THE SUNDAY OREGONIAN, PORTLAND, NOVEMBER 10, 1912.

Based on my experience selling cars of all classes and prices, I ASSERT that no amount of money can buy an automobile superior to the CADILLAC, from a reliability and durability standpoint. I could not be fair without admitting that a large additional expense can secure a larger car slightly more luxurious, but no car at any price contains the elements that make for greater reliability and durability. Its economy of operation and remarkably small upkeep expense makes it the owners favorite.

personally. Miss Mitchell says she learned to laugh in Portland with the Baker Stock Company and she implies that a joke cracked by jolly George L. Baker directed the first big attention to her tuneful risibles. The little actress thanks Portland for all her stage suc-cess, in fact, and declares the biggest moment in her life was when she re-turned to her birthplace to appear be-fore her own homefolks at the Or-pheum. "I laugh best in Portland," she said,

"hecause I am happiest here with mamma, papa and, and-everybody."

Punishment by Installments Plan.

LONDON, Nov. 9 .- Punishment by instalments is a remedy proposed for the action of suffragettes in institut-ing hunger strikes, and so compelling the authorities to release them before their sentences have been served. A change of the law would be necessary but the idea is that the authorities should be empowered to secure that a in of should be empowered to secure that a sentence might be served in in-stalments if the health of the prisoner prevented it being car-ried through in one, and if the indis-position was occasioned by a deliberate action of the prisoner.

Rotarians will Takk shop on their organization at the meeting at the Im-perial Hotel, at a dollar dinner at 6 o'clock Tuesday night. The meeting will be confined to members of the Rotary Club. Five-minute talks upon in actual daily use on Pacific Coast different phases of the Rotarian idea alone. Sold only by Ellers.
