JACK KIBBLE MAKES DEBUT

Youngster Plays Good Game at Third, Scores First of Two Runs and Makes Fine Hit - Los Angeles Gets Only 3 Swats.

At Los Angeles Oakland 7, Vernon 4.

BY BOSCOE FAWCETT. Portland and Los Angeles ball tossers witnessed a circus pageant yesterday, found the spirit contagious, so immediately thereafter staged a one-ring exhibition of their own in the mud, and as the barometer records the Beavers still in fourth place, it is only necessary to add that the score by which Portland won was 2 to 1.

It was a single-ringed entertainment

Portland won was 2 to 1.

It was a single-ringed entertainment because Heinie Klawitter, the big German pitcher, was about the whole show. His pitching was magnificent. He allowed three hits in the nine innings and only one of the trio was a clean-out, legitimate bingle. He had to the was a great and dazzing curves.

clean-cut, legitimate bingle. He had rifle-like speed and dazzling curves.

No wonder the McCredie steam calliope is tooting airy-fairy ragtime music after two renditions of that cheerful thing by Chopin. It would have been a serious transgression against the rights of man had the Ancels well-oned us. But that very thing against the rights of man had the Angels walloped us. But that very thing they threatened once or twice to do, when some earnest, spectacular fielding stopped the rush.

Big Bill Toxer was on slab duty for Los Angeles and while he was found for nine singles he kept the bingling tranquilly scattered except in two inbourne and Doale scored the precious tailies.

"Happy Jack" Kibble, the Portland Colt recruit, playing his first game in hig league company, is another who has his name posted on the bulletin of boosts this morning. In addition to making lots of noise around the third sack, scooping in everything that came his way and otherwise displaying his defiance of AA class, Kibble plunked out a Texas leaguer back of third base in the third inning that started the scoring.

Klawitter sacrificed him along and both went safe on Tozer's error. Chad-Klawitter sacrificed him along and both went safe on Tozor's error. Chadbourne filled the bases on a dump along the third base line and then Doane inserted his war club into the melee for a biff up against the right wall, scoring Kibble. He was caught off first and Rodgers and Krueger were easy outs.

Chadbourne's second hit, in the fifth inning a bunt down the third base inning, a bunt down the third base line by Doane, sending Chadbourne to third base, and Rodgers' sacrifice fly to Core gave the Beavers their second and final tally.

Hits by Daley and Moore and an in-field out earned the Dillonites their lone score in the seventh inning after they had previously threatened to tie

Moore making second. A sacrifice placed him at the threshold, but Klawitter whiffed Lober and Butcher retired the side on a swell foul catch.

Howley and Bancroft also helped the ultimate result with some dashing field work. But after walking around the box score and surveying it from all angles one must fairly admit that: "The Angels were there with the right ammunition. Uniforms, mitts and the bludgeons of There with retrievers as good as the Beavers, But—outclassed in the section where
