

THOMPSON CASE TAKES NEW TURN

Parents of Defendant Testify Against Mrs. Goodeve in Her Suit for $50,000.

'GOOD ANGEL' OVERLOOKED

Jurors Refuse to Look at Pictures for Comparison—Depositions Presented From California Regarding Plaintiff.

Continuing their efforts to convince the jury that Mrs. Helen M. Goodeve was either married to a man known as A. J. Trimble in San Francisco, or at least passed herself off as his wife, attorneys Sheldon and Arnold, defending the $50,000 breach of promise suit brought by Mrs. Goodeve against R. H. Thompson, Jr., yesterday, called to the witness-stand in Judge McGinn's court Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Thompson, Sr., parents of the defendant, and read depositions from several persons in San Francisco.

Another witness was M. F. Brady, a railroad equipment man of Portland, who was the representative in this city of a wealthy Seattle man, now dead, who, Mrs. Goodeve testified, had given her $5000 on one occasion, $1000 on another and had enclosed $100 bills in his letters, the "piece de resistance" coming when he sent her a deed for $50,000 worth of Seattle real estate.

Brady's Testimony Exposed. The significance of Brady's testimony lies in the fact that the defendant's attorneys in passing several photographs to the plaintiff with a request that she pick out her "good angel." She refused to identify any of them positively but on being pressed had picked out one with the explanation that it looked most like him, passing over a genuine picture of the man in question in doing so.

Recalled to the stand, R. H. Thompson, Jr., the defendant, recollects in this city of a wealthy Seattle man, now dead, who, Mrs. Goodeve testified, had given her $5000 on one occasion, $1000 on another and had enclosed $100 bills in his letters, the "piece de resistance" coming when he sent her a deed for $50,000 worth of Seattle real estate.

Parents' Evidence Hearsay. The testimony of defendant's parents had to do with what they said people in San Francisco had told them about Mrs. Goodeve living with a man known as A. J. Trimble, whom she is alleged to have passed off as her husband. There was also a deposition from H. C. Clunie, a San Francisco race-track man, to the effect that he says a man named Donahue had roomed and boarded with Mrs. Goodeve at 1339 Washington street, paying her about $30 a month.

Several of the jurors yesterday refused to look, for purposes of comparison, at the genuine picture of the man from whom the large sums of money and the deed, and the photograph which the plaintiff declared "looked most like him."

RESERVOIRS ARE SEEN

Attorneys and Referee in Wakefield Case Make Inspection.

Attorneys on both sides of the case of Robert Wakefield against the city of Portland, which is being heard by Referee John E. Cleland, accompanied Mr. Cleland yesterday to the Mount Tabor reservoirs, where a careful inspection was made of the work over which the suit has been brought. The suit was instituted by Mr. Wakefield to enforce the payment by the city of $408,000, which is alleged to be the amount due for the construction of reservoir numbers five and six of the Mount Tabor system.

The city has a counter claim on file amounting to about $200,000 in excess of the amount claimed by the contractor, basing the claim on penalties due for delays in the work. The contention of the Wakefield attorneys is that the delays which resulted in the penalties were caused by failure of the city officials to handle their part of the work on time. Deputy City Attorney Tomlinson is fighting the case on behalf of the city, declaring that the penalties are just and should be collected.

The taking of testimony was begun last Monday. During the week four witnesses for the contractor were examined. It is expected the testimony will not be completed for a month. The amount on each side has numerous witnesses to introduce and each side is using considerable time going into details in cross-examination.

The trip to the reservoirs was for the purpose of inspecting the work and the surrounding country, so that all might have a more comprehensive idea of the various parts of the reservoirs as they are brought into the case by the witnesses.

OREGON MAN WINS DEGREE AT CHICAGO UNIVERSITY.

Jurors Refuse to Look at Pictures for Comparison—Depositions Presented From California Regarding Plaintiff.

Ansel F. Hemingway, University of Oregon, Eugene, Or., July 20.—Ansel F. Hemingway, who has just returned to his home at Springfield, Or., was awarded a Ph. D. degree magna cum laude, by Chicago University in the commencement exercises held in June.

In 1902 Mr. Hemingway received an A. B. Degree at the University of Oregon, and in 1904 earned an A. M. degree from the same institution. After completing his course at the University of Oregon, Mr. Hemingway was principal of the Kenwood school in Spokane for three years. In the school year '08-09, he earned an A. M. degree at Harvard University. The next two years he continued his studies at Harvard, as an Austin teaching fellow. This last year he has been at Chicago University.

This Fall Mr. Hemingway will become professor of geology and biology at the Transylvania University, which is the oldest college west of the Alleghany Mountains, having been established in 1793.

Angelo. On his return trip he will stop over in San Francisco. He will be gone about a month.

Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Amos were the hosts last Thursday at a 500 party to Mrs. N. B. Morrison, of Duluth, Minn., who is visiting in Portland. Mrs. Morrison is a daughter of Judge Willson, of Rockeater, Minn., and is prominent in society circles. The party was held at the Amos residence at 852 Hawthorne avenue.

