

TOO MUCH POLITICS

MUNICIPAL BUDGET

Social and Economic Feature at Present Lax Says Charter Revisionist.

NEW FORM PROVIDES AID

W. B. Ayer, of Commission, Declares Old System in Vogue Is Costly and Bungle—Responsibility Not Centralized.

Discussing commission government of municipalities yesterday, W. B. Ayer, a member of the committee that recently completed the draft of a commission charter for Portland, said the trouble in present-day municipal administration is the influence of politics.

He contends that the fault lies not alone with incompetent officials, but because municipal government today is political rather than social and economical.

With the municipal affairs of Portland entrusted to 48 men, the absence of concentrated authority, points out Mr. Ayer, gives opportunity for shifting responsibility. Mr. Ayer does not assume that a commission plan will guarantee perfect government, but he does maintain that in its operation the commission charter that has been compiled, if adopted by the voters, will accomplish many improvements by encouraging efficiency and economy, concentrating authority and fixing responsibility.

Authority Not Centered. "I am not one of those despairing of government of American cities," said Mr. Ayer. "I do not believe they are so bad as they are painted. Whenever there is an election, or even before, when a candidate is grooming himself for office, it is the fashion to make all sorts of wild statements about graft, vice, etc.; but after election it all settles down to the dull monotony of inefficiency and spasmodic bursts of grandstand play.

"Neither do I believe that the men elected to office are venal or incompetent. They are simply the product of a system of government that is not adapted to the conditions of communal life. Municipal government should be social and economical, not political. Our present charter is purely political, with all its checks and balances. It does not concentrate authority, but gives the opportunity for dodging and shifting responsibility. There are 48 men entrusted with the legislative and executive management of this city—the Mayor, 15 Councilmen, 18 on the Executive Board, four on the Park Board, four on the Water Board, four on the Health Board, five on the Public Docks Commission, five on the Auditor Commission, and five on the Board of Man Devise a scheme that is less direct and business-like, or freer from responsibility? Who ever heard of a corporation, big or little, trying to manage its affairs in any such clumsy manner? And what is the difference between a municipal corporation and a private corporation that demands such a different form of management? No great railroad owner, like James J. Hill, would tolerate such a system in his own affairs for a moment. Why should the individuals who make up a city endure it?"

Present System Chaotic. "The so-called commission form of municipal government provides for concentration of power and responsibility in the hands of a few men, and the unnumbered officials are abolished and the entire management of the city—lock, stock and barrel—is given over to the Mayor and four Councilmen, sitting together and called a Council. Each Councilman has allotted to him a specific duty, such, for instance, as the parks and fire department, and together they consult and consider the general policies and enact such legislation as may be necessary. The responsibility for efficiency and economical administration is apparent, and I do not question the assertion of ex-Mayor Lane that hundreds of thousands of dollars could be saved annually that are now wasted, by substituting a business management for the chaotic political system now in vogue.

"The question that each citizen is always asking is, are we getting our money's worth? Does each dollar of public money buy as much as a dollar of private money? Personally, I do not see how it is possible under the present charter, for there is no coordination between departments and a divided responsibility. The money received by the city from taxes, fines, etc., amounted this year to $4,000,000, but then is the size of the city's financial business. The volume of business of any one of our big department stores is about the same amount per annum, and in no case do there ever two or three owners attending to the entire buying and selling. From a business standpoint alone, the present charter is a poor job.

Responsibility Good Thing. "The principal argument of the opponents of the new charter is that the same character of men would be elected to office under the new charter as under the old; consequently, there would be no improvement in the government of the city. I am willing to admit that the same character of men may be chosen under the new as under the old charter, but do not admit that results will be the same. I have never yet known a man who failed to respond, to a degree at least, to increased responsibility. He will not only assume the added burdens, but he will do his work better and more conscientiously; in other words, he rises to the occasion. Every man holding a position of trust and giving his entire time to the business, and receiving an adequate salary for the same, will do much more successful and satisfactory work than when he is receiving nothing and devoting only a small portion of his time. I am absolutely convinced that the failure of municipal government is in only a slight degree due to the character of men elected to office, but almost entirely to the character of government prescribed in our charters.

do not expect a perfect government to follow the adoption of the Commission Charter, but I do expect a great improvement, because it secures the entire time and attention of each Councilman; it encourages efficiency and economy; it concentrates authority and fixes responsibility."

ORATORY TO BE REVIVED

Reorganization of 1902 Interstate League Practically Assured.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Aug. 3.—(Special).—Following the instructions of the committee on oratory and debate at the University of Oregon, Graduate Manager Geary is proposing the re-organization of the Interstate Oratorical League, established in 1902 among the universities of Oregon, Washington and Idaho, by the King County Bar Association. The plan is to enlarge the league by the admission of the Oregon Agricultural College, Washington State College, Whitman College, and to eliminate the University of Montana, which took the place left vacant by the University of Idaho, three years ago. The main complications in the re-organization of the league are the terms under which the annual gift of the King County Bar Association to the winners of the contest was made. It was stipulated that $75 should be given to the winner of the first place and $25 to the winner of second place in an annual oratorical contest held among representatives of the state universities of the Northwest. Manager Geary has written to the manager of the University of Washington and to the secretary of the King County Bar Association asking whether

CITY OFFICIALS DEMUR

MEN UNDER "BRIBERY" INDICTMENT TAKE ACTION.

