

HAY'S LUCK AGAIN PRESAGES VICTORY

As Often Before, Field Clears for Washington Governor at Right Time.

NOMINATION SEEMS SURE

Even Tactics of Bull Moose Leaders Favor Republican Candidate Whose Bold Manner Wins Popularity With People.

BY M. M. MATTISON. SEATTLE, Aug. 17.—(Special)—

Again that weird influence, the Hay luck, has manifested itself at exactly the right time and has cleared the way for the withdrawal of Dan Landon and Henry A. McLean, with only David Perry Rice as his opponent for the First Congressional district nomination. As Rice ran for Mayor last Spring and received but 96 votes out of a total cast of about 64,000, he is not much of an opponent.

Wumpsey, however, will have to fight hard in the general election if he expects to return to Congress. There will be Bull Moose, Democratic and Socialist candidates in the field against him and the trio of opponents will direct their attack at Humphrey. The Seattle Congressman expected to start from Washington yesterday, yesterday at the primary situation cleared he took more time at the capital.

For that matter, it seems pretty clear that there is a strong sentiment among women in favor of Woodrow Wilson and that the percentage of women voters who join the new party organization will be incomparably smaller than that of men who flop.

Congressman Will E. Humphrey comes out of the party split as fortunate as Governor Hay. Humphrey is left by the withdrawal of Dan Landon and Henry A. McLean, with only David Perry Rice as his opponent for the First Congressional district nomination. As Rice ran for Mayor last Spring and received but 96 votes out of a total cast of about 64,000, he is not much of an opponent.

Wumpsey, however, will have to fight hard in the general election if he expects to return to Congress. There will be Bull Moose, Democratic and Socialist candidates in the field against him and the trio of opponents will direct their attack at Humphrey. The Seattle Congressman expected to start from Washington yesterday, yesterday at the primary situation cleared he took more time at the capital.

For that matter, it seems pretty clear that there is a strong sentiment among women in favor of Woodrow Wilson and that the percentage of women voters who join the new party organization will be incomparably smaller than that of men who flop.

Congressman Will E. Humphrey comes out of the party split as fortunate as Governor Hay. Humphrey is left by the withdrawal of Dan Landon and Henry A. McLean, with only David Perry Rice as his opponent for the First Congressional district nomination. As Rice ran for Mayor last Spring and received but 96 votes out of a total cast of about 64,000, he is not much of an opponent.

Wumpsey, however, will have to fight hard in the general election if he expects to return to Congress. There will be Bull Moose, Democratic and Socialist candidates in the field against him and the trio of opponents will direct their attack at Humphrey. The Seattle Congressman expected to start from Washington yesterday, yesterday at the primary situation cleared he took more time at the capital.

For that matter, it seems pretty clear that there is a strong sentiment among women in favor of Woodrow Wilson and that the percentage of women voters who join the new party organization will be incomparably smaller than that of men who flop.

Congressman Will E. Humphrey comes out of the party split as fortunate as Governor Hay. Humphrey is left by the withdrawal of Dan Landon and Henry A. McLean, with only David Perry Rice as his opponent for the First Congressional district nomination. As Rice ran for Mayor last Spring and received but 96 votes out of a total cast of about 64,000, he is not much of an opponent.

Wumpsey, however, will have to fight hard in the general election if he expects to return to Congress. There will be Bull Moose, Democratic and Socialist candidates in the field against him and the trio of opponents will direct their attack at Humphrey. The Seattle Congressman expected to start from Washington yesterday, yesterday at the primary situation cleared he took more time at the capital.

For that matter, it seems pretty clear that there is a strong sentiment among women in favor of Woodrow Wilson and that the percentage of women voters who join the new party organization will be incomparably smaller than that of men who flop.

Congressman Will E. Humphrey comes out of the party split as fortunate as Governor Hay. Humphrey is left by the withdrawal of Dan Landon and Henry A. McLean, with only David Perry Rice as his opponent for the First Congressional district nomination. As Rice ran for Mayor last Spring and received but 96 votes out of a total cast of about 64,000, he is not much of an opponent.

Wumpsey, however, will have to fight hard in the general election if he expects to return to Congress. There will be Bull Moose, Democratic and Socialist candidates in the field against him and the trio of opponents will direct their attack at Humphrey. The Seattle Congressman expected to start from Washington yesterday, yesterday at the primary situation cleared he took more time at the capital.

