Postscript

—Late yesterday afternoon we sought the sanctum of the window-decorating staff. We found that large and mysterious apartment the scene of tremendous activity. Great boxes of growing ferns and innumerable pots and jardineres, with paper hoods, surrounded us. And the tulips and daffodils! They grew in such luxurious profusion as to fairly dazzle one. Stately Easter lilies peeped from their paper coverings, and a huge garden of blue hyacinth gave out its incomparable fragrance. The shrouded window-trimming room, which usually resembles the property room of a theater, looked like a fairyland.

—“Surely,” we remarked to the window-trimming chief, “this is not an eleventh-hour arrangement. You could not have procured all of these without due care and forethought.”

—The window chief smiled broadly. —“Our care and forethought dates back to New Year's,” he replied. “We placed our orders with the florist then, and he arranged to give us one of his largest green-houses. Ever since then things have been growing and growing especially for this week's display. Every detail of color and line has been planned for months. The flowers were told just what colors to wear.

—“Of course,” he went on, “our scheme has been kept secret. We feel assured that nothing like this has ever before been offered in Portland. The windows will be gardens of glowing color, and not a single artificial flower will be used.”

—“What about the fountain and the electric lights?” we queried. —“That's another secret,” replied the window chief, smiling again. “However,” he assured us modestly, “the fountain and the electric lights will be there, and I don't think you will be disappointed.”

—B'ier Easter Rabbit, with his mouth stuffed with a bright carrot and a most expressive pair of ears, which can be made to wiggle up and down, sat on the novelty counter, near the Fifth-street entrance, at the Lipman & Wolfe Store. Beside him perched the Easter Chick, her mouth wide open for a chirp of greeting. Verily, a welcome and pleasant sight, for the Chick and the Rabbit always know when Spring is here and come to call the boys and girls out of doors. B'ier Rabbit confided to me that he had been waiting for Easter a long, long time; so had the Easter Chick. Both of them expect to hide in a nest of Easter eggs next Sunday, ready to greet the child that finds them. —Little egg baskets, fluffy chicks and ducklings, Easter babies and tiny Easter bonnets, all suggest a Spring welcome. Indeed, the fast-growing custom of ushering in the Spring with some timely remembrance is a very pretty one for grown-ups, as well as for children.

The Wicklow Hills are very high, and so's the Hill of Houth, sir; But there's a hill much higher still—ay, higher than them both, sir. 'Twas on the top of this high hill St. Patrick preached the sarmint That drove the frogs into the bogs and bothered all the varmint.

The toads went hop, the frogs went flop, slap-dash into the water, And the beasts committed suicide to save themselves from slaughter. Nine hundred thousand vipers blue he charmed with sweet discourses, And dined on them at Killaloo in soups and second courses.

Thus sang the Celtic bard of the fame of St. Patrick, the most beloved and companionable patriarch that ever lived. Tomorrow is St. Patrick's own day. Let every man, woman and child who can boast a kinship to Erin do honor to the affable and energetic old gentleman, whose Spring house-cleaning is so poetically celebrated. Green ribbons at the ribbon counter, near the Fifth-street entrance.

Cleber Things for Easter

Novelty Tailored Suits $40.00 Clever Models—Fashionable Fabrics

—It wasn't so many seasons ago that women were prone to look aghast at a ready-to-wear suit which had any pretensions out of the ordinary. Thanks to the evolution of fashion that feeling is a thing of the past—and now the up-to-date woman purchases her suits all ready made to hand. We feel that we are justified in saying that it is our suit shop which has helped the women of Portland to overcome this feeling. —For we carry none but the best that the market affords, always giving our customers the most exclusive and, withal, the finest garments that can be had. —And the suits we offer Monday at $40.00 are another personification of this fact.

Of fine imported Bedford cord, in navy blue, Copenhagen and golden brown.

—Note the original cut of the jacket, which fastens with one large button with the front gracefully rounded away towards the back. The long plaited revers and collar of silk trim this coat in a most becoming manner. Hand-made ornaments of cloth and silk and silk piping also add to its attractiveness.

—The skirt is draped in a fancy tunic style, piped with satin and trimmed with hand-made ornaments as are seen on the jacket. Third Floor
