and will be held in the commodious city dock, which is about 550 feet long, and has been especially decorated for the occasion. Each evening there will be a dance, with music by a special orchestra. St. Johns is making every effort for these coming festivities. The business streets will be decorated with the colors of the Elks and the National emblem, band music will be rendered continuously and a warm welcome will be extended to the Elks, large numbers of whom are expected to visit St. Johns. The Portland Railway, Light & Power Company, Spokane, Portland & Seattle Railway Company and river boats are preparing to accommodate the large number of people expected to attend. The St. Johns Commercial Club has been diligently at work preparing and completing all the details and arrangements for the coming festivities, assisted by the Ladies Auxiliary, which is the social adjunct of the club. CRITIC TO LECTURE

Emilie Frances Bauer Visits Portland Incognito.

PRODIGES' TALES AVOIDED

Series of Three Talks Will Be Given at Hotel Portland Parlors for the Benefit of Musical and Literary Circles of City.

After a busy season in New York, Emilie Frances Bauer, special correspondent of The Oregonian and musical critic of the New York Evening Mail and of the Chicago Musical Leader, reached Portland about two weeks ago. Miss Bauer traveled incognito, as she wanted to avoid hearing long tales of the prodigies. She needed rest more than information.

Miss Bauer's presence has given rise in the musical and literary circles to a desire to hear several of the lectures which she gave in New York, Boston and San Francisco since last she was here, and at the instance of her friends, especially Mrs. Warren E. Thomas, a series is now in course of arrangement. Three lectures will be given at the Hotel Portland parlors on dates to be announced later.

Speaking of the hold that lectures have taken in the East Miss Bauer said: "Of course the business man does not see the reason for such arrangements, but the morning is a very good time for people to improve the mind, and that little hour just before the 1 o'clock lunch is practically lost anyway. In New York at the Plaza my lectures were not by any means boycotted by men. Several ministers heard my lecture on Walt Whitman and I was invited to speak from their pulpits on the same subject."

In speaking of her lecture on "The Psychology of Richard Strauss and His Works," one of the lectures which will be included in the course here, Miss Bauer said: "I gave this lecture before an audience which I knew to contain many friends of the great composer. It was not always easy to explain to the layman, as Strauss is the most difficult subject in all of the significant figures of the world. He is not only the genius whose personality shows the weakness of man, while the other side is that of a Hercules."

Another lecture which will be given is the one on Opera Writers Since Wagner, to which has been added a complete exposition of the American as composer of opera as shown in Victor Herbert's "Natoma." Horatio Parker's "Mona" and other writers whose works have not yet gained the public ear.

Level Sites on the Heights

Pavement Sidewalks Sewer Mains

BITULITHIC paving will make the streets of Westover Terraces the best system of roadways in the city. Perfect street building will take ample care of drainage.

CONCRETE sidewalks, winding about on a general incline of 8%, well built, presenting an unusually graceful appearance, will be laid throughout the property. Many blocks already built.

SEWER mains in Westover Terraces are being laid as the streets are being graded. This eliminates the tearing up of pavements after they are once laid.

WESTOVER TERRACES

Water Mains Gas and Electric Improvement Cost

COMPLETE system of water mains is being installed right now. Upon finishing the work, water will be available for every lot.

NOTHING will be lacking in gas and electric service. Both will be ready for use, the minute your home is ready for them.

IMPROVEMENT cost has all been absorbed in the price of each building site. Deducting the cost of improvements, the cost of sluicing down the hill and making Westover Terraces ready for habitation, it is the cheapest homesite property in Portland.

License Book Yields Secret.

Efforts of Thomas R. Savage, deputy county coroner, to keep secret the fact that he is to marry Miss Grace Whitman, who lives near Oswego, were thwarted yesterday when the names of the couple appeared on the marriage license book at the county clerk's office. Following their marriage they are going to San Francisco for their honeymoon, after which they will return to Portland to live.

LADY BARBER IS "NEXT" TO "THE OAKS" STUNTS

Female Tonsorial Artist Calls Bluff of Journalist After Barbering Him for $1.65, and Duo Go the Limit, Even to "Hot Dogs" at Popular Park.

BY ADDISON BENNETT.

WALKING down the boulevard I spied a sign, "Lady Barbers," and I felt for the first time, I am sure, that I was a man.

I picked out the most likely-looking one and sat down in her chair, and to the accustomed query of haircut or shave, I told her to go as far as she liked—and she went to the extent of the dollar and fifty cents. I was shaved and hair cut and massaged and towelled and bandaged and boiled and blistered—all for a dollar and fifty cents.

During the course of the engagement I learned that the lady barber was a native of New Haven, Conn., where he received his academic education. He moved to Missouri in 1846 and attended the state university. After serving as a schoolmaster for some years he crossed the plains to California in 1860 and became a prospector. He conducted a hotel in Sacramento and washed out gold at $50 a day with a rocker.

Lure of gold drew him to Powder River in Eastern Oregon and to the Sanger mines in Union County. For a time he ran a pack train from the Dalles to Boise Basin and finally settled in La Grande in 1866, where he lived until his death.

He mined, entered business, and for a time conducted the Elks Mountain Sentinel, in which he invested all he could dig out of the "dirt." He served two terms as deputy sheriff and was elected for one term as sheriff. He was county surgeon until his declining years interfered with the performance of his duties.

Although he went blind soon after he resigned as county surgeon, he was always hopeful and cheerful, and was liked by all the townspeople, who affectionately called him "Doc" Curtis.

There will be no evening concerts by the Park Band during the Elks' convention week.