For that matter, it seems pretty clear that there is a strong sentiment among women in favor of Woodrow Wilson and that the percentage of women voters who join the new party organization will be incomparably smaller than that of men who flop.

Congressman Will E. Humphrey comes out of the party split as fortunate as Governor Hay. Humphrey is left by the withdrawal of Dan Landon and Henry A. McLean, with only David Perry Rice as his opponent for the First Congressional district nomination. As Rice ran for Mayor last Spring and received but 96 votes out of a total cast of about 64,000, he is not much of an opponent.

Wumpsey, however, will have to fight hard in the general election if he expects to return to Congress. There will be Bull Moose, Democratic and Socialist candidates in the field against him and the trio of opponents will direct their attack at Humphrey. The Seattle Congressman expected to start from Washington yesterday, yesterday at the primary situation cleared he took more time at the capital.

For that matter, it seems pretty clear that there is a strong sentiment among women in favor of Woodrow Wilson and that the percentage of women voters who join the new party organization will be incomparably smaller than that of men who flop.

Congressman Will E. Humphrey comes out of the party split as fortunate as Governor Hay. Humphrey is left by the withdrawal of Dan Landon and Henry A. McLean, with only David Perry Rice as his opponent for the First Congressional district nomination. As Rice ran for Mayor last Spring and received but 96 votes out of a total cast of about 64,000, he is not much of an opponent.

Wumpsey, however, will have to fight hard in the general election if he expects to return to Congress. There will be Bull Moose, Democratic and Socialist candidates in the field against him and the trio of opponents will direct their attack at Humphrey. The Seattle Congressman expected to start from Washington yesterday, yesterday at the primary situation cleared he took more time at the capital.

For that matter, it seems pretty clear that there is a strong sentiment among women in favor of Woodrow Wilson and that the percentage of women voters who join the new party organization will be incomparably smaller than that of men who flop.

Congressman Will E. Humphrey comes out of the party split as fortunate as Governor Hay. Humphrey is left by the withdrawal of Dan Landon and Henry A. McLean, with only David Perry Rice as his opponent for the First Congressional district nomination. As Rice ran for Mayor last Spring and received but 96 votes out of a total cast of about 64,000, he is not much of an opponent.

Wumpsey, however, will have to fight hard in the general election if he expects to return to Congress. There will be Bull Moose, Democratic and Socialist candidates in the field against him and the trio of opponents will direct their attack at Humphrey. The Seattle Congressman expected to start from Washington yesterday, yesterday at the primary situation cleared he took more time at the capital.

For that matter, it seems pretty clear that there is a strong sentiment among women in favor of Woodrow Wilson and that the percentage of women voters who join the new party organization will be incomparably smaller than that of men who flop.

BULL MOOSE FAIL TO OBSERVE LAW

Roosevelt Progressive Party as Yet Not Recognized Legally in Oregon.

COMPLICATION IS LIKELY

Petition With Necessary Five Per Cent of Voters Remains Unfiled. Names of Candidates May Escape Ballot as Result.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 17.—(Special)—The possibility that the name "Progressive Party," as represented by the Bull Moose organization, may not be entitled to have a place on the ballot under the laws of Oregon, is one that has arisen here through the failure so far of that party to comply with the law which would make a recognized political party under the laws of the state.

The general election laws make provision that "a political party within the meaning of this act is an affiliation of electors representing a political party which at the general election next preceding polled at least 5 per cent of the entire vote cast in the state, county, precinct or other electoral district for which the nomination is made for Representative in Congress." The Bull Moose party has not yet filed a petition with the signatures of at least 5 per cent of the electors of that district stating their intention to form a new political party, giving the designation thereof.

Petition Not Filed. It is contended that under the provisions of this section the Bull Moose organization is not a party. It did not poll 5 per cent of the vote at the next preceding general election, nor has it filed a petition with the signatures of at least 5 per cent of the electors of the district stating their intention to form a new party and giving the designation thereof.

Under these provisions it seems to be doubtful, according to assertions made, whether the words "Progressive party" may be placed after the names of candidates who might be running for office on that party.

Whether this would apply to electors is also another question, and the possibility arises that the designation of Progressive party may not be allowed legally to go after the names of candidates for electors on that party.

The law allows three words to be used after the name of each duly qualified candidate stating either his party designation or his political principles. Three distinct words are forbidden of nominating a candidate aside from the direct primary nominating laws, the latter applying only to those parties who polled 25 per cent of the vote at the preceding election.

