

ROSE FEEE LINES
2500 FROM SOUTH

California Cities Assure Portland of Big Delegation at June Festival.

KEEN INTEREST AROUSED

Royal Rosarians' Trip Stirs Pride of Residents in Sunny Clime and Programme of Stunts Is Assured by Leaders.

Positive assurance that fully 2500 business men and their families representing the leading cities of California will arrive at the Seventh Annual Rose Festival of the week of June 8-14, as the result of the recent invasion of the Southland, has been received by W. C. Bristol, Crown Prince of Royal Rosarians.

In each instance it will mean the bringing here next Summer of special parties de luxe from Oakland, Sacramento, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Pasadena and San Diego. Organization of "Rose Festival" Clubs is already being undertaken by the commercial bodies of several of these cities, and arrangements are under way for pulling off stunts something similar to those which the Rosarians gave on their memorable tour.

Pasadena has not only arranged to conduct a special excursion, but the Tournament of Roses Association has formed an auxiliary committee organization known as the "Royal Order of the Rose," which will have charge of the "works" while the Pasadenans are here. In the course of a letter to the Rose Festival outlining the Pasadena plans, President E. T. Off, of the Tournament Association, says:

"We are very happy if your people enjoyed our hospitality and are all enjoying our plans to reciprocate your generosity and co-operation, and the 'Royal Order of the Rose' has been formed to take up this feature of the work."

"We have held several meetings and have practically 100 members signed up. It will be the cream of our city and I am sure we are going to enjoy much pleasure and benefit from our organization."

The Royal Order of the Rose, which has been formed in the Southern city, is to perform a mission very similar to that which the Rosarians exemplified in their invasion of California and will be a return compliment for that trip.

Providing the funds raised for the support of the next festival will permit, an agreement will be signed up with a moving-picture concern with a circulation of 20,000,000 to bring Silas Christoferson, the noted Portland aviator, here for a series of flights by day and night during which he will take "movies" from the clouds of all the scenic points of interest in and around Portland. Harry Twichell, general manager of this concern, now in the city prepared to take the matter up with the Commercial Club, the Chamber of Commerce and the Rose Festival on a basis of having the bird flights and one illuminated flight at night.

River Banks to Be Taken. Moving picture operators will accompany Christoferson and take views of both sides of the Willamette during flights up that stream; also snap views of all the daylight parades and pageants of the Rose Festival as they pass through the streets of the city.

This feature, which would be reproduced all over the civilized world, can be arranged for providing the aviator along to the festival fun sufficient to defray the cost of bringing Christoferson and his flying partner, Harry Fowler, here at that time. The excursion management considers this will be one of the greatest attractions ever offered to visitors, because of the achievements which the daring young aviator has already accomplished. He was the first birdman ever to fly from the top of a skyscraper, having negotiated an aerial voyage from the top of the Multnomah Hotel during last year's festival. He also demonstrated the feasibility of using the hydro-aeroplane in the life-saving service when he assisted the Coast Bay life-savers in his efforts to rescue the crew of the Condor off that port several months ago.

Special Excursions Guaranteed. The next Rose Festival is already assured of far greater crowds of visitors from the outside than for some years before. The following organizations associated with the festival associations of the Pacific Coast have already guaranteed special car or train privileges, either by special car or train-loads:

The Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco; the Tournament of Roses, San Diego; the Products and Land Show, Los Angeles; the Floral Parade International, Honolulu; the Dominion Horse Show, Vancouver, B. C.; the Montana State Fair, Bozeman, Mont.; Golden Potlatch, Seattle; Water Carnival, Victoria, B. C.; Mount Baker Marathon, Bellingham, Wash.; Panama California Exposition, San Francisco. In addition to these the Spokane National Apple Show and celebration of the Enakops, a new festival organization at Oakland, and another arrangement at the University of Washington are all listed to be included in the list of visiting pleasure-seekers to be drawn to the Rose Festival by the boosting efforts of the Royal Rosarians.

