

McNAMARA IDENTIFIES McNAMARA LETTER

Unions Notified of Temporary Suspension of Accounting for Funds.

HOCKINS' TRAVELS TRACED

Judge Anderson Rules Letters and Telegrams Taken in Raid on Offices of Union Can Be Held by Prosecution.

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 12.—Miss Clara E. Smith, a stenographer formerly employed by John J. McNamara, at the dynamite conspiracy trial today identified a circular letter as having been addressed to all local unions of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers notifying them of a temporary suspension of a detailed accounting of the union's finances.

It was in this letter that the executive board, the attorney charged, headed by President Ryan, in 1906, began allowing $1000 monthly to McNamara that he secretly might carry on the explosion which continued until his arrest in April, 1911.

Crew at Work, Government Says. The Government said the explosions against builders of viaducts, of bridges and office buildings who had declared for the "open shop" in the employment of iron workers, previously were few, but that after the regular allowance to McNamara a paid "dynamiting crew" composed of Orville E. McManis and James B. McNamara and directed by Herbert S. Hockin, was put to work and was kept working until the Los Angeles Times building was blown up.

Miss Smith was the first former employee of the iron workers to testify. She purposed to testify by announcing that the executive board during the fight against the "open shop" employers had decided to suspend the rules which handed the witness.

Letter Mailed to All Locals. "Yes," answered Miss Smith. "It was mailed to all of the 22 local unions by direction of J. B. McNamara."

McNamara was secretary-treasurer of the union, whose headquarters then were in Cleveland. Smith and Miss A. J. Hull, employed by McNamara as stenographers, identified letters taken from the ironworkers' files after the headquarters were removed to Indianapolis. Many of the letters, which the witnesses testified were in McNamara's handwriting, referred to the executive board or to P. M. Ryan. They were the letters which the Government in its opening statement said would show that a dynamite conspiracy was conducted through the mails and that the defendants were "linked together in guilt."

The witnesses identified letters as having been received from W. Bert Brown, Kansas City; Edward Smythe, Peoria, Ill.; Paul J. Morrin, St. Louis; Fred Mooney, Duluth, and Milton H. Davis, Westchester, Pa., all of whom are defendants.

About 700 letters are still to be identified. Their contents will be made known when their witnesses testify.

Visits to Various Cities of Men Accused of Being "Advance Agents of the dynamiting crew" were traced through hotel registers by other witnesses.

Referring to a bulk of the explosion occurred three days after Hockin's visit. When Clark was locked up after his arrest on the federal indictments, Hockin, according to the Government charges, visited Clark in jail and asked, "Are you talking?" to which Clark replied, "No, but I understand you are."

Clancy Registered in Chicago. William B. Sturmer, assistant manager of a Chicago hotel, testified that Eugene A. Clancy, San Francisco, was in Chicago October 14, 1910, to check after the Los Angeles Times explosion. The Government contends that Clancy took part in hiding J. B. McNamara, that Clancy became alarmed at the loss of life at Los Angeles and that after hurrying to the Pacific coast from Boston, he returned East, telegraphing on the way he would meet McNamara at Chicago.

The witness testified that "G. Clark," the alias of McNamara, was registered at the hotel when Clancy was there. Clancy also is charged with instructing labor leaders to "clean house" after the explosion.

Defense Cannot See Evidence. Letters and telegrams taken in a raid on the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers and upon which the Government bases its charge that the defendants directed explosions through the mails and telegraph will not be returned to the defense until the trial is ended. Judge Anderson so ruled today. He denied a motion that the defense be permitted to inspect the Government's evidence before it is introduced.

The evidence was secured after the arrest of J. J. McNamara, the raid, according to District Attorney Miller, being secretly arranged by Hockin, acting secretary of the union.

POHLMAN GOES AFTER PAPERS

Labor Leader Says Production at Trial Will Be Resisted.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 12.—(Special.)—H. W. Pohlmán, a Seattle labor leader, who recently was found guilty of contempt of court by Judge Taylor, in the United States District Court, because he refused to produce certain papers before the United States grand jury in session here, came to Los Angeles to get possession of the documents, which were deposited in a safety deposit vault here.

Pohlmán has been secured with a subpoena duces tecum to produce the same papers before the Federal Court at Indianapolis.

The attorneys for Pohlmán say that they will not produce the papers at Indianapolis. Pohlmán appealed from the decision of Judge Wellborn on a writ of error to the Circuit Court of Appeals and his writ was dismissed.

opened negotiations, with the District Attorney. Had you opened up negotiations with the District Attorney?"

"Yes."

"Did you ask immunity for Scheppe?"

ion as to me, if they would tell the truth."

"You didn't tell Scheppe in your letter to tell the truth, did you?"

"No."

"Didn't you get down on your knees in the Tomba prison, resumed McIntyre, and swear to Charles Platt on the grave of your dead mother that Becker had nothing to do with the murder?"

"I did not."

"Didn't you say to Jack Sullivan that your only way to beat the case was to frame-up Becker?"

"I did not."

Rose Admits Prevaricating. "You were taken to Mr. Whitman's office, weren't you?"

"Yes, and had a talk with him there. I saw Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty first."

"Did you tell Dougherty that you had nothing to do with the murder and knew nothing of it?"

"I did."

"Did you tell him that, did you lie?"

"I was there to protect Becker—"

"Who said that?"

"Didn't you lie?" shouted Mr. McIntyre.

"Why, yes, I did," Rose faltered.

"Did you tell Dougherty that you never collected any money for Becker?"

"Yes."

"And then again you lied, didn't you?"

"Yes; I lied."

