

BIG PROJECT BORN WEE SMALL HOURS

Calvin Heilig and M. C. Dickinson Plan and Execute as Heuser Sleeps.

NEW FRANCHISE IS AIM

Between 12:30 and 9:30 A. M. Seventh-street Business Men Prepare Document, Secure Bond and Apply for Right-of-Way.

For doing things in a hurry and "getting away with them" please give the prize to Calvin Heilig and M. C. Dickinson.

Many stories have been written about men who act quickly and act decisively and many times the critical periods in the lives of such men have been dramatized, but neither fiction's brightest page nor the drama's most brilliant plot has revealed such daring and deliberate enterprise as that conceived and boldly carried out by the Portland theatrical man and hotel magnate who, between the hours of 12:30 and 9:30 Friday morning originated the idea of building a street railway on Seventh street, secured the necessary financial backing, prepared the required legal documents and presented their plan to the City Council. Embarking into the street railway business was farthest from Mr. Heilig's mind, when, in company with William T. Fangle, he attended the theater Thursday night. At the table where they had lunch the theatrical pair soon were joined by M. C. Dickinson, one of the proprietors of the hotel. They talked about plays and baseball and politics and various other subjects of immediate interest, when suddenly Mr. Dickinson, without much apparent concern, asked:

"Say, Cal, what do you think of this Seventh-street franchise business anyway?"

"It's just like this, 'Dick,' answered Mr. Heilig, "George Heuser seems mighty anxious to get that franchise and it looks to me that he expects to make a good thing out of it," he added.

Heuser Franchise Arouses.
Then there was a pause, during which neither man said anything. After a little more pause the hotel man finally blurted out:

"Now, look here, Cal," accompanied by a violent thump on the table with his fist, "if it's worth anything, why isn't it worth something to Seventh-street business men?"

"It might be, but how are we to get in on it? I'm not in the street railway business, are you?"

"No, but suppose we get into it?" "I'm with you, Dick. You can count me in on anything that will keep an interurban line of Seventh street. It would spoil business on the whole street from the river to the Heights."

Then there was a few minutes of hurried consultation, at the end of which it was found that the Council would meet at 9:30 the following morning. To get any action at all it was necessary to act in a hurry. It was 12:30 Friday morning then.

The first thing the hotel man did was to ring up George N. Davis, a lawyer, ask him to come down to the Oregon grill right away. Davis said he would meet at 9:30 the following morning. To get any action at all it was necessary to act in a hurry. It was 12:30 Friday morning then.

Then he called "Goldie" on the telephone. "Goldie, Goldie, Goldie, Mr. Dickinson's right hand man."

"Do you know where Walter McKee lives, or what his telephone number is?" asked Mr. Dickinson in a violent tone.

"Naw, I don't," replied "Goldie," quite angrily, and went back to bed.

Ten minutes later the house bell again called "Goldie" out of bed.

Magnates Act Quickly.
"Come down here; I want you," the voice of Mr. Dickinson commanded. Not knowing whether a murder had been committed or what the house had been burglarized, "Goldie" came, half dressed and sleepy.

"Where can we get a stenographer real quick?" the hotel man asked.

Upon Goldie's suggestion they called Miss Moore, the house stenographer. She lives at the Wheelodun.

"How long will it take you to get ready to come to the house and take some dictation?" Mr. Dickinson asked.

"Five minutes."

"All right, in five minutes I'll send a cab up there for you." He pulled out his stop watch.

"Now, then, we've got to have a bond," suggested Mr. Heilig.

"Well, then, we'll call Karl Lively and have him prepare one for us," answered Mr. Dickinson.

"How long will it take you to get dressed?" was the greeting Mr. Lively received on answering the telephone.

"Ten minutes."

"In ten minutes, I'll have a cab in front of your house. Come down here right away, Goodby."

Now, Phil Metchan, of the Imperial Hotel, and Mr. Dickinson, although competitors in business, are close friends.

