How La Grande Got Convention. Back of the selection of La Grande as the place for holding the next convention of the association is a story of how a score of business men of that city, determined to secure the convention for the Union County merchants, made two long trips to gain it and succeeded on the second attempt, after an Albany business man had taken the honor almost out of their grasp last year and broke all precedent in doing it.

FUNERAL OF LATE OREGON CITY RESIDENT TO BE HELD TODAY.

ALBANY, Or., Jan. 25.—(Special).—Enthusiastic over the success of their seventh annual convention held here this week and loud in their praise of the splendid entertainment afforded them at Albany, members of the Oregon Retail Merchants' Association left yesterday on a special excursion to Corvallis to visit the Oregon Agricultural College.

The 400 delegates were especially pleased with the splendid banquet tendered them by the Albany Retail Merchants' Association. Four hundred and fifty men sat down at this banquet which was served in the Albany Armory and which was one of the best banquets ever served in this city. A large number of prominent Albany young women served as waitresses at the banquet and received an ovation from the guests at the banquet.

Gale S. Hill, of Albany, presided as toastmaster and toasts were responded to by C. C. Coe, president of the Union Meat Company, of Portland; W. J. Kerr, president of the Oregon Agricultural College, of Corvallis; F. H. Shull, manager of the Portland Flouring Mills Company, of Portland; Albert Clark, of Portland, ex-president of the Portland Ad Club; Rev. Father Arthur Lane, of Albany; J. L. Stockton, of Salem, president of the Oregon Retail Merchants' Association; Max Buren, of Salem, and H. M. Crooks, president of Albany College.

Banquet Music Enjoyed. Music at the banquet was furnished by Wilson's Orchestra, of Albany, and interspersed with the toasts were songs by the quartet of the University of Oregon Glee Club and solos by Mrs. Adna Smith Fio and Roy Cleaver, of Albany. During the banquet a leading delegate to the convention sang several songs composed especially for the occasion.

The members of the Albany Retail Merchants' Association were highly complimented by the visiting delegates upon the successful manner in which the convention was entertained. The local association was organized only a few weeks ago and its success accomplished so much was a subject for frequent congratulation at the hands of the visitors. F. J. Fletcher, president of the Albany Association, took a leading part in the preparations for the convention and the general committee on arrangements which handled the plans for the entertainment of the visitors and the banquet consisted of G. T. Hockensmith, chairman; Charles E. Scott, L. E. Hamilton, William Eagles and F. H. Pfeiffer.

As a result of the action taken at the convention the present law on franchise advertising will be asked to be amended to make it more liberal. Steps were taken by the officers of the association before they left this city yesterday to present the ideas of the convention, as expressed in various resolutions, to the Legislature at its present session in the hope that the laws desired may be enacted soon.

Auto Tax Question Fixed. The most important legislation recommended by the convention was to divert the money received from automobile licenses from the general fund of the state to the counties whose residents paid the license. The money could thus be expended directly upon the roads traveled by the automobiles paying the tax.

The prevention of the use of trading stamps by merchants was another question on which the convention desires legislation. This question was discussed generally at the convention and opinion among the delegates seemed to be overwhelmingly against the practice of using trading stamps. The opinion was expressed, however, that a law to prevent their use would be unconstitutional, so since they could not prevent their use by legislation, the members of the association requested a law providing a license for their use. Such a law, the delegates believed, will curb their use materially and may result in abolishing them altogether.

The convention went on record in various ways as being in favor of advertising, but the delegates in all their discussions urged honesty in advertising. A resolution was adopted providing the enactment of a law to prevent a merchant from misleading customers by marking out a fictitious price on any article and remarking a selling price, giving the question of honesty in advertising reduced materially when such was not the case. The resolution adopted by the association on this matter urged that the present law on franchise advertising be amended so as to make it unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to offer for sale by any method any merchandise, real estate, or any other thing, for the purpose of making a sale, unless the price stated as the original price shall have been in force for a period of at least 30 days prior to the offer of sale at the reduction.

Honesty is Regarded. This resolution is regarded by many of the delegates as the most important passed at the convention, and the enactment of the proposed law would, it is said, do more than any other one thing to establish honesty in advertising and would also be claimed, revolutionize the business methods of some establishments.

