Contributions to the Christmas Retary of the Associated Charities, V. R. Manning, 411 Commercial block; treasurer of the Associated Charities, R. S. Howard, with Ludd & Tilton, or to The Oregonian.

Half the glory of Christmas is in the fact that it is the day, of all days in the year when the members of the family come together again under the home roof. No matter how far they may fly away at other times, nearly everyone turns back home for Christ-

And if one cannot be at home on And if one cannot be at home on Christmas day it is a double-edged catastrophe usually. He who is unable to be back perhaps suffers the more severely, but even if he chance to be of a case-hardened indifference toward the home call of Christmas, there is never any quetsion about the thoughts of the "home folks" turning often to him, and the hearts of the home folks wishing and wishing that the absent one might be back within the circle just for the day.

the circle just for the day.

There is a family that will not be united the coming Christmas here in Portland. The reason is not a particularly romantic one.
The father is in jail.

He has been in jail, off and on, the larger part of the year.

Children Have Longing.

Perhaps it is a matter of indifference to him whether he spends his Christmas with his children or behind the bars. That is something he does not talk about. He silently and sullenly takes mere necessities on Christmas day, to say nothing of the extras that belong same party.

So it looks almost as though the five little children are destined to waken Christmas morning to find that all the fables that cluster around that day are for them nothing but a sorrowful

Just by the way, there are between 100 and 200 little girls in the "family", that the relief fund is to benefit, who do not have dolls, and many of them have never had a doll to play with, except such a makeshift as they could improvise out of rags. And there are go many beautiful dolls to be had, too!

BLOODHOUNDS ON TRAIL

Train Robbers Suspected of Attempt to Derail Train.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 13.—Train rob-bers are suspected of responsibility for the detailing of passenger train No. 16 on the Lake Shore & Michigan Southof here last night. Acting on this theory, a score of detectives, aided by bloodhounds, followed trails tonight that possibly will lead to arrests tomorrow. It is thought the heavy load of registered mail led to an attempted robbery. ern Railroad at Wickliffe, 18 miles east

The theory that the derailment was caused in an attempt to kill Alfred P. Smith, newly-elected president of the New York Central lines, has been discarded. It is regarded as impossible anyone could have known of his presence on the train:

HONORED AT RE-

Mrs. Edith Hill Booker.

Mrs. Edith Hill Booker, recently elected state president of the Woman's Christlan Temperance Union of Oregon, was the guest of honor on Friday at a large re-ception given at the new state headquarters, 416 Dekum building, with the state and county officers as hostesses. A representative number of prominent women attended the function.

Mrs. Booker is a brilliant woman and a capable leader, and the members of the temperance organization feel that in her they have a worthy leader for a worthy

Show Much Promise.

The Fall exhibition of the Society of Oregon Artists, which is just closing, has been the most successful ex-hibition since the society was organized. The rotunds on the third floor of the new Public Library has proved a splendid place for an exhibit, the dignified and spacious gallery show-ing off the pictures to advantage. Between two and three hundred people a day have viewed them, and the society feels gratified at the interest taken by the public, and feels that it is perhaps accomplishing something in its effort to stimulate a desire on the part of the public to know what is being done by artists in this vicinity.

Henrietta M. Shore is new to Port-land, and her large canvases are an land, and her large canvases are an acquisition. All are interesting, but especially vivacious and full of life are "Ready for Play" and "At the Zoo."

"Atlantic Coast," by C. C. McKim, gives one a warm, pleasant feeling of sunlight and happiness. In his "Yachats Rocks" he has caught that misty sunlight so peculiar to the Oregon coast, while in his third canvas. "Yachats," there is fine movement and spirit; one feels that it is somewhat cold, and that there is not a consistent light consistent light Beat Paintings Exhibited.

Mary H. Webster's "Fishing Boats" has a rare, lovely quality throughout, and is very pleasing. "Winter Dories" is an interesting painting of a boet, though a trifle tight.

Henry F. Wenta's "Glacial Water" is a nice harmony of blues and greens. He also exhibits an interestingly arranged still life.

Ellen Ravenscroft's "Snow Scene" shows to fine advantage in the large room. A still life of dahllas is full of celor, as are also her two Nehalem things Boat Paintings Exhibited.

Inez Luce's "Moon's Struggle," while muddy and immature, shows a certain amount of feeling. Rockwell Carey's three sketches are fresh and spon-taneous, and are a decided improve-ment. C. V.