Attorneys for Mayor, Chief and Others Object to Charges Based on Nuisance Statute.

Asserting that if their clients are guilty of anything it is of a violation of section 2025, Ford's Oregon laws, which relates to the giving or offering of a bribe, or section 2054, Ford's Oregon laws, which refers to malfeasance or negligence in office, Attorneys Malarky, Logan and Benbow yesterday filed in Circuit Court a demurrer to the indictment drawn under the nuisance statute, charging Mayor Ruelight, Chief of Police Slover, Detective-Captain Baty and Detective-Sergeant Smith with committing an indecent and immoral act and injuring the person and property of another by offering a bribe of $400 to Deputy District Attorney Collier.

The demurrer is on two grounds, one being that the indictment does not state facts sufficient to constitute a crime and the other being to quote the exact language of the demurrer, "that the acts of the commissions charged therein as being the crime alleged to have been committed by said defendants are not clearly and distinctly set forth in ordinary and concise language without repetition and in such a manner as to enable a person of common understanding to know what is intended thereby, or such certainty as would enable a court to pronounce judgment upon a conviction, according to the rights of the case."

Points to be relied upon in argument are given in detail. It is alleged that the indictment contains nothing to show how the person or property of Collier was injured, how the public peace was grossly disturbed, how public decency was openly outraged or how public morals were injured; that the indictment fails to state a specific date upon which any of the acts mentioned was committed; and that the indictment "shows on its face that the acts complained of were committed for the purpose of evading another act containing evidence of his criminal acts and were therefore innocent and lawful."

In conclusion the statement is made that section 2087 (the nuisance statute) refers only to acts not made punishable by other criminal statutes and the contention is advanced that the crime, if any exists, is covered by either section 2025 or 2042.

The original indictment, against the same defendants, with the exception of Detective Smith, was drawn under the statute relating to the bribing of public officials, one of the sections referred to above. This indictment, conviction under which left the defendants liable to penalties of imprisonment, was dismissed on the eve of trial by motion of District Attorney Cameron last Monday. At that time the defendants were arraigned on the second charge, which is a misdemeanor punishable by fine or jail sentence, and given until yesterday to move or plead.

The date for argument of the demurrer interposed yesterday has not been set. It probably will come up early this week, before Judge Gantenbein. The defendant's attorneys evidently have forsaken a previously-expressed intention to demur on the ground that the grand jury had first voted a not true and later a true bill on this indictment. Lionel R. Webb, who will appear as special prosecutor, asserts that there is no question of the right of the grand jurors to change their minds.

MRS. RICH TRIES SUICIDE

Woman Known in Portland Becomes Despondent in San Francisco.

A report was received by Captain of Detectives Baty yesterday to the effect that Mrs. Benjamin B. Rich, whose husband formerly owned a string of cigar stores here, had attempted suicide in her apartments, 1791 Bush street, San Francisco, several days ago.

Mrs. Rich became despondent while her husband was out of the city, according to the report, and attempted suicide by inhaling gas. She was discovered and resuscitated.

After she had regained consciousness, Mrs. Bush told the police that she had become despondent because the preceding night, at a party at which she was the hostess, one of the guests had remarked pointedly that there was not a word of truth in a story that she was telling.

Marshal Arrests Two. Deputy United States Marshal Beatty returned yesterday from Pendleton, having in custody Ernest Johnley and C. B. Reed. "MAD" CATS WATCHED

POLICE TO REPORT WEIRD ACTION OF STRAY FELINES.

All Unlicensed Dogs to Be Chained to Telegraph Posts and Collected by Poundmaster.

Six dozen dog chains were delivered yesterday to the police by City Poundmaster Welch, with which to chain up all unlicensed dogs. In an order issued yesterday to patrolmen, Chief of Police Slover instructed them to take up immediately dogs found running at large without licenses. The dogs will be tied to telegraph posts, in sheds, or any place that is convenient and held there until taken away by the poundmaster.

In the same order, Chief Slover requires his men to report immediately any case of suspicious action on the part of dogs or cats, and to secure detailed information in such cases.

Since the order of State Health Officer White, issued recently, many dogs have been muzzled, and the number is increasing daily. Though the police are not authorized to enforce the order of the state officer, in the absence of any effective city ordinance, they are assisting in every way possible, as far as empowered. State Veterinarian Morel, however, is assembling a force of men, and is preparing to enforce the ordinance as speedily as his force will permit.