The association also recommended that a law be passed requiring all collection agencies shall be bonded in the sum of $5000. One of the other important resolutions adopted by the convention were an appropriation by the Legislature to assist the State Board of Immigration Commissioners in its work. This resolution reads as follows:

"Whereas, it is apparent that the greatest need of Oregon at the present time is more people to till the soil and help develop the vast acres of rich virgin lands in our state; and whereas, in order to do this most effectively and for the greatest good of the state, it is necessary to have the class of immigrants who will clear the lands and develop same in a manner that is seldom done by our native farmers and their sons; therefore, be it resolved, That the Oregon Retail Merchants' Association, in annual convention assembled, approve the work being done by the State Board of Immigration, and further urge that body to pursue every legitimate step to bring in more of the class of desirable immigrants who are fitted to perform this work of development. Also, that the Oregon Legislature to appropriate a suitable amount of money to enable our State Immigration Board to conduct an information bureau for the encouragement of the most desirable immigrants from the Irish, Scandinavian and German speaking people in Europe; be it further...

Resolved, That the Secretary of the State Retail Merchants' Association be instructed to send a copy of these resolutions to the members of both houses of the Oregon Legislature now in session."

PIONEER WOMAN DIES AT GATES.

Late Mrs. Arrene Hester. In the death of Arrene Hester is recorded the passing of a pioneer Oregon woman. Mrs. Hester was born in Morgan County, Missouri, November 24, 1831, and crossed the plains with an ox team with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Thomas, when she was 15 years old, living in what is now Portland, her father building his first dwelling in Portland. The next year they moved to Scio, where he settled on a donation land claim on Thomas Creek.

She was married to E. A. Hester, December 18, 1852, and moved to Kings Prairie in 1870, where she resided till the death of her husband, and until her death she lived with her son, Ashby, one-half mile south of Gates.

She is survived by five children, Mrs. W. B. Swink, of Waterloo, Miss.; E. N. Chatfield, of Crabtree, and E. C. Hester, E. A. Hester and P. M. Hester, all of Gates, Or.

ended his own life. Hodess was happily married and had five children, one, an infant three months old. The body was almost unrecognizable. A wound made by a knife was found under the chin. Blood on the shirt indicated that Hodess had walked some feet before he fell. The body was discovered by Frank Snow, a surveyor employed by the Portland, Eugene & Eastern Railway Company, and Corcoran Wilson, immediately notified. An inquest probably will be held tomorrow. Hodess paid $1800 for a half interest in a saloon the day before he disappeared. He was treated in another saloon in this city. He sustained an injury on his head several weeks ago by falling on the sidewalk. He thinks this might have affected his mind.

EDITOR PICKS CENTRALIA M. E. Cue Chooses Washington Town for Newspaper Enterprise.

CHEHALIS, Wash., Jan. 25.—(Special).—It has been definitely decided that Centralia will have a newspaper. M. E. Cue, owner of the Kelso Journal, will publish it. He will dispose of his circulation at Kelso and move his plant to Centralia in time to begin the publication of the new paper by March 1.

Mr. Cue has been with the Morning Oregonian of Portland and with the Post-Dispatch of St. Louis. He will publish an independent paper, not yet having decided whether it will be daily or a weekly. If it is but a weekly, a daily issue will probably be made within the comparatively near future, as a canvass of the Centralia business men assured Mr. Cue of support.

A building has been leased for two years. Springfield Wins Debate. JUNIATA CITY, Or., Jan. 25.—(Special).—The triangular debate which took place in this city tonight between the Junietta City and Springfield high school teams, was won by Springfield by an unanimous decision. Springfield supported the negative, being represented by Ida Carson and Henry Harty, Junietta City being represented by Maurine Carroll and William Hoppes.

The question was: "Resolved, That Oregon Should Adopt a State Insurance Law Similar to Washington for the Compensation of Employees Injured in Hazardous Industries." The Junietta team, supporting the negative and while trying to board a Southern Pacific train within the depot yards in this city Friday evening, died at the Oregon City Hospital this morning. He was conscious until the last. At the coroner's inquest it was decided that Miller's death was due to having tried to board the moving train and that his legs were severed through his own negligence. Hot Springs Proves Attractive. STEVENSON, Wash., Jan. 25.—(Special).—That Collins Hot Springs will experience a prosperous year is evident from the fact that the spring has started out well the first month of 1913, there being many new arrivals and a large number of old ones. The amount of money collected in fines in police court totaled $1073.80. The department was run through the year on a net cost to the city of $215.25.
