A pinch hit by Gardner in the ninth sent the game into extra innings.

To the real baseball fan it was u Hits sad climax to a wonderful game.

West and Malarkey had hooked up in a combat that was superb up to the fatal tenth. Then, West's downfall was not altogether his fault, for Bill Rodgers marred a brilliant fielding day, by failing to cover second on a possible double play.

With men on first and third and nobody out on Rohrer's double and a poor throw by West, Becker drove a

The home team started to nick Mar-tinoni's offerings with effect on the jump, and not an inning passed but they got one hit at least. In the opening period Martinoni was foolish enough to treat Meek with contumely and laughed at him when the balls and trikes stood two and two. In the meantime Victoria had been busily sawing wood, a suc-cession of four hits, two of them two-baggers, giving them three runs in the fourth and a triple and a four-bagger making up the total in the sixth and eighth. The fielding of the home team showed a marked improvement, as a result of the changes that had been wrought. It is not too much to say that the team is a pennant prospect in the pitchers can now deliver in rea-sonably good style. Second Game Hard Fought. President Baum and Walter H. Mc-

The San Francisco baseball strategist has ideas of his own. For instance, a local official approached him during his visit here and howled for shorter ball games.
"Your Pacific Coast League games occupy an hour and 50 minutes and sometimes two hours," said the complainer. "Perie Casey handled the Nortwestern League games alone here and got away with them in under an hour and 30 minutes."
President Baum laughed and promptivity replied:
"You may want ball games in an hour and ten minutes but I don't and neither does the number."

GOOD WEATHER SPOILS BASE-BALL GAME,

BALL GAME. TREMPEALEAU, Wis., June 7. —Intense rivality on the baseball field between Trempealeau and Onalaska, Wis., was to have been decided recently, and 1000 fans had g a ther e d early from the whole countryside, when it was announced that the game was off. The weather was fine for base-ball, but it was also fine for hee-ing corn, and four members of the Trempealeau team, including the star battery, were obliged to the star battery, were obliged to respond to the call of duty, and fans, by automobils, buggy and afoot, left for home disappointed.

made largely through consistent hit-ting, though two errors figured in the run-getting. The game was fast, The score:
