

BOURNE IS OPPOSED THROUGHOUT STATE

Editors in Every Section Reflect Adverse Sentiment of Many Voters.

"DEMAGOGUE," SAY SOME

Primary Should Be Considered as "Recall" From Senate, Declare Others—Sincerity of Efforts Impeached Generally.

Senator Bourne is being vigorously censured and called to account by the press of the state for his repudiation of the direct primary law.

In seeking through an independent candidacy to secure reelection to the office from which he was "recalled" last April, the Eugene Register charges Senator Bourne with being a demagogue and a preacher of that which he does not practice.

The editorial comment of the great majority of the papers deals with the inconsistency of Bourne's repudiation of the direct primary law and his course as intermediary for the Standard Oil Company with the White House, a relationship he accepted before he had been in the senate two years.

Desire for Office Prime. Senator Bourne's persistent efforts to retain the senatorship by his independent candidacy is attributed to an insatiable lust for office, regardless of the fact that he was defeated for re-nomination in the Republican direct primary nominating election last April.

By all that is right and just, Ben Selling is entitled to the vote of every Republican in Morrow County. He went into the primary in April and was fairly nominated by the Republicans of the state, receiving a plurality of more than 6000 votes over Jonathan Bourne.

What Is He? Asks One. Senator Bourne had a representative in Independence last Saturday circulating his petition to be elected in the hour of the last day to allow him to be a candidate for the coveted position he now holds.

Ben Selling received the Republican nomination in the direct primary election by a plurality of 4000 over Senator Bourne. Mr. Selling made the race on his record as a progressive. He submitted his record as a pioneer and consistent advocate of every progressive legislative in this state.

Sincerity Is Impeached. Senator Bourne is a demagogue and a preacher of that which he does not practice. This is the opinion of Senator Bourne is deducted from his own actions, which placed guilty to the indictment against him.

Current report says that Jonathan Bourne, who is now out for the United States Senate, is an advocate of single tax. If this is true, it is the duty of all voters to see that Mr. Bourne's vote is as light as possible.

No Democrat and no genuine progressive Republican can consistently support a man for the United States Senate who recorded his vote in favor of the Payne-Aldrich tariff.

Bourne is only a resident of the state for political reasons. His wealthy Massachusetts relatives want a Senator in the family for social reasons and are always willing to pay the price of an election.

feat administered to him by the Republican voters last April—Eugene Guard. Our senior Senator claims to be one of the sponsors of the Oregon system which gave birth, among other things, to the direct primary, the preamble of which sets forth in glowing terms the necessity for great political parties.

But both of these defeats (primary election and Bull Moose state convention) could not cool the office-seeking ardor of Jonathan Bourne. Professing in the United States Senate, in numerous magazines and in voluminous literature circulated over the country, to be not a one-man movement. It is greater than any one man or group of men. "If elected to the United States Senate, I shall arrive to write the principles of the platform on which I stand on the statute books and Constitution of the United States."

The charge of Senator Chamberlain against Roosevelt, said Mr. Clark, "may be classed under the following policies and conditions: Roosevelt's 1904 large contributions were made to the Roosevelt campaign found with the intention of influencing Governmental action, that Roosevelt became progressive only just before the primaries in 1912, and that the first and most notable act of Roosevelt has been such as not to meet the approval of thinking men."

Chamberlain's Stand Recalled. Mr. Clark reminded his audience that in 1908, when Senator Chamberlain was a candidate for the office he holds, the policies for which Roosevelt stood and for which Chamberlain recommended, were fixed and settled and everybody knew what they were.

In that campaign, followed Mr. Clark, "Chamberlain went all over this state proclaiming himself a non-partisan Roosevelt Democrat, enthusiastically endorsing and approving the policies and conditions of Roosevelt. In March, 1908, Mr. Chamberlain, in an interview, declared that Roosevelt had placed principles of the special interests, the trust magnates and the machine politicians." In the same interview, he made the statement that he was in hearty accord with most of the policies of Roosevelt.

Mr. Clark went on to quote from other interviews and addresses delivered by Mr. Chamberlain in the campaign for the office he holds, in which he endorsed the Roosevelt policies and the Roosevelt Administration, declaring in an address at Heppner on May 5, "I elected Roosevelt, and I shall continue to stand by the banner unfurled by Roosevelt, who stands for true Democracy." At another time Mr. Chamberlain in that campaign was quoted as saying that as Senator he would refuse to tie up with any clique or faction that would not carry out the policies advocated by Roosevelt.

Present Attack Riddled. The speaker charged that the attack of Senator Chamberlain on Roosevelt was "ridiculous, absurd and unfair" in view of the fact that it was made after the election of Roosevelt. He had given his unqualified indorsement of Roosevelt and his policies, and particularly when that indorsement was given four years after the alleged proper campaign contributions had been made for Roosevelt.

Pursuing the subject further Mr. Clark stated that following the election in 1908, when Mr. Chamberlain had received the popular vote for Senator, there was considerable discussion as to whether the Republican members of the Legislature would observe their Statement No. 1 pledge and vote for a Democrat for the Senatorship.

National Primary Wanted. "It was about that time that Mr. Chamberlain went to Washington and saw President Roosevelt," said Mr. Clark. "According to press dispatches from Washington Mr. Chamberlain saw the President October 5, 1908, and was greeted as the 'Senator-to-be.' At the same time and in the presence of five other Senators, Mr. Chamberlain said to Mr. Roosevelt: 'I would have preferred the election of a Republican, but as I believe in the people ruling, I will support the election of a Democrat.'"