CHICAGO, July 19.—(Special).—The following from Portland, Or., are registered at Chicago hotels: Auditorium, H. H. Grump; Great Northern, Aaron Holts; Grand Pacific, R. E. Farrell.

ACTIVITY SURE TO COME

LUMBER TRADE MUST BE NURSED, SAYS LUMBERMAN.

F. C. Knapp, of Peninsula Firm, Declares Business Is Just Recovering From Long Illness.

"We are commencing to hear of a revival in the lumber business. This news comes largely from the outside, and in many instances the largest stories come from those knowing the least regarding the industry," said F. C. Knapp, secretary of the Peninsula Lumber Company, yesterday.

"As a lumberman, I am interested in its general prosperity, as well as the prosperity of the lumbermen, I believe we should hold to the truth, especially when dealing with an operation which uses approximately 52 per cent of the manufacturing capital of the commonwealth, and which gives direct employment to about 43 per cent of Oregon's laboring men.

"The present condition of the lumber business resembles that of a human being, just starting to recover after a long, serious illness. Whether the patient suffers a relapse, or continues to improve, rests entirely with friends.

Warehouse Fire Damage $5000.

Damage to the amount of $5000 or more, was done by a fire which broke out yesterday in the warehouse of C. O. Pick, at Eighteenth and Pettygrove streets. The cause of the blaze is not known. It provided a stubborn fight for the firemen and destroyed a number of vehicles and quantities of feed before it was controlled. Two employees of the company, in the face of serious danger, brought out a Shetland pony which was imprisoned in the building.

Comfort and Durability Are Characteristic of Our Line of Summer Furniture

The fact, too, that makers nowadays design and finish this type of furniture so as to adapt it for indoor as well as outdoor use places it in favor with those who appreciate its appropriateness in the furnishing of the living-room and other rooms of the home. Especially is this recognized in the rush fiber and reed and willow pieces, of which we have a splendid showing, finished and in the natural, the latter affording an opportunity for finishing as desired.

Rush Fiber Arm Chair $15

Old Hickory Porch Rocker $3.60

Bar Harbor Willow Chair $19

The illustration above shows an artistic Arm Chair of reed fiber, in the popular green finish. Rocker of same design at $15.50. Other large and comfortable Arm Rockers suitable for the porch, living-room and other rooms, as low as $8. 'Old Hickory' is still popular, and we picture here the famous Andrew Jackson Rocker, now priced at $3.60. The chair to match is now priced at $3.25. All other 'Old Hickory' pieces now showing a reduction of 20 per cent.

OWNERS ARE IN LINE

West Extension Improvement by Government Assured.

26,000 ACRES ARE PLEDGED

Though Formal Contracts Are Not Signed Land Owners Have Indorsed Scheme and Are Considering Agreements.

Owners of 26,000 of the 20,000 acres included in the West Extension of the Umatilla project already have pledged their lands, virtually assuring the improvement by the Government. It is true that formal contracts have not been signed and delivered to the Reclamation Service officials, but the landowners have indorsed the project and with their attorneys are considering the details preliminary to executing agreements which will bind their holdings to meet the cost of the service.

It is announced that the adjudication of water rights under the project will not be completed before September, but E. G. Hopson, supervising engineer of the Reclamation Service, said yesterday that the final settlement of the project will be made in having the land owners execute the forms of agreement that have been submitted to them. "The adjustment of existing water rights of settlers within the project," said Mr. Hopson, yesterday, "is only one of the preliminary details incident to inauguration of construction work by the Government. With the landowners enthusiastically supporting the project and the efforts of the Government to get it under way at the earliest possible moment, no difficulty is expected in effecting a satisfactory termination of these rights. Some of these cases are in the courts awaiting disposition at the September term. It has been announced, when the project is launched by the Government, the first step will be to take over the ditches and water rights, what is known as the irrigation project, which includes 11,000 acres. These lands are owned by the Oregon Land & Water Company, a subsidiary corporation of the suspended Title Guaranty & Trust Company, of this city. The corporation is in the hands of a receiver and the lands will be sold at foreclosure sale on September 2. In all probability the property will be bid in by the receiver for the benefit of the creditors, whose claims aggregate $500,000. The receiver has assured the Government officials of his readiness at the proper time to subscribe the entire 11,000 acres toward insuring the West Extension project by the Federal authorities. The Northern Pacific Railway Company is another of the large owners of land within the project, holding about 4000 acres. The officers of this company have notified Mr. Hopson that they will execute the required agreements to the Government as soon as the necessary papers can be prepared and signed by the proper officials. Mr. Hopson is pleased with the outlook and confidently believes that the only delay that can be expected before the Government will proceed with construction work will be that necessarily encountered in securing the agreements from the landowners. At the rate these contracts are being approved by the owners, he expects that the required 95 per cent of the irrevocable land in the project will be pledged before another two months elapse.

