The Oregonian Annual Is Supreme in Its Field

Order blank for The Annual will be found in today's paper.

Every Phase of Oregon's Progress During 1913 Will Be Chronicled in This Big Special Number to Be Published January 1, 1914

THE pictorial features of the Annual will attract wide attention. Especially notable is a 16-page section devoted exclusively to views of Portland. The drawing of the city's business section, which occupies two pages in this section, surpasses any similar illustration that has been published. The high viewpoint chosen makes it possible to show every building in the downtown district. More than 40 blocks, built up solidly with substantial structures, among which the skyscraper prevails, are included in this splendid picture of the metropolis. Seven full-page pictures of the principal buildings erected in Portland in 1913 are also printed. Other pages contain business buildings and other structures grouped in a new way and reflecting to advantage the results of the great construction movement.

THE OREGONIAN has never issued a more complete review of the year than the number that will appear on January 1. Every field of activity in Portland and Oregon will be the theme of an interesting article. The scope of the edition is so broad that it would be impossible here to call attention to its numerous features. One entire section will center about the Columbia River, shipping and kindred topics. With 40-foot water on the Columbia River assured for the early future, with Portland's shipping growing now and the city preparing for the increased business to come through the Panama Canal, and with the Celilo Canal soon to give an open waterway to the Inland Empire, this subject is of the greatest interest. All other topics will be treated adequately and with strict adherence to facts.

THE MIGHTY COLUMBIA AWAITS THE WORLD'S SHIPS THROUGH PANAMA

"CAROL" TO BE READ

Dickens' Christmas Story to Be Heard at Library.

REED STUDENTS TO SING

Yuletide Feature Will Mark Opening of President Foster's Course on Modern Literature—Library Workers Are Active.

President Foster, of Reed College, will give the opening lecture in his course on "Modern Literature" Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in library hall. To celebrate the Christmas season, President Foster will read from Dickens' "Christmas Carol" and a double quartet of Reed College students will sing Christmas carols.

A Christmas celebration for the children will be held in the story hour room on Friday afternoon. Stories will be told at 3 and 4 o'clock to the children gathered about the Christmas tree.

The books suitable for gifts are still to be found in the Children's department. These will be on display until Christmas day and a cordial invitation to look them over is extended to all interested in children or in children's literature.

The school department, which formerly closed at 4 o'clock, is now open evenings until 8:30 o'clock.

The Periodical department has added the following newspapers to its files: Baltimore Sun, Buffalo Express, Des Moines Register and Leader, Detroit Free Press, Indianapolis News, Milwaukee Sentinel, Phoenix (Ariz.) Republican, Sacramento Bee, Toronto Globe, Washington (D. C.) Star.

The Library is unable to obtain several magazines needed to complete the bound files. If it can secure these numbers, either by gift or purchase, it will be very grateful:

American Carpenter and Builder, September, 1913; Elementary School Teacher, October, 1913; Home Needlework, April-May, 1911; Illuminating Engineer, July, 1906; Irrigation Age, November and December, 1908 (also indexes for volumes 23 and 27); New England Magazine, February, 1913; National Geographic Magazine, February, 1911; Telephone, June 21, 1912.

An interesting book on "City Government in Europe," by Frank Putnam, has just been added to the municipal reference library. Mr. Putnam was a newspaper correspondent, and was sent by the city of Houston to investigate conditions in European cities. He was gone five months, and this book is the result of his observations in Glasgow, London, Hanover, Bremen, Hamburg, Dusseldorf, Munich, Berlin and Leipzig.

The South Portland branch library, corner First and Hooker streets, was opened last Saturday evening, and during this short period is proving its value to the community. Children are urged to come to the library during the day in order that the room may be free and quiet for the use of adults in the evening. For this reason children under 14 years of age will not be permitted in the library after 5 o'clock unless accompanied by their parents. A children's story hour will be held in this branch every Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. This branch will be open on Sundays from 2 until 5 o'clock.

The Brooklyn branch library, now in its enlarged quarters at Powell street and Milwaukee avenue, is also open on Sundays from 2 until 5 o'clock.

The new Boy Scouts Club is finding the St. Johns branch library a convenient center for its business meetings.

A bulletin board of Scout doings is planned by the librarian.

