

14 VETERANS ATTEND REUNION AT PARK

Feast for 250 Old Soldiers and Families Spread by Women's Auxiliary.

SHORT ADDRESSES HEARD

Resolutions Adopted Thanking Entertainers and Warmly Commending Mayor Albee for Ordinance to Protect Flag.

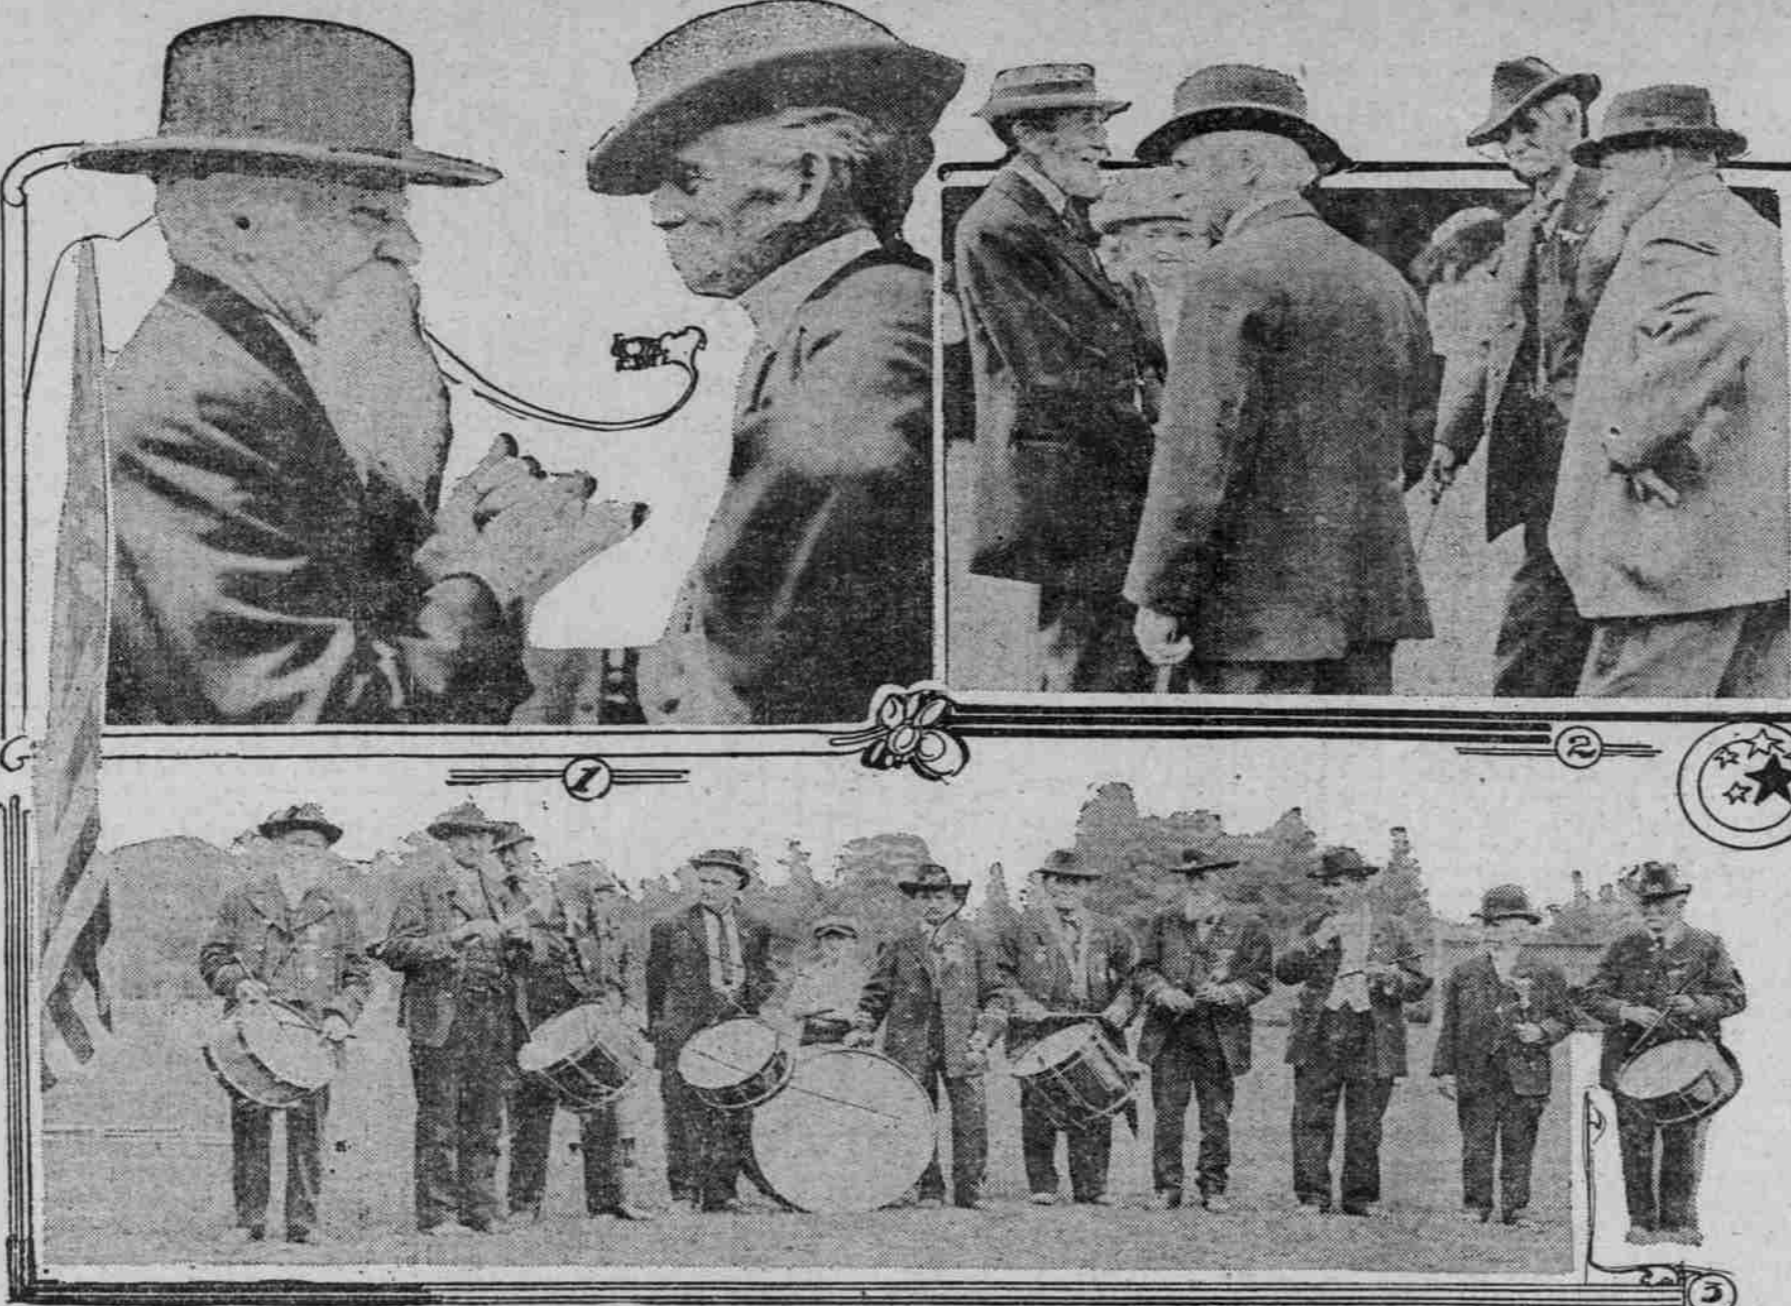

GRAND ARMY MEN ENDORSE PROPOSED FLAG ORDINANCE. We, the Grand Army of Oregon, assembled at Peninsula Park, hereby heartily endorse Mayor Albee's stand in regard to an ordinance making it a crime for anyone in the city limits of Portland to insult the flag of our country, and hereby pledge ourselves to support him with the same loyalty that we supported our loyal President in 1861 to 1865.