Mr. McIntyre vainly sought to get on the record the sort of and terms of money granted Rose, Scheppe and Vallon. Finally, amid strenuous objections of Mr. Whitman, McIntyre asked:

"Did Mr. Whitman tell you he wanted to get the big fish, not the small fry?"

"Yes."

Gumman Paid by Rose. Justice Goff instructed the witness not to reply, and told the jury to disregard the question.

"Who paid the gunmen?" resumed McIntyre.

"I did."

"Was Scheppe present?"

"Yes."

"How close was he to you then?"

Rose indicated a distance of about 10 feet. He said he paid the money the day after the murder. Scheppe brought the gunmen to him, he said.

"Did you tell Scheppe to go and get the gunmen?"

"Yes."

"Who did Scheppe bring?"

"Lefty Louie" and another. I am not sure whether the other was 'Dago Frank' or not. There were two."

"Lefty Louie."

note and, it is understood, will present it to the representatives of those countries tomorrow. The reply declares that the representations of the powers are vague and were made at too late a date.

Situation Much Complicated. The military prospects are so complicated that experts are unable to make prophecies, while the political conditions are still more complicated. Vienna and St. Petersburg newspapers are printing articles hinting at bad faith. The Austro-Hungarian press accuses Russia of secretly backing the combination against Turkey. A section of the French press blames Great Britain, declaring that she prevented the powers from making a strong stand against the war.

Europe is amazed at Turkey's failure to accept the Italian peace terms at this critical moment and is worried, because in Italy's participation in the war there is danger of drawing in the other powers.

All the stock markets suffered a demoralized day. Berlin appears to have been the most distressed. British consols reached the lowest point in history. The Russia, St. Petersburg, says the fall in prices was due less to the Balkan situation than to the operations of a clique of bear speculators anxious to enrich themselves at public expense.

Lloyd-George Has Two Hopes. The British Chancellor of the Exchequer, David Lloyd-George, in an address tonight said:

"The prospect seems to be that in a very short time the Eastern horizon will be clear. We may expect two hopes—that the area of conflagration will be limited and that whatever may be the issue of the conflict between the combatants one or the other will ensure that the boundary of freedom and good government will be extended."

The British Red Cross Society is preparing to send large contingents to the front.

TENSION INCREASES HOURLY

Note of Powers to Turkey Carries No Prospect of Peace.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—From all the capitals today came news of increasing tension and continued preparation for war, and this has spread now to Vienna and Budapest. The note handed by the powers to Turkey, which is the subject of stemming the panic of selling on the Bourse.

The text of the note handed by the representatives of the powers to the Turkish government proves to be more feeble even than was expected, and, as it contains no suggestion that the powers will undertake to guarantee the carrying out of reforms in Macedonia, it is not likely to have any effect in allaying public feeling in the Balkans, which is all for war.

The reply of the Balkan States, like that of the Turkish government, has not yet been delivered. In Turkey war is accepted as a certainty. A special dispatch from Salonica, a special dispatch from Bulgaria, and a special dispatch from Serbia, all of which are chiefly that of inciting the village populations in the frontier districts to revolt, and in case of their refusal to do so, the bands are said to have been ordered to burn the houses and massacre the inhabitants.

The reports of maltreatment of the Turkish population in Bulgaria, which declares that no insult of any kind had been offered to the Turkish legation or consuls in Bulgaria.

The concentration of the Serbian forces has been impaired by the scarcity of transport facilities.

Three main armies, aggregating 200,000 men, are being formed by the country. One of them is mobilizing at the Tzaribor, on the Bulgarian frontier, and is to co-operate with the Bulgarian troops. Another is gathering at Milas against the Nish in preparation to advance against Uskup, while a third is mobilizing at Kralievo, intending to penetrate the sanjak of Novi-pazar.

Seventy Serbian villages in the sanjak of Novi-pazar are reported from Vukovar. The Moslems are said to have taken the revolt by executing the village leaders, including numerous priests.

OUTLOOK VIEWED WITH ALARM

London Observers Alarmed by Stand Taken by Austria.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—(Special.)—"When the powers meant to review the Balkan situation," declared J. L. Garvin, the editor of the Pall Mall Gazette, "shrewd prophets are convinced that it will be the words of Europe, and not the powder of war with distant magazines, the explosion of which would crack the map of Europe with yawning fissures."

Mr. Garvin's metaphors do not exaggerate the gravity of the European situation as viewed by the best informed observers in London. This week end will be the most anxious the Cabinets and Chancellors of Europe have passed in many years. The Moroccan crisis at its height excited far less misgiving.

The central source of alarm is the military preparation being made by Austria and the ominous words of Count Berchtold, foreign minister of that country. It is felt in Downing street and elsewhere in London that Austria at any moment may embark on a forward movement in connection with the sanjak of Novi-pazar, thus rousing the Russians to greater fury than they are displaying and making a European war almost certain.

The correspondent today tried to get some idea what the situation in the subject. Austria and Russia being involved in a war over the Balkan peninsula. The government is inscrutable on the subject. Those in touch with the government, however, give the impression

PANIC SEIZES ON BERLIN Financial Circles Lose Heads in Belief War Will Spread. BERLIN, Oct. 12.—(Special.)—In spite of official optimism and assurance that all the great powers are united, the German public fears a general European conflagration. The Berlin Exchange experienced yesterday one of the blackest days in its existence and the panic continued today on a sensational scale, prices tumbling in all the markets. Not only do speculative and financial circles seem to have lost their heads in the belief that the sensational rumors of mobilization in Russia and Austria are true, but panic has also seized the small provincial investors, whose sale orders are pouring in upon the bankers with every mail. The great Berlin banks, which control $5,000,000,000 of Germany's national fortune, has called meetings of their directors with a view to stopping the panic.