Shell Fishermen's License Up

A bill for the licensing of crawfish traps and crab fishermen, amounting to 15 cents each for the former and 45 for the latter, is being prepared by Master Fish Warden Clanton under the direction of the State Fish Commission and will be introduced at this Legislature. This will affect 20 fishermen. The bill, however, will not affect any except those who fish for commercial purposes, and was drawn up at the solicitation of the crawfish fishermen. At present there is a law governing the protection of these shellfish, but no funds were provided for the enforcement of the law, and a license is deemed necessary, therefore.

M. G. MUNLY IS RE-ELECTED

North East Side Improvement Association Takes Up Plans to Get Best Results From Improvement—Future Foreseen.

M. G. Munly was re-elected president of the North East Side Improvement Association at the annual meeting held Friday night in the Albina Branch Library, 18th street, in order that he might have the general direction of the coming celebration of the completion and opening of the Broadway bridge, about April 1. Mr. Munly has been president of the association from the date of the organization of the association, March 11, 1907, and has given much time and work to the Broadway bridge, being chairman of the bridge committee.

It was decided to hold a celebration of the completion of the bridge, and Mr. Munly will appoint a committee which will have charge of the arrangements, and also to assist in the erection of the interstate bridge across the Columbia River. All improvement clubs and civic bodies of the city will be asked to take part in the celebration.

Mr. Munly, on being elected president for the sixth time, reviewed the bridge events and said he hoped that certain things would be accomplished. He had been instrumental in the initiation of one of the greatest of Portland enterprises, and he hoped that the bridge would continue to exist and be a factor in the development of the North East Side district, he said there is much yet to be done.

Car Routing Taken Up

The other officers of the association are: Vice-president, W. C. North; secretary, C. E. Miller; treasurer, R. E. Simmons; executive committee, E. A. McGrath, L. T. Peery, D. L. Povey, H. A. Heppner and W. A. Cadwell.

It was decided to take up the matter of routing the streetcars over the Broadway bridge, and D. L. Povey, W. A. Cadwell, H. A. Heppner, L. E. Saville and E. Versteeg were appointed a committee.

This committee was instructed to look carefully into the franchise of the Portland Railway, Light & Power Company over this bridge and also to ascertain the condition of the East Side streets leading to the bridge, so that there will be no hitch when it comes to the opening in April. Mr. Munly reported that the streets are in a very bad way and that the streets are in a very bad way and that the streets are in a very bad way.

Widening Plan Talked

It was the sense of the association that the widening of Broadway street, from the intersection of East 18th street to the Columbia River, should be taken up by the city. It was also the sense of the association that the widening of Broadway street, from the intersection of East 18th street to the Columbia River, should be taken up by the city.

Portland Man, Now Y. M. C. A. Worker in China, and His Bible Class

American is J. C. Clark, Formerly Boys' Secretary of the Portland Young Men's Christian Association.

The first boys' secretary of the Portland Young Men's Christian Association will be J. C. Clark, formerly boys' secretary of the Portland Y. M. C. A. Mr. Clark is now living in China, preparing to take up his work next Fall. He will be stationed in Shanghai. Many interesting sidelights on his life are given by Mr. Clark in a letter to a Portland friend. As it has been only about a year since he left Portland for China, the novelty of Chinese customs has not worn off. Mr. and Mrs. Clark are now living in Sungkiang, a city of 100,000 people, with only six foreigners, all missionaries, besides themselves. Mr. Clark is devoting his time to studying the language and teaching a Bible class and a boys' club.

"Every Sunday we hear a sermon or two in Chinese," writes Mr. Clark. "Since last September we have heard no other kind. We take long walks in the country every day, and on these walks we follow paths through the rice fields. As we walk along the city streets, or out in the country, every few minutes someone calls out: 'Xia kok tid', but many things are done as they were when Abraham moved his family of Canaan. Many of their customs are like those of the early Jews described in the Old Testament."

FEBRUARY RECORDS ARE NOW ON SALE AT EILERS

Mary Garden, David Bispham, Orville Harrold and Other Celebrities on New List.

The new records for February are now obtainable at Eilers Music House, the Talking-Machine Headquarters. The February list is exceptionally noteworthy and is headed by Mary Garden, the Scotch-American woman who has made French opera famous in this country. Her two most characteristic numbers from her chief operatic successes—"De puis le Jour," from Charpentier's "Louise," and "L'Amour Est Une Vertu Rare," from Massenet's "Thais," are now obtainable. Mary Garden's successes in most of these operas have made their chief roles peculiarly her own.

