

PORTLAND MAN, WELL-KNOWN SOLOIST, WEDS DETROIT GIRL

MRS. FREDERICK DAVIES.

The residence of Walter Nash was the scene of a pretty wedding on Tuesday evening, when Miss Clara Isabelle McGregor, of Detroit, Mich., was married to Frederick Davies, of Portland.

After the wedding supper Mr. and Mrs. Davies left for a short wedding trip. They will be at home to their friends at the Westfall Apartments after February 15.

Little Virginia Mears, sister of the bridegroom, was flower girl, and was dainty in a frock of lace over pink chiffon, carrying a basket of Cecile Brunner roses and bouvardia.

Mr. and Mrs. Mears left for an extended wedding trip, and upon their return, about March 1, will be at home at Belle Court apartments.

Mrs. Leon H. Peters, of Portland, is visiting Mrs. Edward Lucas, in Minneapolis, and is being extensively entertained during her stay.

Miss Gladys Howard is claiming a large share of social attention preceding her wedding, which will be an event of February 16.

A delightful affair Tuesday evening was the auction bridge party given by Mr. and Mrs. N. U. Carpenters in their Sunnyside home.

Distinctive Silver For the Bride

THE many distinctive patterns we have assembled in our silverware section have been much admired, and they accurately reflect the quaintness and individuality of the early period designs.

The same splendid quality that distinguished the handiwork of the early craftsman is inherent in the modern adaptations we are displaying today.

In California until about the middle of February.

Associated Press dispatches during the week carried the news of the death of John R. Thomas, ex-United States Federal Judge in Oklahoma, Mr. Thomas was the father of Captain John B. Thomas, Jr., adjutant of the First Infantry, which left here just before the Twenty-first Infantry arrived, for Schofield Barracks, Hawaii. Mr. Thomas visited his son here in the Post before the First Infantry left and he was well known to several who are yet here. He was in the Warden's office when he was mistaken for the Warden and shot down by three convicts escaping.

Mrs. George S. Young was hostess Friday at 1 o'clock, when she entertained eight at luncheon. The table was decorated with Spring flowers—jonquils and mignonettes, while the effect was heightened by the addition of pussy willows around the rooms. Mrs. Young's guests were Mrs. Richardson and her son's wife, Mrs. John B. Richardson, Mrs. George B. Vashburn, Mrs. Walter C. Sweeney, Mrs. John C. Fairfax, Mrs. Harold H. Taintor, Mrs. Bernard Lents and Mrs. Cromwell Stacey. Mrs. John H. Page, Jr., and Miss Margaret Page were unable to attend.

The many friends of Mrs. James Ostrander will be pleased to know that she has fully recovered from a serious attack of rheumatism.

Mrs. Walter C. Sweeney, wife of Captain Sweeney, entertained with three tables of bridge Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. James Ostrander, Mrs. George C. Rockwell and Mrs. Walter C. Boswell were the prize winners. Mrs. Young and Mrs. Rockwell assisted in serving refreshments.

Colonel C. H. Martin, formerly of this post, but now with the Oregon National Guard, is still in the headquarters in Portland, visited in the post Friday.

Captain Clenard McLaughlin and Mrs. McLaughlin, now in Portland, attended the informal hop in the post Friday evening. Captain McLaughlin is of the

of the Season Ends Saturday Make Your Purchases This Week and Save 20%

We call this our most successful sale. Not alone because of the enthusiastic attendance and the volume of business done, but because in point of value-giving we have exceeded all our previous annual reduction sales.

The Season's Most Fascinating Garments of Worthy Furs We were advantaged this year in buying our raw furs, and the original prices were correspondingly low, so it is but a reasonable conclusion that a twenty per cent reduction means a saving out of the ordinary. Before this year were exceptionally clever, and taking this in connection with the present savings, the discriminating fur buyer will do well to attend this week, if for no other purpose than to make a comparison of values.