Taking up the issues figuring in the pending campaign, Mr. Clark said the time had arrived when such men as Chamberlain, Murphy, Taggart and their like "should be kicked out of the Government of this country" and the Government restored to the people and administered in their interests, as it was expected to be. Before it would be possible to rid the country of the political boss, particularly the one who had been elected to the office of President, it was necessary to elect a man who would carry out the principles of the progressive party and the election of Theodore Roosevelt to the Presidency.

"Big Business" Feared. "Much pressure was brought to bear on me by friends of Senator Bourne in an effort to induce me to withdraw as a candidate for the Senatorship," declared that Senator Bourne should come out and identify himself with the Progressive party and subscribe to its platform, he was told such a course would be politically inexpedient. For Bourne to do so, I was informed, might lose him the support of some of the big business interests of Portland, which, for some reason, were hostile to Roosevelt and the policies for which he stood.

"So far as I am concerned, I shall oppose every effort to make the Progressive party movement in any sense the personal asset of the personal ambition of any man, regardless of the principles of the Progressive party greater than the personal ambition of myself or of Mr. Bourne and would not trade the office of Senator for the support of any one man or group of men."

W. B. DENNIS, of Carlton, reports a vigorous Taft Club in a section of Yamhill County. Less than two weeks old, the club already has a membership of 75 and Mr. Dennis says the number will be doubled before election day. There are only 250 voters in the entire precinct in which Carlton is located.

C. W. Fulton, ex-United States Senator, will speak at Astoria next Saturday night. Mr. Fulton originally was billed for Hillsboro for that night, but the people of his old home town in Clatsop County were so insistent in their demands that he speak at Astoria, the State Committee has arranged to assign another speaker to the Hillsboro meeting.

Republicans of Carlton and vicinity will hold a big rally next Wednesday, when L. B. Webster, of Portland, will be the principal speaker. Special excursion trains will be run from the surrounding points. Mr. Webster will also speak at Pendleton next Saturday night.

Newberg Republicans held a rally last night that was addressed by S. E. Ruston and John C. McCue, of this city.

Dr. Harry Lane and other nominees on the Democratic ticket will address meetings this week as follows: Tuesday night, Sellwood and Irvington; Wednesday, Rose City Park and probably Brooklyn; Thursday, Gevurtz Hall, Front and Gibbs street, South Portland.

From 250 pulpits today throughout the state suffrage will be indorsed by ministers of every denomination and sect.

Some months ago Mrs. M. L. T. Hadden, the president of the Political Equality League, conceived the idea of having all the clergymen in the state preach on suffrage on a given date. Other suffrage organizations wanted to help, so Mrs. Helen Miller Senn was chosen to carry out the project.

WHY?

The Oregonian does not find anything to commend in Senator Bourne. His work for Popular Government, the Direct Primary, Corrupt Practices Act, Presidential Preference, does not win a kind word; his positions on the strongest committees in Congress, and the large appropriations secured at the Congress just adjourned, are made the butt of jokes. It is some satisfaction for the friends of fair play and the truth to learn what such a distinguished and most highly respected citizen, as Senator Elihu Root has to say. Senator Root was Chairman of the Republican National Convention that nominated President Taft in Chicago in June, is distinguished in letters and political science, and undoubtedly is America's foremost citizen:

NIGHT LETTER THE WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH COMPANY CLINTON, N. Y., Oct. 23, 1912.

Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., Portland, Oregon.

Although our views differ widely on some public questions, I value very highly the painstaking industry and constructive capacity which you have devoted to the work of your very important positions in the Senate, and I am glad to learn that so many people in Oregon appreciate your service and wish to keep you in the Senate. If Oregon wishes to contribute her fair share to the government of the country, she can do it in that way. To run a big government properly, someone has got to do some hard and intelligent work. Half of the men who are sent to Washington because they are popular at home, simply sit around and do nothing, leaving the real work to be done by a few. You are one of the few.

ELIHU ROOT.

Senator Root is not a Progressive, and the telegram above shows that the leading statesman along the old party lines, ultra-conservative, is big enough and broad enough in his spirit of appreciation of good work to give credit where it is due.

Raymond—Merchants Victimized. RAYMOND, Wash., Oct. 26.—(Special.)—Several merchants here and the South Bend were caught during the week of worthless checks. The amount of each check ranged from $5 to $10 and were marked by a protector "Not good for more than $10." The checks were drawn on the Southwestern Washington Bank of Ilwaco in the names of William Kennedy and William Cunningham and purported to be signed by Stewart & Goodwin. The culprit has not yet been apprehended.

Your Child's Health Your First Thought If you have children, naturally your first thoughts are for their health. You certainly want them to develop strong, healthy constitutions. The most careful attention must be given when children show the first symptoms of the many common ailments. Perhaps they are weakly and thin, or grow too fast, thus sacrificing the appetite, and will add apparently minor ailments may be the forerunner to a weak constitution for life.

Such children need Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge, which is essentially a children's tonic. First of all, it will properly care for the child's stomach. It will also improve the appetite, and will add to the other organs of the body. In cases of thin or impure blood, it increases the number of red corpuscles, enabling the enriched blood to keep the body healthy and strong.

Among the most common ailments that children develop is that of a disordered stomach, leading to an impaired digestion. In many cases this trouble is due to parasites in the intestinal tract. To correct such trouble, Jayne's Tonic Vermifuge is unsurpassed. For more than eighty years millions of children have been restored to health through the use of this tonic. Insist upon Jayne's; accept no other sold by druggists everywhere. Dr. D. Jayne & Son, Philadelphia, Pa.