The young people who attend the Graham library enjoyed a delightful hour Thursday with Miss Lawrence, librarian of the public library of Honolulu. Miss Lawrence gave them a graphic description of the manners and customs of the people of the Hawaiian Islands.

PORTLAND LODGE ELECTS

Houghton, worshipful master; A. H. McGowan, senior warden; Edgar Stevens, junior warden; H. E. Cowgill, Jr., senior deacon; H. G. Channing, junior deacon; C. B. Howard, senior steward; William O. After the election the officers were installed by Past Grand Master Morse, who made a special trip from Salem to be present at the annual meeting of the lodge, of which he is the oldest living past master.

This lodge is the largest in the state and has shown great progress in membership and in all lines of Masonic work during the past year under the able direction of Walter J. Holman, the retired workmaster, who was presented with a handsome token as a memento of goodwill and appreciation. J. E. Werlein making the presentation speech.

A large number of the members and past masters were present, making the occasion an enjoyable and notable one in the history of the lodge.

M'COOL OBEYS CHARTER

Duty's Aide, Finding He Is Bureau.

Reports on Duties as "Steerer."

Learning from City Attorney L. B. Roche that he is a city bureau all by himself, James McCool, private secretary to City Commissioner Daly, yesterday put out an annual report in conformity with the City Charter, which requires all city bureaus to make annual reports.

McCool says in the five months ended December 1 he answered 3129 telephone calls and talked to 7229 persons who went to the office to see Commissioner Daly or to obtain information.

"The main business of the secretary's bureau," says McCool in his report, "is to steer off persons who want to see the Commissioner on business which can be attended to by others in the department."

WEST SLEUTH ARRESTED

Conrad Glanz' Moral Crusade in Wheeler Leads to Indictment.

Sheriff Kelsey, of Wheeler County, came to Portland yesterday and arrested Conrad Glanz, who has been indicted by the Wheeler County grand jury for selling liquor to a minor. Glanz will be taken to Pessil today and held to await the action of the Circuit Court.

Sheriff Kelsey says that Glanz was one of the sleuths who was sent by Governor West to assist Tom Kay in the so-called moral crusade which was carried on in Wheeler County a few months ago, and that he violated one of the laws which he was commissioned to enforce.

SIGN TAX IS PROTESTED

MERCHANTS HAVE PETITION AGAINST ORDINANCE.

Business Men Declare Burden Becoming Too Heavy and Use of Electricity Is of Public Benefit.

The enactment of an ordinance by the City Commissioners, fixing a license fee ranging from $2.50 to $50 a year for signs projecting over the sidewalk, has resulted in bringing forth a petition signed by 400 business firms, requesting that the ordinance be repealed, as they declare it imposes an unjust and onerous burden upon the merchant. The petition is addressed to the City Commissioners and was filed yesterday.

The license fee established is a graduated one, and the range wide enough to take in all manner of signs.

Merchants contend that the various burdens now being imposed by the city, county, state and Federal Governments are becoming a serious matter. It is pointed out that there is a vacation tax, a vehicle tax, income tax, corporation tax, personal tax, area-way tax, and many others, as well as the daily solicitations of funds for civic purposes. The addition of a sign tax, it is contended, will eliminate many of the more pretentious electric signs which add to the brightness of the business streets during the night time.

It is understood that a committee of the merchants will call upon the Commissioners when the petition, for consideration of the petition, to present the various arguments for the repeal of the provision taxing electric signs.

Trio to Donate Services.

The Portland Trio of Musicians has offered to donate its services in playing at any of the hospitals or charitable institutions of the city during the forenoon of Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday this week.

No Hog Cholera but Malt Kills.

MARSHFIELD, Or., Dec. 20.—(Special)—J. L. Smith, of the state experiment service, reports today the fatality among hogs on a Coos River ranch is not due to cholera, as thought, but is accountable to overfeeding with brewery malt. There had been no case of cholera in this vicinity but the loss of 21 animals in eight days led to the belief the dread swine disease had made its appearance here. The State Veterinarian will be asked to come here and investigate a trouble which has killed many of the ranchers' calves.

Free Lecture on California.

Major John P. Clum, noted lecturer, will give one of his famous "Travel Talks" illustrated with beautiful slides and moving pictures at Methodist Episcopal Church, Twelfth and Taylor, Tuesday, December 23, at 8 P. M. Admission free. Everybody welcome.—Adv.