Three Other Ways Open. The three other ways are through nomination by a political party, by an assembly of not less than 100 qualified electors and the third by a certain percentage of individual electors.

The electors for the National Progressive party were nominated by the assembly method. But under the law the assembly does not create a political party. The only manner in which political parties can be created, it is stated, is through the means already outlined, and in the event the Progressive party has not complied with any of these provisions.

Up to this time there has been no candidate on that party nominated except the candidates for the office of elector.

However, the name of F. W. Mulky has been suggested as a candidate for the United States Senate. He was not nominated by the assembly but will be compelled to depend on individual electors to nominate him.

Provided he is nominated by individual electors it is a legal proposition that it will not be legal to allow the words "Progressive party" to be used after his name on the ballot for the same reason that no party of that name has been organized.

These questions are some that will come up to Secretary Olcott for his decision before the ballot is certified to the county clerks and in event the Progressive party fails to comply with the law it is possible some nice complications may ensue.

Character is shown in typewritten manuscript, the same as in handwriting.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 17.—(Special)—George F. Rodgers, who acted as temporary chairman of the Bull Moose convention in Portland and is now at the head of that organization in the state, admitted today that he is seriously considering the advisability of becoming a candidate for Representative in Congress from the First District against W. C. Hawley, incumbent, who is also a candidate for re-election.

This attitude would intimate the possibility of a state ticket being eventually put in the field in Oregon by that party, although Mr. Rodgers made no comment along that line.

"Inasmuch as you have asked me, I will admit that I am giving the question of becoming a candidate for Congress serious consideration," said Mr. Rodgers. "Numerous friends here and throughout the district have urged me to make the race as a Progressive candidate, and there is a possibility that I will enter the field."

Before the primaries Mr. Rodgers was long considered as a probable candidate against Mr. Hawley, but finally decided not to make the race. At the time he stated if he did make the race it would be as a Roosevelt man.

Mr. Rodgers was formerly Mayor of Salem, is a businessman here, was at one time in the State Legislature and is also a member of the Commission for the Treatment of Tuberculosis. He is also a member of the Capital Highway Commission, which has had charge of the plan to construct a road between Portland and Salem.

SALEMAN'S EX-MAYOR WOULD SUCCEED W. C. HAWLEY. Candidacy for Representative in Congress Likely Move of Bull Moose Leader in State.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 17.—(Special)—The formation of the Bull Moose party here cannot have surprised Hay, for the Governor discussed that probability three or four months ago and agreed that the trend of political events was in that direction. But the executive must have been surprised at the clarity shown by his opponents in leaving the regular Republican organization and going into the independent party. Governor Hay expected a fight for nomination and was thoroughly prepared for it. All at once, in the most critical period of the campaign, the field is completely cleared for him and a nomination is a matter of course. As old-time politicians may have been nobody would have dared make a prediction of such a result a few weeks ago. And as the bruising of a primary campaign is far more apt to affect election results than a fight afterward, the luck that saves him in the first contest probably will help him in the second.

While Hay had been prominent in Eastern Washington and particularly in Lincoln County politics for years, his nomination for Lieutenant-Governor four years ago was a good bit of political fortune. The fight was made to order for him, both by the passage of a direct primary law and through a Senate election in 1907 that put Lieutenant-Governor C. E. Coon in an embarrassing position. Hay was second on first choice votes and won, partially at least, because of his place on the ballot, through the count of first and second choice votes.

Test Suit Is Won. Then for the first time the primary law was tested and the newly-elected Lieutenant-Governor held his seat by a Supreme Court decision which, while submitting four different versions of the law, agreed by a bare majority that Hay should keep the job.

Two years before he went into office the State Senate had taken away from the Lieutenant-Governor the right to name committees, but the new Senate accorded Hay that right. Hardly had he gotten this out of the way when Governor R. G. Cosgrove returned from California to be sworn in; then hurried south again and died, making Hay the state's chief executive. He already had the Senate organs and promptly won over the House.

Whatever may have been thought at the time, and there have been numerous occasions when bitter and friendly attacks have come out of every situation arising in the executive's office with flying colors. He has left some political enemies behind, but the popular view of his actions has not been unfavorable when time has had a chance to heal up sores.

