

ADJUTANT-GENERAL FOR STATE POLICE

Work of National Guard and Naval Militia Covered in Report to Governor.

MORE ARMORIES NEEDED

General Finzer Recommends Emergency Fund for Citizen Soldiers, and Erection of State Arsenal at Clackamas.

The creation of a police department to have authority throughout the state is recommended by Adjutant-General Finzer of the Oregon National Guard in his annual report made yesterday to Governor West.

General Finzer also recommends the establishment of more armories in the state, the creation of an emergency fund for the Guard and the erection of a state arsenal at Clackamas.

In his recommendations regarding the state police department he says: "It is suggested that the matter of the permanent creating of a state police force be investigated and if found feasible a plan similar to that now in force in Pennsylvania be adopted. Men could be selected from among members of the National Guard and others after passing a physical and mental examination, based upon the regulations of the police force of cities of the first class. The members of the police force should be authorized and empowered to make arrests, without warrant, for all violations of the law which they may witness and to serve and execute warrants issued by the proper local authorities. They should also be authorized to act as forest fire, game and fish wardens, and in general to have the power and prerogatives conferred by law upon members of the police force of cities of the first class, or upon the Constable of the state. The state police force should, wherever possible, co-operate with the local authorities in detecting crime and apprehending criminals, and preserving the law and order throughout the state. Pay and rations should be allowed each member of the force and all appointments and promotions should be made absolutely on merit. The Governor should appoint the superintendent of state police, and they should be stationed wherever needed and where most economical. Have on file additional information on this subject if desired."

"A state arsenal," continues the recommendations, "should be permanently established at Clackamas, Or., where all military supplies should be stored. The United States Government has already laid out the grounds and made preliminary surveys for the establishment of a brigade camp in case of war. Twelve battery horses (purchased out of the maintenance fund, Oregon National Guard) are stabled in a barn, also built out of maintenance fund, Oregon National Guard. In order to construct additional buildings an appropriation should be made by the Legislature for that special purpose. It is recommended that the State Board look over the ground in order to ascertain what buildings are needed."

"The armories so far completed in the different localities have proven to be so popular by the general public and such a necessity to the state that the matter of caring for property is very important, as large quantities of state and United States property is issued to companies each year. First-class armories will enable the companies to properly care for all equipment."

State Should Pay Cash.

Provision should be made by the Legislature or otherwise for the cash payment of supplies purchased for the state. The United States advances money to bonded officers for the purpose of paying cash for certain things prescribed by regulations, thereby saving much time consumed in the preparation and submission of accounts to the Auditor before payment can be made. The State of Oregon is paying too much money for service that can be had cheaper through cash transactions. "I would again call your attention to the fact that the state is not provided with an emergency fund. A small tax should be levied to raise a sum of money for any unforeseen emergency that may arise, provided that when the amount so raised reaches the sum of $50,000 the tax levy becomes inoperative. The State of Pennsylvania has a fund in the State Treasury of $1,000,000 at the disposal of the Governor in event of an emergency only, and not to be used for general maintenance of National Guard or Naval forces."

"The appropriation for the Naval Militia should be made continuous, and it is recommended that the amount be fixed at no less than $12,000 a year. The Naval Code should be revised and amendments to the law should be passed by the present Legislature."

The financial statement for the year shows the following figures: Jan. 1, 1911, balance on hand, $ 15.26 Jan. 1, 1911, balance on hand, $5,099.00 May 22, 1911, additional appropriation, current expense and maintenance, as shown by claims on file with the Secretary of State, $3,359.00

Rifle Practice in Favor.

Reporting on the work of the Guard during the year General Finzer says: "The interest in rifle practice in this state has steadily grown and the result attained is encouraging. Attention is, however, invited to the fact that there is a lack of systematic individual instruction which is so necessary to the training of newly-enlisted men. The state inspector of rifle practice is at present working out a system to be followed by regimental inspectors of

A few of the wonderful new hornless Talking Machines, the master achievements of Edison and the Victrola and Grafanola makers, now obtainable at Eilers, the only house selling all makes, and where one make may be exchanged for any other whenever desired

The Advantages of Dealing at Headquarters

If the machine you buy of mere agents handling only one make doesn't fill the bill, what then? To avoid disappointment, deal first off with the House that carries all the makes—all the records—all the time. New improvements are being developed constantly by one maker or another and nowadays all the desirable records are not provided by one maker, but oftentimes by several makers. By dealing at Eilers you have the advantage of, choosing between all the different makes, testing and trying side by side all the different models of Columbia's and Victor's and Edison's Talking Machines and Records. You have the still further advantage of our liberal exchange plan, enabling you to exchange for any other make or model desired. Summed up, you have every assurance of satisfaction by coming to Eilers. Why not avoid all possible disappointment by dealing, first off, with the House that carries all makes—all the records—all the time?