WOMEN POLICE WHO FORM CO-OPERATIVE SYSTEM FOR THE PROTECTION OF GIRLS.

LEFT TO RIGHT, MISS MARY BROWN, SEATTLE; MRS. LOLA G. BALDWIN, PORTLAND, PRESIDENT OF THE ORGANIZATION; DR. MARY MARTIN, OF SEATTLE; NORTH YAKIMA, SECRETARY AND TREASURER OF THE ORGANIZATION.

WOMAN IS CHOSEN

Mrs. Lola G. Baldwin Heads Police Matron League.

SCOPE MAY BE NATIONAL

Meeting to Adopt Definite Plans and Title Will Be Held in Seattle, July, 1913—Resolutions Are Adopted.

Mrs. Lola G. Baldwin, of the Portland police department, was yesterday selected to head the first organization of women police ever formed in the United States. This was perfected, at the conclusion of a three days' convention of women engaged in police work and protection of girls in the cities and towns of the Pacific Northwest. The convention was held at the city hall, forty women were present, representing Portland and the new Spokane, San Francisco, Oakland, Sacramento and several of the larger cities of Oregon.

The purpose of the organization is to bring about a system of co-operation among the women police and representatives of women's clubs engaged in protective work. A co-operative system with a telegraphic code and definite plan of action in tracing women and strengthening the protection for lone girls was fully arranged. It is believed the organization will become of National scope.

Officers Are Elected.
On the official roster with Mrs. Baldwin as Mrs. Winnifred Covell, of Tacoma, vice-president, and Mrs. Robert Johnston, of North Yakima, secretary and treasurer. Provision was made for a corresponding secretary and an executive committee of three. These positions are appointive and will be filled by Mrs. Baldwin. The organization will have a name until a meeting next July in Seattle, by which time it will be known whether it will be National or confined to Northwest cities. It will be known temporarily as the Pacific Northwest Association of Women Engaged in Police Work and Girl Protection.

The convention was begun Thursday with about 30 in attendance. Until yesterday it was confined to the consideration of subjects of mutual interest to the representatives of the various cities. The success of the convention brought about a demand for a permanent organization and the new association quickly launched. The executive committee will draft the constitution and bylaws.

Cigarette Popular in Sacramento.
Lively addresses featured the programme during the sessions yesterday. Various phases of the police work as it is found by women police in the various cities were discussed. A vote taken on the question of whether drunkenness and cigarette smoking is increasing among women showed a division of opinion as to drunkenness but stood unanimous in the affirmative on the question of cigarette smoking. Miss Anne M. McCormick, of Sacramento, declared that both intoxication and cigarette smoking are on the increase. "My observation in Sacramento has been that cigarette smoking in particular has had an astonishing growth among women. Two years ago it was not known; now it is general. And other things are on a par. It seems that this is an age of temptation.

Miss Caroline Barnum, of Portland, spoke on experiences she has had at the Union Depot during several years of work in protecting girls traveling alone. She declared among other things that the practice of sending children alone on trains to strange cities is growing and is constantly requiring much work for women engaged in caring for such cases.

Last year the Y. W. C. A. department workers at the depot handled 350 cases of this nature.

Resolutions Are Adopted.
Yesterday morning the speakers were Professor E. G. Young, of the department of sociology and economics at the University of Oregon and Dr. Mary Martin, of Seattle. Following their addresses, the convention adopted the following resolutions:

The great need of protective work for women and girls is everywhere recognized. It can be carried on only by an efficient corps of women officers with uniform methods and by co-operation of the various cities and towns. The permanency of such a department and the qualifications of such officers are of extreme importance to make the work a success. We therefore make the following recommendations:

"That every city and town shall endeavor to incorporate this as part of its city charter, in order to give this part of the work permanence and security."

"That no woman be appointed who has not had some practical experience in protective work."

"That every woman must be a total abstainer from alcoholic liquor."