Fortune Smiles Again. In his present campaign fortune has smiled on him. These various candidates suggested as opponents a few months ago all kept out of his way, and now, just as primary day is approaching, the dangerous factors left in the gubernatorial contest have been removed through the formation of the Bull Moose party. W. H. Paulhamus, feared by the Hay forces as a candidate who would draw heavily from Hay, never broke into the Republican fight. John C. Lawrence, who at one time seemed likely to win, lagged during the last few weeks and finally stepped out and Sheriff R. T. Hodges, of King County, whom the Hay leaders feared would win as second choice candidate, was quick to abandon his strategic position and align himself with his friends in the Bull Moose movement.

Within 24 hours after the Bull Moose movement appeared formidable it attracted from the Republican list everybody who was at all dangerous to the Hay candidacy.

Now it might be that this Republican split will kill off Republican candidates. But if Bull Moose threats were to be relied upon the insurgent faction in the Republican organization would have bolted and gone over solidly to the Democrats if Hay had been nominated Governor. If the organization of a new party does nothing more it will give a faction that would line up with the Democrats a place to spend their voting strength. Of course it might have been that the insurgents would have been strong enough to have defeated Hay in the primaries, but assuming that they were not it is far better for Hay to have them voting for a candidate of their own than being with the Democrats to defeat him. And there is some luck in that situation.

BULL MOOSE FAIL TO OBSERVE LAW

Roosevelt Progressive Party as Yet Not Recognized Legally in Oregon.

COMPLICATION IS LIKELY

Petition With Necessary Five Per Cent of Voters Remains Unfiled. Names of Candidates May Escape Ballot as Result.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 17.—(Special)—

The possibility that the name "Progressive Party," as represented by the Bull Moose organization, may not be entitled to have a place on the ballot under the laws of Oregon, is one that has arisen here through the failure so far of that party to comply with the law which would make a recognized political party under the laws of the state.

The general election laws make provision that "a political party within the meaning of this act is an affiliation of electors representing a political party which at the general election next preceding polled at least 5 per cent of the entire vote cast in the state, county, precinct or other electoral district for which the nomination is made for Representative in Congress." The Bull Moose party has not yet filed a petition with the signatures of at least 5 per cent of the electors of that district stating their intention to form a new political party, giving the designation thereof.

Petition Not Filed. It is contended that under the provisions of this section the Bull Moose organization is not a party. It did not poll 5 per cent of the vote at the next preceding general election, nor has it filed a petition with the signatures of at least 5 per cent of the electors of the district stating their intention to form a new party and giving the designation thereof.

Under these provisions it seems to be doubtful, according to assertions made, whether the words "Progressive party" may be placed after the names of candidates who might be running for office on that party.

Whether this would apply to electors is also another question, and the possibility arises that the designation of Progressive party may not be allowed legally to go after the names of candidates for electors on that party.

The law allows three words to be used after the name of each duly qualified candidate stating either his party designation or his political principles. Three distinct words are forbidden of nominating a candidate aside from the direct primary nominating laws, the latter applying only to those parties who polled 25 per cent of the vote at the preceding election.

Three Other Ways Open. The three other ways are through nomination by a political party, by an assembly of not less than 100 qualified electors and the third by a certain percentage of individual electors.

The electors for the National Progressive party were nominated by the assembly method. But under the law the assembly does not create a political party. The only manner in which political parties can be created, it is stated, is through the means already outlined, and in the event the Progressive party has not complied with any of these provisions.

Up to this time there has been no candidate on that party nominated except the candidates for the office of elector.

However, the name of F. W. Mulky has been suggested as a candidate for the United States Senate. He was not nominated by the assembly but will be compelled to depend on individual electors to nominate him.

Provided he is nominated by individual electors it is a legal proposition that it will not be legal to allow the words "Progressive party" to be used after his name on the ballot for the same reason that no party of that name has been organized.

These questions are some that will come up to Secretary Olcott for his decision before the ballot is certified to the county clerks and in event the Progressive party fails to comply with the law it is possible some nice complications may ensue.

Character is shown in typewritten manuscript, the same as in handwriting.

SALEMAN'S EX-MAYOR WOULD SUCCEED W. C. HAWLEY. Candidacy for Representative in Congress Likely Move of Bull Moose Leader in State.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 17.—(Special)—George F. Rodgers, who acted as temporary chairman of the Bull Moose convention in Portland and is now at the head of that organization in the state, admitted today that he is seriously considering the advisability of becoming a candidate for Representative in Congress from the First District against W. C. Hawley, incumbent, who is also a candidate for re-election.

This attitude would intimate the possibility of a state ticket being eventually put in the field in Oregon by that party, although Mr. Rodgers made no comment along that line.

