Trade in Export Flour Is Brought to a Stop.

Reduction in Wheat Bids, Following Declines at Liverpool, Do Not Appeal to Northwestern Sellers.

Mill Feed Is Firm.

The latter part of the week was an inactive one in the wheat market, and esterday was the dullest Saturday the trade has known since the season opened. No disposition was shown by either buyers or sellers to come together. The former bid lower prices, but at the decline farmers would not submit offerings. Tonnage is scarce and the few December ships available are worth 46s 3d. On this basis ex-porters figure that 77 cents is all they can pay for club wheat on track here.
There were no sellers at this figure, and few at 73 cents, which some of the other buyers were offering. Bluestem was quoted at 80 to 82 cents.

and few at 73 cents, which some of the other buyers were offering. Blue stem was quoted at 80 to $2 cents.

The barley and oats markets were quiet. In both lines the undertone was firm.

Trade in the export flour market has almost come to a stop. This is due entirely to the fact that freights are so high. The trans-Pacific lines have advanced the flour rate to $5 to Japan, and the Japanese refuse to buy. If the same rate applied as at this time hast year, the local millers and exporters would be doing a big business, as it is certain the Orientals would be ready purchasers at a lower figure. As it is, they are holding off and it is uncertain whether they will come in during the later season. The Asiatic wheat ring the later season. The Asiatic wheat crop will soon be ground and they should need more flour on the other side by the first of the year, but they probably will use rice in preference to paying the $5 rate on Pacific Coast flour.

The domestic market is in good condition. Patent flours are quoted steady to firm, and the movement is of norther form, and the movement is of norther firm, and the movement is of norther firm.

Hedging Sales From the Northwest Likewise Have a Depressing Effect on Prices-Russian Official Estimates Are Larger.

CHICAGO. Oct. 19.—Hedging sales from the Northwest had a depressing effect today on wheat. The market closed easy, %c to %c under last night. There was apparently no hedging in wheat sales being done by Chicago houses. Builish sentiment here, however, had become dwarfed by the low prices named in bids for expert business and by weakness at Winnipeg, where foreign activity would naturally develop first.
