Virginia, Owned by T.J. Mendenhall.

The feature of the Oregon Yacht Club's regatta Decoration day was the defeat of the Sparrow, Frank Creasey's cup-winning sailer, and Captain Todd's Grayling, built to take the measure of all Northwest craft, by the Virginia. The Virginia, the 20-footer owned by T. J. Mendenhall, experienced little trouble in winning over a six-mile course, negotiating the distance in 77 minutes and 25 seconds, against 82:53 1-5 for the Grayling and 86:07 for the Sparrow.

Isst year the Sparrow heat the Virginia without much trouble, but May 10 the Virginia caught the squall at the psychological moment and won by nearly one-half mile. The Grayling, Todd's new boat, was expected to prove the contender with the Sparrow, many picking the new craft to win.

The three boats, remarkably evenly matched, will meet again on July 4 over the same course in the next regatta of the Oregon Yacht Club.