NEW STORE OPENS

Co-operative Grocery Starts as Result of Mayor's Action.

MEMBERSHIP FEE IS $10

Interest Extends to Different Sections of City and New Departments Will Be Added. Also Branch Houses.

"Reduce the cost of living" has been the ever-increasing cry of the housewife who finds it hard to make both ends meet. Least it should be said that Portland had made no effort along these lines, Mayor Rushlight in March sanctioned the appropriation of $300 to be used by a committee in an investigation of the causes of high prices and in an effort to find a remedy for the evil. The concrete result of the investigation may be seen at 140 Shaver street, where a clean, white, attractive grocery store has been opened to be run on a co-operative basis. It is called the First Mutualist Association of Portland, and by the articles of the organization is to have a duration of 50 years. Every dollar of the capital stock is obtained from the membership fee of $10, the minimum number of subscribers being 200, and the maximum 500.

All goods are sold at regular market prices, fixed by the manager, as in any privately operated business, with the difference that in a co-operative store the manager is anxious to obtain for the members a fair profit, and his salary is not affected by the earnings. As an instance of some of the prices offered yesterday it should be noted that the manager is offering 10 cents for 15 pounds of potatoes for 35 cents, and 8 packages of double-tipped matches, full count, 25 cents. Special meetings may be called at the request of at least 20 members. The board meets weekly, when complaints, if there are any, and suggestions for better management are adjusted. Of sufficient importance is then referred to the quarterly meeting. Already there are over 200 members of the store, which opened for business Monday afternoon. The opening took place yesterday afternoon and evening, when refreshments were supplied to customers and visitors, with music at intervals. Up to Saturday, Manager Voelker said, the sales averaged not less than $40 a day, while the receipts yesterday would swell the total for the week to $2000. "Delivery within a mile limit is to be twice a day," said Voelker, "but outside that area we cannot at present guarantee a special delivery, that once a week. In many places we shall do so, but we can only assure members of one delivery on a certain day in the week. Interest is widespread. "Already people from Lents, Estacada, St. Johns, Vancouver and University Park have been here investigating and have made purchases. One woman from University Park, who came here, went back to get her friends to join with her. An article in the Evening News, I am sure, has done much to attract others. Others said that it was cheaper to buy a carfare and come here, than get their goods close to home. "Quite apart from the saving families would make by buying at a co-operative store, the manager said: "On a conservative estimate an average family should save between $5 and $9 a month, taking into consideration the profits that will be earned by the store and distributed among the members." Voelker, who has had ten years' experience in the grocery business, and has lived in the neighborhood for 23 years, remarked that the people around welcomed the idea. He said that the high price of foodstuffs in Portland, sentiment generally seems to be in favor of the movement. At present confined to groceries, it is expected that fresh meat will be sold in the near future, and as soon as trade demands, other stores on the same basis will be set up. The present store, with fittings, basement and supplies, cost approximately $2000. It is being run on the same system as the co-operative stores that are to be seen in every town and city in England. It gives consumers the benefits by selling for cash at a reasonable profit.

BROTHERS MEET IN PORTLAND AFTER SEPARATION OF MORE THAN 20 YEARS.

ROBERT MITCHELL, OF KLAMATH FALLS, A RANCHER, AND JOHN MITCHELL, VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR, WHO CAME TO PORTLAND TO ADDRESS THE CHAUTAUQU. Coming to Oregon to address the Chautauqu at Gladstone, John Mitchell, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, has also had the pleasure of a reunion with his brother, Robert Mitchell, the only one of his near relatives now living, and whom he had not seen for 20 years. Robert Mitchell is a rancher near Klamath Falls. Twenty years before the two brothers had been working together as took place Friday at the Oregon Hotel. Twenty years before the two brothers had been working together as miners in the anthracite coal fields of Pennsylvania. They had been together in the mines from childhood. Robert, the elder brother, however, finally forsook the coal fields and came West, settling at least near Klamath Falls, where he met with success as a rancher. During their separation the brothers kept up a Klamath correspondence. Remaining in the mine, John finally became head of the miners' association and later rose to the position of vice-president of the American Federation of Labor. The brothers bear a strong resemblance to one another, although the difference in the environment they have encountered in the past 20 years manifests itself in their bearing. John Mitchell will go to Spokane after the close of the Chautauqu, and thence will return to the East.

3 FORGERIES CONFESSED

George Rowland, Age 21, Tells of Obtaining $61 Falsely.

HARRISBURG, Or., July 20.—(Special).—George Rowland, about 21 years old, now in the city jail, has confessed to having forged three checks in amounts aggregating $61. He was found at the home of his brother-in-law in the Alesco country yesterday by Deputy Sheriff Hawk and brought here last night. When questioned he promptly admitted his guilt and intimated to the officers that others were implicated. Other arrests are expected to follow today. Rowland has never been implicated in any crooked dealings heretofore.