Bispham is again listed with a double-disc that comprises what are perhaps the two most perfect records that the great baritone has ever made. His superb rendering of Balfe's stately song, "The Arrow and the Song," will delight everyone who has ever heard him in person. He has also made a new recording of "Annie Laurie," with orchestral accompaniment. Kathleen Parlow, the famous Canadian violinist, is represented by Auer's "Valse Bluettes" and the "Last Rose of Summer," one on either side of a double-disc record. Miss Parlow's violin records have been particularly successful from a musical and a popular standpoint and in the "Valse Bluettes" she does some amazing technical work in harmonies.

Madame Materlinck, who, apart from the fame which she enjoys as the wife of the famous author, is also well known under her name of Georgeette Ely, but as a virtuoso capable of holding her own with the most serious players of the present-day concert stage, a fact which her recent appearance in New York clearly demonstrates. Miss Gonon's tone is one that records excellently, as her recording of Ambrosio's sprightly and tuneful "Aubade" makes manifest.

And for those who like something that they can tap their feet to, Prince's Band has played two new American marches—"On Jersey Shore," by Proff, and "Pride of America," by Goldman. Altogether the new records are undoubtedly the most notable ever issued in any one month. Hear them at Eilers, the Talking-Machine Headquarters, 7th and Alder Streets.

PORTLAND RANKS FOURTH

Only New York, Galveston and New Orleans Lead in Wheat Exports.

OREGONIAN NEWS BUREAU, Washington, Jan. 25.—During the year 1912, according to official figures made public today by the Department of Commerce and Labor, Portland exported 6,810,266 bushels of wheat, valued at $4,232,482, as compared with 7,702,661 bushels in 1911, representing a total valuation of $5,570,095. These statistics show that Portland ranks fourth among the wheat exporting districts for the past year, New York leading, with more than 6,000,000 bushels, and Galveston and New Orleans with 8,000,000 bushels each.

Portland ranked first for 1911, but its wheat exports for the year show a decline, while other ports show a marked gain.

Puget Sound during 1912 exported 3,168,265 bushels of wheat, valued at $4,232,482, as against 3,434,487 bushels in 1911, valued at $2,896,120.

During the past 12 months Portland exported 642,856 barrels of flour, valued at $2,558,119, as against 743,077 barrels valued at $2,051,184. Puget Sound flour exports for 1912 were 2,634,347 barrels, valued at $10,330,692, as against 2,233,368 barrels in 1911, valued at $8,566,754.

FATED AIRMAN MOURNED

F. BOLAND KILLED AT TRINIDAD HAS COUSIN HERE.

Mrs. Frank L. Smith Tells of Bright Career Carved Out by Aviator and of World Flights.

The death of Frank Boland, the aviator who was dashed to the ground at Trinidad, Port of Spain, January 24, brought to a close at the age of 40 a life which held out even more hopes of fame for the future than had been earned in the past.

Mrs. Frank L. Smith, of 1129 Thurman street, a cousin of Mr. Boland, told yesterday of his career.

"He was a native of Railway, N. J., and his parents and brothers and sisters live there now. The family has been engaged in the automobile business and Frank, ever since his early youth, was tinkering with his engine and studying mechanics. For a short time he also entered the automobile business, but the lure of aerial flight called him, and he devoted all his energies to aviation."

"Last Fall he went South under a contract with the Venezuelan government to demonstrate aviation for the army, and after finishing his course there, he tried all through South America, giving some wonderful flights at Buenos Aires.

"He had expected and had made arrangements to go to the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915 to give demonstrations and to do some particularly daring flights he had been practicing. He is but another example of the men who, through knowing the danger, determine to risk their lives in solving the problem of aerial transition. Two years ago he had a bad fall, injuring himself severely, and ever since then his family and friends have been urging him to give it up, but he refused, though he admitted he knew the risks he ran.

"At one time the family were joking him about being married, and he made the remark, 'Don't you think I shall ever get married? No aviator would dream of doing so, it's too risky a game.'"