"That every woman must be a Christian or at least have a previous record of being especially interested in protective work."

"That every woman shall have the indorsement of at least one Federated woman's organization, Y. W. C. A. or any organization of women interested in civic betterment."

"To advance the work of reform, all women offenders, especially first offenders, should have private hearings and every city should have a woman bailiff and parole officer whose duty it would be to look after women prisoners especially during their trial and after their release, and whose further duty should be to endeavor to help them to a better life by finding honorable employment for them or bringing them under Christian influences."

"Every community should look forward to the establishment of an industrial home for delinquent girls and women where proper medical attention can be given; thus carrying out ideas of reform rather than punishment."

"We thank the press for its general and kindly consideration."

William T. Hornaday, of the New York Zoological Park, formerly with the Smithsonian Institution, celebrated author on zoological subjects and friend and admirer of Theodore Roosevelt in his hunting activities, was added to the list of celebrities called upon to give expert testimony in the case of Charles the First, the chimpanzee whose death precipitated a $200,000 damage suit against the Northern Pacific Railway and has been the subject of the deliberations of the Federal Court for the past week.

Professor Hornaday's deposition in direct examination was read yesterday morning. It dealt principally with the longevity of chimpanzees in captivity and the length of time required for chimpanzees to become acclimated in the United States. In the latter question he set the time at about six months. Some of his testimony, like that of Dr. W. Reid Blair, dealt with the market price of chimpanzees, and brought out similar information.

Monkeys Trained in Two Months.
As to the length of time required to train a chimpanzee, two months was indicated in the deposition of Professor Hornaday, as sufficient for an elementary training.

The first part of the session yesterday morning was spent in the cross-examination of Dr. Blair. He said that the swollen condition of the mouth, tongue and eyes of the chimpanzee, which the prosecution held to have existed after his death, could not have been caused by tuberculosis or pneumonia.

On the other hand, when Attorney Isham Smith asked him if a monkey in the last stages of pneumonia could perform its tricks on the stage he maintained that he believed it could. Mr. Smith asked this question after having elicited the statement that a human being suffering from acute pneumonia would probably be delirious or unable to be about for some time before his death.

The session yesterday was very quiet. The stereoscopic examination of the previous day was not reverted to, the cross-examination having been carried on Friday afternoon at the same time with the direct questioning. The formaldehyde-soaked relics of the late

Charles I. were not brought back into the courtroom.

Dr. Blair finished his testimony and left for New York yesterday afternoon. Experts in testimony for the prosecution will be brought into court next week and further investigations into the life and characteristics of the chimpanzees in general, and Charles I. in particular, will be entered upon tomorrow morning probably.

Jackson County Records Broken.
MEDFORD, Or., Oct. 26.—(Special.)—All records for registration have been broken in Jackson County, the present roll including 6200 names. The largest previous registration was in 1911 when 5200 was the total. County Clerk Coleman believes there have been many duplications, however, and places the number at 700, which would make the net total 5500, or a gain of 300 registered voters in one year.

One reason women want to have good figures is because the other women haven't got them.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH-CABLE COMPANY

NIGHT LETTERGRAM

The Postal Telegraph-Cable Company (Incorporated) transmits and delivers this night lettergram subject to the terms and conditions printed on the back of this blank. CLARENCE H. MACKAY, President.

233-5---, S.F.B. 167 N.D. 4 Exa.

INDEPENDENT COMPETITIVE PROGRESSIVE

Hon. Harry Lane,

Care Dem. State Com., Portland, Ore.

