NEW YORK, July 11—(Special)—

The man who ran to the police yesterday to report that he had seen a man in a red coat who looked like William G. Evans, the mastermind of the Madison Square Garden Robbery, who was arraigned before Judge Loevinger, charged that he recognized the defendant at the time he was at one of the other locations.

The man said that he was standing at the corner of a street when he saw a person who looked like William G. Evans walking up to him.

He added that he had seen the defendant a number of times before and recognized him immediately.

The man also revealed that he had been at the scene of the robbery at the moment it occurred.