rifle practice and commanding officers of companies. "The State of Oregon was represented at the National matches, held at Camp Perry, O., during August, 1911, by a rifle team which made a record that was in keeping with the scores heretofore made. The team finished in eleventh place, including all teams, only six state teams finishing ahead of Oregon, the total number participating being 42. "In my last report it was shown that with money allotted to the State of Oregon by the United States Government for military purposes, a tract of land consisting of 100.84 acres was under lease with an option to purchase and that the land was being cleared as well as a temporary rifle range constructed. Since then a lease has been secured on 96.75 acres additional ground with an option to purchase. This will enable the rifle range to be permanently constructed in such a manner as to shoot in a northeasterly direction. It is earnestly desired to begin the construction of a permanent range at the earliest possible date. "New Range Constructed. "A substantial quartermaster and commissary store house, a barn, enlisted men's and officers' toilets were constructed, and a modern water system and shower baths were installed. "A new rifle range was constructed near Salem and it is intended to build a new range at Baker, where a splendid site was recently secured. "The enactment of the armory bill continuing the appropriation of $20,000 a year for the construction of armories has enabled the general staff to build an armory at each of the following locations: Dallas, Woodburn and Salem. In addition the contract has been let for an armory at Ashland, and ground purchased for armory purposes at Roseburg. "In order to complete the Roseburg Armory it will be necessary for the Legislature to make an additional appropriation of at least $15,000. Oregon has, in four years, invested $265,278 and, in return, has accumulated property valued at $128,054.18. "In accordance with recommendations received from the War Department, a camp of instruction for infantry officers and non-commissioned officers was held at the Oregon state campgrounds and rifle range at Clackamas, Or., July 10 to 15, 1911. Captain Grosvenor L. Townsend, First United States Infantry, was designated as the officer in charge of the camp. "The programme included instruction

"The women of the state," said President McMonie, "are our greatest buyers, and we feel that if we can enlist their support for 'Made in Oregon' products a great step will be taken in the home industry movement. We want them to know that they can buy almost everything they need for their households of Oregon manufacturers, and if we gain their support, and I have no doubt we will before this campaign is over, we will have greater prosperity in Oregon." In connection with the "Made in Oregon" movement, a convention of state manufacturers will be held November 21, in the Selling-Hirsch convention hall. A large representation of manufacturers from all parts of the state is expected, and the retail stores will be asked to fill their windows with "Made in Oregon" products that day. "Oregon Products to Be Shown. The movement also will be carried on all over the state, retailers everywhere being asked to display Oregon products in their windows and on the shelves that day. The Manufacturers' Association has interested Governor West in the movement, and he has issued a proclamation calling upon the people of Oregon to observe Thursday, November 21, as "Home Industries Day." This proclamation is as follows: "Whereas, The growth and prosperity of a state depend to a great extent upon its manufacturing industries, for the reason that the factory converts the raw material of the forest and stream and farm and mine into products of higher value, giving employment to thousands who would otherwise have no means of livelihood, and, "Whereas, It is only by arousing the people to the importance of creating and patronizing home industries that we can hope for success along these lines; "Therefore, In view of the foregoing

"A BUTTERFLY ON THE WHEEL" SHOWS WOMAN HECTORED IN DIVORCE COURT.

The role of the silly little wife who takes the wrong train with a man who is desperately in love, and finds herself alone with him in a hotel in Paris, cut loose from her traveling companion, when she ought to be with the host of her party on the way to Switzerland, gives Miss Dorothy Lane no end of acting opportunity in "A Butterfly on the Wheel," which Messrs. Shubert and Lewis Waller will present at the Hollis Theater for three nights and special Saturday matinee, beginning Thursday, November 14. A few months later comes the accurate and now famous divorce trial scene. Its aim is to show one little wisp of a woman bullied and cross-examined and racked by a crowd of men. The scene is filled with men. There are men on all sides and of all shades of importance. And there in the witness box stands the poor little defendant, who is asked the usual merciless questions in the usual merciless way. At its close she can see for herself that everything is against her, though she knows that she is innocent. The play comes with an all-English cast of Mr. Waller's selection, direct from one whole season in New York, and the same record in

DR. EQUI LOSES IN SUIT

JURY ACQUITS JANITOR OF ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

G. B. Prettyman, Defendant, Produces Character Witnesses and Plaintiff Declared Obnoxious.

Less than 50 minutes from the time it retired for deliberation yesterday a jury returned to Judge McGinn's court a verdict finding G. B. Prettyman, superintendent of the Medical building, not guilty of assault and battery on Dr. Marie D. Equi in an encounter in the Medical building on the night of May 17. Prettyman was discharged at once by Judge McGinn and his bondsman exonerated.

The defense yesterday put in considerable testimony in support of the contention that Dr. Equi had made herself obnoxious to Prettyman, and had done many things to pester and aggravate him. Prettyman swore that on the night of the fracas he found Dr. Equi in the reception room of Dr. S. J. Barber, from whose rooms he had previously been given strict instructions to keep out, and all persons during the doctor's absence. He declared that he had used no more force than was necessary to eject, but said that Dr. Equi and Dr. Beattie M. Gardner, her companion, had put up a stiff fight. Dr. Equi had introduced a shirt waist torn almost to shreds in the struggle. Against this the defense submitted testimony showing that Prettyman's vest had been torn in two, indicating that there had not been lamblike submission to election on the part of the women. Dr. Hen L. Norden, Dr. Alvin W. Baird, Dr. J. H. Bristow, Dr. Arthur H. Johnson and other doctors were called to testify that Prettyman has a good reputation for peace and quietness. Another witness testified that the iron gate at the head of the stairs, which Dr. Equi and Dr. Gardner said had prevented them walking down the stairs when there was no response to their persistent ringing of the elevator bell, may be opened from above but not from below. Prettyman and his witness insisted that the ringing of the elevator bell and the dropping of eggs on the floors were done with malicious intent. When the elevator responded, they said, the women would "dodge" around the corner and taunt them.

"To make this day an impressive object lesson to the whole state there should be some concerted action toward increasing the demand for "Oregon-made" products. To this end I would suggest that every manufacturing establishment in the state close down for an hour during Home Industries day, and the managers call their employees together and give them a heart to heart talk on the importance of building up our home industries and set an example by declaring their intention to use, as far as practicable, only home-grown products and home-made machinery in their establishments. "I would suggest, also, that on Home Industries day every man and woman in Oregon, in doing their shopping, purchase only "Made in Oregon" products.