As the Democratic nominee for United States Senator in Oregon, on behalf of the National Democratic Committee I desire to extend to you my best wishes in your contest. I consider your election one of the most essential achievements in the pending campaign. Gov. Wilson's election to the Presidency by an overwhelming majority is certain. There is no doubt that we will control the House of Representatives by a great majority. It is desirable, therefore, that every supporter of Wilson and Marshall should turn attention to the election of a Democratic Senate, and use every honorable means to promote success of Democratic candidates for the Senate. The control of both houses of Congress will insure the execution of policies for which Gov. Wilson and the Democratic party stand. I trust that every supporter of Gov. Wilson in Oregon will therefore earnestly and enthusiastically support your candidacy. Please convey this message to the Democrats of your state and to all supporters of Gov. Wilson.

William F. McCombs,
Chairman Dem. Natl. Com.

Democratic Headquarters, B. E. Haney, Chairman.

(Paid Advertisement)

MONKEY CASE DRAGS

Pictorial Features of Friday's Session Lacking.

MORE EXPERTS TO APPEAR

Deposition of Professor Hornaday, of Smithsonian Institution, Read to Jury—Dr. Blair Permitted to Return to New York.

William T. Hornaday, of the New York Zoological Park, formerly with the Smithsonian Institution, celebrated author on zoological subjects and friend and admirer of Theodore Roosevelt in his hunting activities, was added to the list of celebrities called upon to give expert testimony in the case of Charles the First, the chimpanzee whose death precipitated a $200,000 damage suit against the Northern Pacific Railway and has been the subject of the deliberations of the Federal Court for the past week.

Professor Hornaday's deposition in direct examination was read yesterday morning. It dealt principally with the longevity of chimpanzees in captivity and the length of time required for chimpanzees to become acclimated in the United States. In the latter question he set the time at about six months. Some of his testimony, like that of Dr. W. Reid Blair, dealt with the market price of chimpanzees, and brought out similar information.

Monkeys Trained in Two Months.
As to the length of time required to train a chimpanzee, two months was indicated in the deposition of Professor Hornaday, as sufficient for an elementary training.

The first part of the session yesterday morning was spent in the cross-examination of Dr. Blair. He said that the swollen condition of the mouth, tongue and eyes of the chimpanzee, which the prosecution held to have existed after his death, could not have been caused by tuberculosis or pneumonia.

On the other hand, when Attorney Isham Smith asked him if a monkey in the last stages of pneumonia could perform its tricks on the stage he maintained that he believed it could. Mr. Smith asked this question after having elicited the statement that a human being suffering from acute pneumonia would probably be delirious or unable to be about for some time before his death.

The session yesterday was very quiet. The stereoscopic examination of the previous day was not reverted to, the cross-examination having been carried on Friday afternoon at the same time with the direct questioning. The formaldehyde-soaked relics of the late

Charles I. were not brought back into the courtroom.

Dr. Blair finished his testimony and left for New York yesterday afternoon. Experts in testimony for the prosecution will be brought into court next week and further investigations into the life and characteristics of the chimpanzees in general, and Charles I. in particular, will be entered upon tomorrow morning probably.

Jackson County Records Broken.
MEDFORD, Or., Oct. 26.—(Special.)—All records for registration have been broken in Jackson County, the present roll including 6200 names. The largest previous registration was in 1911 when 5200 was the total. County Clerk Coleman believes there have been many duplications, however, and places the number at 700, which would make the net total 5500, or a gain of 300 registered voters in one year.

One reason women want to have good figures is because the other women haven't got them.

A LA FOLLETTE REPUBLICAN

If you want to be represented by a clean, capable and forceful man, one who will do things and know how, but never makes promises he can't fulfill, you will benefit your district by voting for

THOS. McCUSKER
FOR CONGRESS.

(Paid Advertisement.)

Munly Is the Man

M. G. Munly Should Be Elected to the Office of Representative in Congress

A Few Facts for Conscientious Voters

Judge M. G. Munly has been a resident of this county for the past 30 years, and is honest, loyal, of exceptional ability and of high moral character.

HE DOES THINGS. While others talk and dream, Judge Munly acts. He has the brains to plan and the executive ability to put his plans into effect.