"Inasmuch as you have asked me, I will admit that I am giving the question of becoming a candidate for Congress serious consideration," said Mr. Rodgers. "Numerous friends here and throughout the district have urged me to make the race as a Progressive candidate, and there is a possibility that I will enter the field."

Before the primaries Mr. Rodgers was long considered as a probable candidate against Mr. Hawley, but finally decided not to make the race. At the time he stated if he did make the race it would be as a Roosevelt man.

Mr. Rodgers was formerly Mayor of Salem, is a businessman here, was at one time in the State Legislature and is also a member of the Commission for the Treatment of Tuberculosis. He is also a member of the Capital Highway Commission, which has had charge of the plan to construct a road between Portland and Salem.

SALEMAN'S EX-MAYOR WOULD SUCCEED W. C. HAWLEY. Candidacy for Representative in Congress Likely Move of Bull Moose Leader in State.

SALEM, Or., Aug. 17.—(Special)—The formation of the Bull Moose party here cannot have surprised Hay, for the Governor discussed that probability three or four months ago and agreed that the trend of political events was in that direction. But the executive must have been surprised at the clarity shown by his opponents in leaving the regular Republican organization and going into the independent party. Governor Hay expected a fight for nomination and was thoroughly prepared for it. All at once, in the most critical period of the campaign, the field is completely cleared for him and a nomination is a matter of course. As old-time politicians may have been nobody would have dared make a prediction of such a result a few weeks ago. And as the bruising of a primary campaign is far more apt to affect election results than a fight afterward, the luck that saves him in the first contest probably will help him in the second.

While Hay had been prominent in Eastern Washington and particularly in Lincoln County politics for years, his nomination for Lieutenant-Governor four years ago was a good bit of political fortune. The fight was made to order for him, both by the passage of a direct primary law and through a Senate election in 1907 that put Lieutenant-Governor C. E. Coon in an embarrassing position. Hay was second on first choice votes and won, partially at least, because of his place on the ballot, through the count of first and second choice votes.

Test Suit Is Won. Then for the first time the primary law was tested and the newly-elected Lieutenant-Governor held his seat by a Supreme Court decision which, while submitting four different versions of the law, agreed by a bare majority that Hay should keep the job.

Two years before he went into office the State Senate had taken away from the Lieutenant-Governor the right to name committees, but the new Senate accorded Hay that right. Hardly had he gotten this out of the way when Governor R. G. Cosgrove returned from California to be sworn in; then hurried south again and died, making Hay the state's chief executive. He already had the Senate organs and promptly won over the House.

Whatever may have been thought at the time, and there have been numerous occasions when bitter and friendly attacks have come out of every situation arising in the executive's office with flying colors. He has left some political enemies behind, but the popular view of his actions has not been unfavorable when time has had a chance to heal up sores.

Gray's Final Price Reductions

—on—

Begins Tomorrow Morning

All Fancy Suits Included at the Following Great Price Reductions:
$25 and $20 Suits $13.50
$35 and $30 Suits $18.50
$45 and $40 Suits $25.00

Our Special Sale of Chesterfield Clothes Is Nearing the End—Make Your Selection Now

273-275 Morrison, at Fourth R. M. GRAY 273-275 Morrison, at Fourth

CHRISTIANS TAKE CITIES

TURKISH TROOPS RETALIATE AND PLUNDER IN BALKANS. Rebels and Sultan's Soldiers Engaged in Bitter Warfare—Extermination Threatened.

CETTINJE, Montenegro, Aug. 17.—Christian insurgents have seized two villages in the Berane district of Albania, near the Montenegrin frontier, and also plundered Berane itself, according to reports that have reached here. Following this, the Turkish troops, using artillery, destroyed several Christian villages lying in the plains, while other detachments of Turkish troops on the way from other districts burned the houses of Christian residents while they were passing through the villages.

The fighting in the vicinity of Berane lasted throughout the day and into the night. Many wounded were brought across the Montenegrin border for surgical assistance.

The Turkish authorities are said to have threatened to exterminate the Christian population, which is in revolt in the district bordering on Montenegro.

YOU'LL FEEL BETTER ALL OVER IF YOU EAT MORE Weatherly ICE CREAM

Weatherly Ice Cream combines all the food values of pure cream and sugar, with delicious fruit flavors. Best of all—it's cold. There's nothing so cooling and refreshing these hot days as Weatherly Ice Cream. Sold by over 500 dealers.

