CLAGSTONE LOSES

Republican Nomination for Governor of Idaho Goes to John M. Haines.

OFFICIAL COUNT SURPRISES

Boise Man Outruns Bonner County Candidate Who Long Had Lead. Political Excitement Most Intense Throughout Count.

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 10 .- (Special.)-By a plurality of 18, John M. Haines, of Boise, won the Republican nomination for Governor over Paul A. Clagstone, of Bonner County, the official count received from all the counties to-day giving Haines a total of 12.839 votes; Clagstone 12.821, while ex-Gov-ernor John T. Morrison, of Boise, was a close third in the race with 12,396

Not since the day following the pri-mary election in Idaho has political ex-citement been so intense or the returns so closely watched as yesterday when the official count of the missing coun-ties began coming in with the returns swinging first in favor of one candi-date and their the other.

With Custer and Owyhee Counties to hear from Clagstone has a lead of 193 votes and his nomination was almost assured and a number of prominent people began writing telegrams of congratulation to send him as soon as the other reports were received.

Custer Returns Late.

The Custer returns came late in the fternoon, cutting down his plurality

Owyhee County was the last to report, the official returns from that county giving Haines 249 and Clagstone 126, thus giving the nomination to the Boise candidate.

It is conceded, however, that the official count by the State Board of Canvassers will be necessary to absolutely settle the nomination, as the returns have been secured over the long distance telephone and errors are bound to creep into the transmission of reto creep into the transmission of returns from so many sources, especially when they have had to be repeated, as was the case in some instances.

WHEAT CROP BUMPER ONE Umatilla County Has 6,000,000

Bushels and Prices Are Good. PENDLETON, Or., Aug. 10 .- (Special.) -General crop conditions throughout Umatilla County have never been better than this season. Approximately 6,000,000 bushels of wheat will be harvested, with a steady price between 70 and 72 cents per bushel being of-fered. There is a bumper crop of wheat, especially in the light lands in the west end of the county, though a number of individual losses have been sustained in a recent hall storm in the east end of the county, where the big-gest producers farm. Some disappointgest producers farm. Some disappointment has been felt by farmers that the going price is not 75 cents, though the resent market price is a good one. Possibly never in the history of the county have fruit and vegetable conditions been as excellent as this year. The prices are very satisfactory and in some cases a slight increase over forsome cases a slight increase over for-mer years. Placed on the delinquent tax list and asking that their proffered money for the taxes be held in escrow pending the result of their contest with the United States to retain title to their land, the Southern Oregon Company has filed a suit in the Circuit Court here against Sheriff Quine, as tax collector. The suit is a sequel to an application for an injunction filed by the company in the Federal Court in Portland a few months ago against the sheriffs of Coos and Douglas counties, asking that those officials be restrained from collecting the taxes until the from collecting the taxes until the rightful ownership of the land had been determined in the courts. The Federal Government previously

The Federal Government previously brought suit against the company to declare the lands forfeited by reason of alleged violation of the terms of the congressional grant by which it was obtained. This suit is still pending. Notwithstanding this, Judge Wolverton, two weeks ago, denied the writ of injunction asked for and decreed that the company should pay its taxes the same as if the land title was not in litigation. The company owes $11,930 in taxes in Douglas County, extending from 1910 to 1912, inclusive. In the suit filed in the Circuit Court here the company asks for the appointment of a receiver for its tax money, to be held in trust pending the outcome of the Government's suit. If the Government wins, the company wants come of the Government's suit. If the Government wins, the company wants its money back; if the company wins then the money shall be turned over to the Sheriff for the county. It objects to paying the tax money over to the Sheriff now, declaring that it would be without recourse at law to recover it if the lands involved became the property of the Government. One allegation is that if the lands are sold by the Sheriff in default of taxes and the United States thereafter recovers title to the land that the county, in the compulsory redemption of delinquency certificates, together with interest, would become insolvent.

NEW SITE ADVOCATES AT KLA-MATH FALLS WIN.

Fight to Erect County Building in Different Location Began in Winter of 1909-10.

KLAMATH FALLS, "Or., Aug. 10.—
(Special.)—The decision of the Supreme Court of the state affirming the decision of Circuit Judge Coke, of Coquille, that the new site for the Courthouse, block 10, Hot Springs Addition, is within the legal county seat and that the County Court may proceed to erect a building for the county thereon, ends a fight which began in the Winter of a fight which began in the Winter of

The history of the case in brief is as follows: The County Court has been preparing funds for some time for a new County Courthouse, the old one being inadequate, very old and practically ready for the scrap heap. The Klamath Development Company, owners of much townsite property in various additions to Klamath Falls, owned a knoll on block 10, Hot Springs Addition, which commanded a fine view of the valley and which is itself visible from every direction for a distance of 10 miles. The company offered this site to the county free, together with the free use of water from the famous Hot Springs, provided a building to cost $200,000, was erected thereon. This proviso was afterward withdrawn, and the court is not now compelled to expend more than seems to it necessary. The history of the case in brief is as SOUTH BEND, Wash, Aug. 10.—Earl M. Connor, former business manager of the Willapa Harbor Pilot, a local paper, yesterday brought a suit for $7000 damages against his brother Editor Edwin M. Connor; John T. Welsh an attorney and local political leader, and A, B McDonald, chief deputy sheriff. The trop removal to the new site.

Herald and the Express, favored the removal and those opposed formed a stock company, bought a printing plant and started the "Chronicle" to voice their viwes. Also a restraining order was obtained from George Nolan, the Circuit Judge. This order was afterward withdrawn, but the County Court, deterred by the violent opposition, did not care to act and referred the matter to the voters at a special election, which being illegal, was really only a straw vote. This election was held May 30 1910, and resulted in a majority of 80 for the removal to the new site.

The keys were then taken away from him and he was arrested without a warrant and thrown into jail, where he was held for 36 hours without medical aid.

On the following day Edwin Constitution in 1910, declined to act in the case because of his connection with it legally, prior to his election, so Judge John Coke, of Coquille, came here to try it. His decision was handed down June 7, 1912, and was a complete victory for the County Court and the new site. An appeal followed on July 21, and the decision now reached by the Supreme cision now reached by the Supreme Court was hastened by the case being advanced on the docket because of the importance of the issue involved.

WHALES SEEN AT CLATSOP

strangers on shore. Easterners are especially interested in the clumsy antics of the huge amphibians.

The whales flay the water with wide sweeps of their tails and snap their huge jaws at overbold sea birds. A number of people have gone out in small boats for the purpose of obtaining a closer view. The fish show no apprehension at the approach of boats. At a distance of 75 yards the noise has has been compared to that made by swine grunting just before meal time. Schools of tomcod and other small fish are the cause of the visit of these sea monsters, as they go wherever sea monsters, as they go wherever there seems to be promise of food in quantity. Though whales are seldom seen near here during the Winter months, their visits are of frequent occurrence during the warmer season.