He was foremost in the struggle for the construction and maintenance of the Jefferson High School. The Jefferson High School was erected and is being conducted today. Against a powerful opposition he fought for the construction of the Broadway bridge. The Broadway bridge is now nearing completion.

He does things.

He will obtain for this district more benefits in Congress than any other candidate.

An interstate bridge is soon to be built across the Columbia River from Multnomah County, Oregon, to Clark County, Washington, and the expense of this undertaking will have to be borne by the taxpayers of those two counties. Any appropriations in aid of this bridge procured from Congress will relieve the taxpayers to that extent. The next house in Congress, like the last one, will be Democratic. The taxpayers of the district will obtain better results in the matter of appropriations through the efforts of Judge Munly, who will be a representative in harmony with the politics of the House.

Munly Is the Man
Munly for Congress Club
BY E. B. SEABROOK, PRES.

Lafferty to Answer Traducers

Congressman A. W. Lafferty, regular nominee of both the Republican and Progressive parties for re-election, will speak to the people of the district every night this week. Those desiring to see the skin removed from a few newspapers will not be disappointed. With cold logic, admitted facts and dispassionate argument, Congressman Lafferty will meet the unsupported denunciation and abuse of the hirelings of special privilege. The election of a Congressman in the Third District one week from Tuesday is the most important political event that will happen in Oregon this year. The result will tell whether the common people or the special interests will rule under popular election laws. Every citizen is vitally interested in laws and measures that Congressman Lafferty has the distinction of being the first citizen and the first Congressman to inaugurate or introduce. These measures mean a real control of monopolies and a real enforcement of laws already on the books in favor of the people. With Lafferty's defeat it is safe to say that future Congressmen from this district would not be encouraged to take up the same fights. Come out and hear Congressman Lafferty at any or all of the meetings here advertised, and form your opinion of the man first hand. Remember the dates, for Mr. Lafferty will not have the money to print this advertisement again. Mr. Lafferty will speak at the Bungalow Theater, Twelfth and Morrison streets, next Thursday night, October 31, at 8:15 o'clock, which date please remember and attend, especially if you live on the West Side, and he will speak on the East Side at the following times and places:

- Monday night, October 28, Sellwood, Union Hall, 8 P. M.
- Tuesday night, October 29, Lents, Theater Hall, 8 P. M.
- Wednesday night, October 30, St. Johns, City Hall, 8 P. M.
- (Thursday night, at 8:15, at Bungalow Theater, West Side, as before stated.)
- Friday afternoon, November 1, Troutdale, Lodge Hall, 2:30 P. M.
- Friday night, Nov. 1, Gresham, Commercial Club Hall, 8 P. M.
- Saturday night, November 2, Montavilla, Grebel's Hall, 8 P. M.

R. L. MERRICK, Private Secretary.
(Paid Advertisement.)

No Increase In Taxes Vote 382 Yes

Last measure on the Portland Ballot. Portland's future as a seaport depends on the use of the water frontage of Oregon Slough for wharf and railroad terminals. No. 382 includes that frontage in the operations of the Port of Portland.

North Portland Commercial Club
John Nolta, President.

(Paid Adv.)

AUTOMOBILE BRANCH MANAGER

Our clients, who are large manufacturers of low-priced motor-cars and who are establishing distribution houses, wish to secure the services of a branch manager in this territory.

Applicants must be well recommended and of financial standing.

Address by letter only to
HENRY DECKER, Ltd.,
Fuller Building,
New York City, N. Y.

He Is the Strongest Candidate Against A. W. Lafferty

There is an ever increasing protest, among a large class of the voters of this district, against returning A. W. Lafferty to Congress. If these voters cast their votes for Judge Munly, Lafferty will certainly be defeated. A vote, however, for any other candidate is one half a vote for Lafferty. Do not allow any one to persuade you that there is any candidate in the field against Lafferty who is so strong as Mr. Munly. Such persuasions are urged in the interest of Lafferty.

(Paid Adv.)