Crystal Ice & Storage Company East 244

HEAD OF MINT DROPS DEAD

Edward Sweeney Expires Suddenly at San Francisco. SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17.—Edward Sweeney, superintendent of the United States mint here and president of the Continental Building & Loan Association, died suddenly this afternoon. Death came at the Hotel Granada, where Mr. Sweeney lived, at 1:50 this afternoon, and the cause of death was said to be heart disease.

The illness began last Thursday and became acute this morning. Dr. George Rothanger, in attendance, said death was due to angina pectoris. Dr. William Watt Kerr was called in consultation.

Character is shown in typewritten manuscript, the same as in handwriting.

OLD OREGON NATIVE DIES

JOHN TAYLOR LIVED FOR 72 YEARS NEAR DALLAS. Career Included County Judgeship and Service With Oregon Regiment in Civil War.

DALLAS, Or., Aug. 17.—(Special)—John Taylor, a native of this county and a veteran of the Civil War, died in this city Wednesday after an illness of but a few days. Mr. Taylor was born about eight miles east of Dallas in the Luckiamute district, 72 years ago. His parents came to Oregon in 1839, crossing the plains with ox team, and settled on the banks of the Luckiamute river, about two miles from the present site of Independence. His father in the early history of this county was one of the leaders in public life here and for several terms held the office of County Judge. He has lived in Polk County all his life, the greater portion of it being spent upon the old home place. During the past few years he has spent most of his time in Dallas.

In the month of November, 1864, Mr. Taylor enlisted in Company A, First Regiment of Oregon Infantry, to take part in the Civil War, and remained in the service until July 1, 1866, when the regiment was mustered out at Fort Vancouver. During his lifetime Mr. Taylor made many friends all over the county, and his sudden death came as an unexpected blow. He had apparently been in the best of health right along, and but a week or so ago, in talking with some of his old friends, he made light of the prospects of death, but said that he was ready any time.

Mr. Taylor never married. He is survived by several nieces and nephews. The funeral was held at the old home of the Taylors this morning, and interment will take place in the private burial place of the Taylors on the banks of the Luckiamute, where Mr. Taylor's mother and father are buried.

DALLAS FARMERS INJURED Two Men Rendered Unconscious in Runaway Accident. DALLAS, Or., Aug. 17.—(Special)—Clarence Brown and Frank Laws, prosperous farmers living east of the city,

ALTA MEAD

Activity continues in ALTA MEAD. You can still get a good selection, but the best lots will not last long. Remember lots in Altamead have alleys. Sidewalks are in. It is where you would like to live, and we will build for you on small cash payment. Go out today and look it over. There will be salesmen on the ground. Phone for auto engagement and we will call for you and it will only take an hour to make the round trip. Telephone Main 937, A 2693.

Western Oregon Trust Co.

Hotel Mallory

FIFTEENTH AND YAMHILL. ROBT. H. SCHOPS, Manager. Portland's Finest Family Hotel. 210 elegantly furnished rooms, each and every one supplied with every 20th-century convenience. Strictly up to date.

ABSOLUTELY FIREPROOF. Eight Stories of Solid Concrete Construction. Rates for the summer months will be extremely moderate to permanent guests.

Location—15th and Yamhill—places it within easy walking distance.

NEW LIFE BEER

Full and Rich in Flavor Absolutely Pure

And is not only a refreshing beverage, but a health-giving tonic. It is a liquid food, manufactured as only brewers know how, of the purest and most choice selected matured and thoroughly ripened grain.

Order a Case Delivered to Your House

MT. HOOD BREWERY

TELEPHONES Sellwood 1645, Sellwood 1646, Home 8 5175.

MT. HOOD BREWERY

TELEPHONES Sellwood 1645, Sellwood 1646, Home 8 5175.

Order a Case Delivered to Your House

MT. HOOD BREWERY

TELEPHONES Sellwood 1645, Sellwood 1646, Home 8 5175.

Order a Case Delivered to Your House

MT. HOOD BREWERY

TELEPHONES Sellwood 1645, Sellwood 1646, Home 8 5175.

Order a Case Delivered to Your House

MT. HOOD BREWERY

TELEPHONES Sellwood 1645, Sellwood 1646, Home 8 5175.

Order a Case Delivered to Your House

MT. HOOD BREWERY

TELEPHONES Sellwood 1645, Sellwood 1646, Home 8 5175.

Order a Case Delivered to Your House

MT. HOOD BREWERY

TELEPHONES Sellwood 1645, Sellwood 1646, Home 8 5175.

Order a Case Delivered to Your House