BRITISH FLEET NEEDS MEN

Lord Beresford Urges Stronger Navy With Renewed Energy. LONDON, July 20.—(Special.)—Lord Charles Beresford is continuing his energetic campaign in favor of a stronger navy. He is pointing out that the urgent need of the moment is a provision for a rapid increase in the supply of men.

THE JUSTICE OF HIS STATEMENT IS SHOWN

by the fact that if common rates were voluntarily granted by the railroads, the prices of property, rights of way and such other requirements as they might need would rise and involve greater investments than if they worked quietly and showed their favor after they had succeeded.

WE DESIRE TO THANK OUR MANY FRIENDS

EUGENIC SHOW AT STATE FAIR HAS WORLD INTEREST.

Feature Attracts Notice From Bohemia, Germany and Prominent Evolutionists. The plan to hold a Eugenic Exposition at the State Fair this year, which is being worked out under the direction of O. M. Plummer, superintendent in charge of the fair, has attracted more local interest and Mr. Plummer is in daily receipt of many letters from all parts of the world, carrying inquisitive suggestions and offers for co-operation.

Perhaps the foremost among the noted authorities on eugenics who have corresponded with Mr. Plummer since the plan for the exposition at the State Fair was first broached, is Dr. C. Cercher, of Tesnon, Bohemia. In that country the different provinces select their best children and enter them in a competitive show, on much the same plan that has been outlined for the coming county preliminaries and state exposition at Salem next fall. These exhibitions, according to Dr. Cercher, have had a very material effect toward the improvement of the human stock.

Superintendent Plummer is also in correspondence with the director of the department of experimental evolution of the Carnegie Institute, Washington, D. C., and with the director of education, Dresden, Germany, whose direction the Eugenic movement has made great progress.

Letters are coming to Superintendent

Plummer from various states, of this state, and all give encouragement to the new movement. Blanks to facilitate the work are being prepared by Superintendent Plummer, and he is hoping to start this year with 200 children entered in competition.

Mrs. Mary T. Watts, of Audubon, Ia.,

has been active in conducting a similar show in that state, which has been a great success. Superintendent Plummer is getting many ideas from her, which she is very willing to give. Superintendent Plummer's idea that at present children enter them in a National eugenics show at the Panama-Pacific Fair, in 1915, has the hearty support of Mrs. Watts, and she states that she will gladly work toward that end. It is hoped to have the best children from each state represented in San Francisco at a competitive show.

MALE IMITATOR IN WOE

CARMEN FALLS FOUND SWABBING DECKS ON LAUNCH.

She and Skipper Arrested When Officer Discovers Sex of the "Seaman."

Male attire, the frequent source of grief to Carmen Falls, brought her new trouble yesterday when Patrolman Lillis found the young woman, in the guise of an able seaman, serving her watch on the deck of a launch running between the city and the Oaks. C. S. Graul, skipper of the craft, was arrested with her. The girl has been swabbing decks wearing trousers for several weeks.

Carmen Falls first fell into the hands of the police two years ago, after she had "hoboed" her way here from Montana, and is alleged to have played the part of a gullible among the susceptible feminine hearts of the underworld. She eloped on the back of a motorcycle and rode to Grants Pass with Oliver Williams, who was brought back and convicted of stealing the machine. The pair had abandoned the
