Slump of Angels Explained in Part by Decline in Slugging-Moran and Leard Now Are Best Rungetters in Pacific Circuit.

Either the Coast League batsmen are beginning to find their eyes, or else the pitching is not so airtight as earlier in the year, for the list of 300 hitters is growing. From five the 300 swatters have increased to nine in the swatters have increased to nine in the present incom-averages up to the present incom-pleted series.

Maggart, of Los Angeles, and Lober, Maggart, of Los Angeles, and Lober, of Portland, were the two high men up to Tuesday, the former with .313 and the latter one point behind. During the week Lober jumped into first for a few days, but whether he will remain there at the series' end, today's games alone will tell.

DAY OF POP-FLY HOME-RUN IN alone will tell.

Several of the newcomers are not getting away startlingly with the willow. Downs and Charles, of the Seals, are both well down, although the latter looked like a good hitter while in Portland recently. Guest and Kaylor, or Oakland, are also near the bottom. The Beavers are now leading the Pa-cific Coast Leaguers at bat, having passed both San Francisco and the Sen-ators. The team average is 260. Oak-land brings up the rear, with Venice fifth, and Los Angeles fourth. This falling off in hitting partially explains has the big race demon faded to a whisper.

Bowden blew into the Portland Northwestern League camp Wednesday with a string of recommendations as long as Mulhall's lobby list. Manager Williams shoved him in at third base in the eighth inning and the kid almost tossed an 8-0 lead into the discard by heaving the ball at a $10 reward sign on the right-field fence.

Next morning, Bowden, like the Arab, silently stole into the locker-room under the grandstand, packed his bolongings and disappeared without so much as asking for his one day's pay. At the rate of $125 per month—the face value of his contract—Bowden had something over $1 coming.

The youngster halled from Weed, Cal., where he had been setting the brush aftre by spectacular playing. Presumably he figured he had made a monkey of himself by his first day's display of "rattles" and couldn't stand the kidding.

Frank Newhouse a former Coast

Frank Newhouse, a former Coast League umpire, is now calling balls and strikes in the new Federal League. Evidently the Federal circuit is wea-thering its tribulation period in good shape, as witness this postcard from "Moses" Frank:

"Moses" Frank:

SEATTLE TO END.

Giants' Pitching Staff Crippled and Dugdale Fears Rush of Colts May Jolt Team to Second Place.

BY PORTUS BAXTER, SEATTLE, Wash., July 28.—(Special.) -There is no longer guesswork about Seattle's new baseball park. Work is actually under way, and the contract Moran and Leard have both passed Johnston, of the Seals, as the top rungetters, but Johnston leads the basenecessary to put things in shipshape for the grand opening, it is doubtful if the Labor day games will be played there. As soon as possible, however, after September 1 the final adieu to the old Yesler Way park will be said, and then the gates of the Rainier Valley grounds will be thrown open.

The grandstand will be narrower from front tier to top row than the present stand, but what is lost in seat-ing capacity will be more than made up by the addition of a second story, and rows of boxes along the front, both on the first and second stories. In addition to the boxes there will be the reserved seats in the middle section, a feature many fans have requested year after year, but which has been denied on account of the limited accommoda-

The home plate will be approximately 50 feet from the front of the grand-stand, or about twice the distance at the Yesler Way park. This will place the first and third basemen much farther from the bleachers than they are at present, a desirable feature. The distance from the home plate to the right-field fence will be 300 feet, which will cut out the pop fly home run, but still leave the way open for a drive over the fence. The distance to the left-field fence will be 400 feet or over. If the tobacco sign is placed in the corner of the center field, it will be