Forgetting infirmities of old age, while living over again the stirring scenes of the Civil War, and tenting again in memory on the old campgrounds, 250 veterans and their wives spent the day yesterday in Peninsula Park. It was the second semiannual reunion of the Oregon Veterans' Association and the Women's Auxiliary, which was organized October 5, 1912. The guests were unattended by any set programme. They began to assemble early. Headquarters were established in the grove, where the flag was raised to mark the place. T. B. McDevitt, president of the association, and Mrs. Rebecca Gray, president of the Women's Auxiliary, assisted by executive committee received the visitors. The five and drum corps, made up of grizzled veterans, was on the grounds early and furnished martial music during the day.

Dinner Is Feature. The big dinner was the main feature of the reunion. Four long tables were set in the grove, decorated with American and foreign flags and things to eat. The old soldiers and their families formed in the open and marched to the tables headed by the drum corps. Every want was supplied and there was an abundance for all who came. Presentation of a beautiful flag to the Oregon Veterans' Association was made by President McDevitt. Later, in the shade of the grove, M. H. McMahon delivered a patriotic address. A committee was appointed, consisting of D. B. Haddock, John Huntington and F. M. Varner, to draft resolutions commending Mayor Albee for his stand for an ordinance directed against the abuse of the flag. The committee reported and the resolution was adopted with a hurrah and three cheers for the Mayor. Resolutions also were adopted thanking the Women's Auxiliary for the splendid dinner, and Superintendent Sullivan, of Peninsula Park, for his many courtesies.

BOER HAS POLITICAL WAR

Dutch Wage Stirling Controversy by Long Letters.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, July 19.—(Special.)—A new and strange war is being fought in South Africa. It is a war in which Boer is opposed to Boer. And it is waged with pen and ink. It is an epistolary struggle for the moment, but the Dutch fear it will develop into an open conflict at the polls. The forces of reaction and reaction, led by General Hertog, are attacking the army of the Moderates, which swears allegiance to General Botha, the Prime Minister of the Union. The leaders indulge in a long-distance duel with heavy guns by letter. The weapons of the Generals are long, portentous letters, filling six, seven, or eight columns in the newspapers. They are full of personal details, quaint ex-postulations and appeals, and special arguments addressed to a primitive people. They show that there is in South Africa a new Boer, unwilling to follow in the footsteps of the old Boer who made possible the tragedy of Krugerland. General Botha is the new Boer; General Hertog the old. General Hertog has brought about a split in the South African party. He has ranged Boer against Boer. The plain truth is that the old Boer regards the new Boer as not sufficiently Dutch. General Botha places South Africa first. General Hertog places the Boer first. General Botha aims at uniting English and Dutch in one South African nation. General Hertog prefers a nation in two water-tight compartments, and is mainly concerned in strengthening the Dutch compartment.

AUTHORESS-ARTIST ADDS TO FAME BY NEW DOLL

Rose O'Neil's Dream of "Kewpie" Becomes Nightmare When Toy Reaches Market—Designer Flees to Mountains to Escape Notoriety.

