

WIFE SIGNS TO BE RID OF HITCHCOCK

Actor and Miss Zabelle Furnish Excitement as Liner Prepares to Sail.

"CHARLIE" GOING ALONG

Hitchcock Minimizes Incident, Saying He Needed Signature That He Might Sell Herd of Cows They Own.

NEW YORK, July 6.—(Special).—Raymond Hitchcock and his wife, Flora Zabelle, had a squabble this morning in front of the stateroom which his wife and her father engaged on the Hamburg-American liner Moltke, which sailed today from Hoboken for Mediterranean ports. The squabble was further augmented by the appearance of a person whom all present called "Charlie." From words that flew for a time, spectators gathered that not only did Mr. Hitchcock want Miss Zabelle to sign certain papers which he brought to the ship, together with a lawyer, but he strenuously objected to "Charlie's" sailing on the Moltke or tagging around after Miss Zabelle. Matters were further complicated by the untimely arrival of Charlie himself with two suitcases. He and Hitchcock started right in without further words, but were pulled apart.

Then Hitchcock fumbled in his coat pockets and unearthed some legal documents which he wanted his wife to sign. He appeared to forget Charlie. All he wanted was to have the papers signed. "I'd sign almost anything," sighed Miss Zabelle in relief, "to be rid of him." Charlie sailed when the Moltke did. At the Lams Club this afternoon Hitchcock said he was amused over the incident. He said that his wife had given him power of attorney to sell their farm near Brewster and had left for the ship before he discovered that he could not dispose of their herd of Holsteins without Mrs. Hitchcock's signature. He said his father-in-law had not much respect for his business ability and that he was a little excited. "Charlie," he declared, was his wife's cousin. He was on the heat of terms with his wife, he said.

ALBANY HEARS ORATORIO

Cantata, Joan of Arc, Rendered as Part of Chautauqua Programme.

ALBANY, Or., July 6.—(Special).—An oratorio by local people, assisted by a Portland soloist, was the feature of the Albany Chautauqua today. It was the cantata, "Joan of Arc," and was presented in the big auditorium tonight. It was directed by Mrs. Adna Smith Flo, of the conservatory of music of Albany College, and the solo parts were taken by Mrs. Flo, soprano; J. F. Mulder, of Portland, tenor; and J. C. Irvine, of Albany, baritone. The chorus was formed of local musicians.

Proceeding the oratorio was a concert by the Chautauqua orchestra, and the following rustic numbers by local talent: "The Camel's Hump" (German), by a children's chorus; "Summertime Song of the Sea" (Coombs), chorale of young women; "I Will Give the Keys of Heaven," by a children's chorus; male quartet, Messrs. A. M. Hammer, C. V. Littler, J. C. Irvine and H. A. Nelson.

Professor Lee Emerson Bassett, of Stanford University, gave a recital this afternoon on "Hamlet," and Miss Mary A. Sutherland, of the North Dakota Agricultural College, sang in the auditorium this afternoon on "Meats, a Discussion of the Relative Values of the Different Cuts." A concert by the Chautauqua orchestra at 2 o'clock and a band concert at 4 o'clock completed the afternoon programme.

Rev. William Parsons, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Eugene, was the speaker at the forum hour this forenoon. The work of the Chautauqua Summer School was carried forward today. Rev. W. B. Hinshaw, D. D., pastor of the White Temple of Portland, conducted the Summer Bible school class.

The attendance at today's sessions was large and the colony of campers on the Chautauqua grounds was augmented today by several people from surrounding cities as well as from Albany.