ROSE O'NEIL, authoress and illustrator, also originator of the "Kewpie" doll, the latest craze among children, has had to flee to the Ozark Mountains to escape the popularity of her creation. Last Fall a dream of the "Kewpie" came to Miss O'Neil. She immediately rushed over to Germany and put her dream into form. For a whole Winter, and go to her villa on the Island of Capri in the Mediterranean. But even there she was not left alone. The cry of "Kewpie" has spread around the world, and it became one of the bywords on the island. So hunted by the dream which had first come to her in America, and which had now changed into a nightmare, she left her island home and sailed to this country, going immediately from New York to her lodge in the Ozark Mountains, where she is now in retreat, writing a novel to try to make herself forget about the Kewpies. Kewpie's Smile Permanent. The Kewpie doll is said to make everybody happy. It has a smile that won't come off. The tiny china toy is so realistic and roguish looking that it is possessed of a certain jubilate magic all its own. "I want it to make everyone happy," said Miss O'Neil to an interviewer, as she passed through New York on her way to the Ozarks. "I want it to give them a heart interest in everything, and make them love mankind, children, everybody, and Kewpie Anna, that she won't come off. I want everybody to smile with it. I want it to be the good little fairy that will go to the homes of the poor and dole out the sad people and bring them happiness." The tiny four-inch Kewpies have become very popular as dinner favors. The Kewpie smile is smiling its way into the home of all lands. Miss O'Neil is having her Kewpies manufactured in Germany because that nation knows how to make dolls. Some of the factories that are turning out Kewpies by the thousands have been knocked down by fire. The management of these factories is handed down in one family from generation to generation. Fairies Back of Doll. Just to the most fascinating fairy stories have come from the great forests of Germany, so this little smiling fairy Kewpie is coming to life in its most appropriate home. Kewpie is a hundred of fairy ancestors that lived long ago in the mysterious fairy ages. Miss O'Neil is one of the cleverest illustrators of child life in the world. Though she has twice been married, she has never had any children of her own. But her love of children is so strong that it has filled her mind with children's dreams, and has inspired her art work in child portrayal. "I just love children," said Miss O'Neil, "can't keep from hugging and kissing them. Fancies are so natural, so real, so delightful." When Miss O'Neil comes from her mountain retreat she expects this to disguise herself under an assumed name to avoid her Kewpie fame. At least this is what she laughingly prophesies, though she denies actually saying that she will carry out her intentions. By the time she finishes her new novel she hopes to have obliterated the Kewpie thought from her mind.

An Early Stage of The Journey.

Digging Up Record Book At Mazama's Rock.

ALTHOUGH the mountain climbers from the Portland Young Men's Christian Association did not burn fire on Mount Hood last Monday night, as they had intended, the trip was in every other way a success. There were 30 members in the party and when they returned to Portland Tuesday and Wednesday were enthusiastic in their description of their somewhat strenuous journey. The party left Portland a week ago Thursday, taking electric cars to Borning. From that place most of the distance was covered on foot, although a few rode in autos a part of the way. No walking records were broken, the tourists taking it easy and making camp at convenient places when night overtook them. They reached the timber line Sunday night and began the climb at 4:30 o'clock Monday morning. Mazama Records Uncovered. Only one member of the party failed to reach the top of the mountain. A small group of men gained the summit first, arriving there at 2 o'clock. They dug up the Mazama record book, which was buried in five feet of ice and snow. The Y. M. C. A. party that went up the mountain several weeks earlier had been unable to find this book. Luncheon was cooked on Crater Rock. The hot rocks there make it possible to prepare luncheon without building a Commissioners Dieck, of the department of public works, and Brewster, of the department of finance, yesterday announced the following advisory committee to work with the City Council in the prosecution of municipal work, with special attention to conformance with the Bennett plans for a greater Portland.

"The Bennett plans are perfectly feasible," said Commissioner Dieck yesterday, "and there need be no delay about putting them into effect. Everything that is done in the way of betterment or improvement in the city may be done with a view to the ultimate perfection of the municipality and in accordance with a well-defined and harmonious scheme."

BIG GIFT FOR HINDU U.

Over $2,500,000 Promised of Which $700,000 Is Collected.

CALCUTTA, July 19.—(Special.)—Correspondence which has passed between the Maharaja of Darbhanga, who is at the head of the movement to create a Hindu University in India, and Sir Harcourt Butler, the education officer of the Governor-General's Council, has been published. The Maharaja, surveying the financial position, intimated that the subscriptions promised amounted to more than 80 lakhs of rupees ($2,666,665), of which about $700,000 had been received.

Taking into account the capital value of certain grants of property and annual payments in perpetuity granted by three ruling chiefs, he estimated the amount which was in hand, or which might be safely taken as already in hand, to be not far short of $2,000,000, exclusive of the value of the Central Hindu College at Benares. He claimed that a good case had been made out financially for the government to take into consideration the legislation necessary for bringing the university into being.

Sir Harcourt Butler replied that the matter was still under consideration; but it would, perhaps, be of some assistance to the promoters to know the conditions which the government of India regarded as precedent to the introduction of any legislation. These were the provision of a suitable site, the transfer of the Central Hindu College to the university, and the collection of not less than $1,666,665.
