Washington Immigration Conference Takes Action After Three-Hour Debate.

SPOKANE DELEGATES BOLT

Dispute Over Sending Agents to Canada and Middle West Causes Split—Taxing Mineral Reservations Is Urged.

OLYMPIA, Wash., March 28.—(Special.)—The state-wide immigration conference called by Secretary of State Howell ended its two-day session today with the selection of five permanent committees of representatives of commercial organizations on immigration and allied subjects, to co-operate with the state.

The conference backed all the provisions of the programme submitted yesterday by the Spokane delegation, except that calling upon Secretary of State Howell to send immigration agents at once into Canada and the Middle West. This provision was rejected after nearly three hours of stormy debate on the ground that Secretary Howell already had planned the expenditure of the funds appropriated for his use for this biennium.

The Spokane delegates took their defeat bitterly. The previous question was invoked to stop the final address of R. Insinger, leader of their delegation. When the conference adjourned in the afternoon no member of the Spokane delegation was present and though a few dropped in later they remained only a few minutes.

Former Governor in Debate. A resolution backed by ex-Governor M. E. Hay, urging taxation of mineral reservations made by corporations selling lands, led to a sharp debate between the former executive and Lieutenant-Governor Hart. The resolution finally was adopted.

Resolutions adopted provide that the commercial bodies of the state be urged to procure lists of available lands in their respective districts under conditional option of sale to prospective immigrants. When the conference adjourned in the afternoon no member of the Spokane delegation was present and though a few dropped in later they remained only a few minutes.

ACTIVITY MARKS SECRETARY'S VISIT

Portland Stay Declared One of Most Profitable Two-Day Periods During Term.

FISHING INDUSTRY STUDIED

Mr. Redfield Promises to Return Next Year and Give Necessary Time to Investigating Needs of Pacific Northwest.

"Next year I'm coming back to Portland and stay here long enough so that I can study fully the needs of this district," said William C. Redfield, Secretary of Commerce, and the seventh member of President Wilson's Cabinet who has visited Portland, upon leaving for Seattle last night.

Mr. Redfield was here two days. It was two days of hard work. He gave every possible moment of official business and declared when he left that it was one of the most profitable and pleasant two-day periods of his term in office.

Although he has a large number of branches and bureaus under his direction, Secretary Redfield seems at present deeply intent upon enlarging the scope and importance of the fisheries bureau. While in Portland he divided nearly all his time between the fisheries and the lighthouse service.

There are two reasons why the fishing industry should be developed," said Mr. Redfield. "First, and most important, is that it will give the people of this country an increased food supply; and second, is that it will furnish profitable employment to a large number of persons in the commercial importance of the Northwest."

He told of some of the work the department now is doing on the Atlantic Coast and of the recent discovery there of an immense bank of scallop—an edible and highly nutritious food fish. Soundings will be conducted off the Oregon coast.

The Government also is conducting pioneer work to have muscels, which are generally used as food, and with that end in view men now are offering muscels for sale from pushcarts on the streets of Boston. He pointed out that the State of Maine annually collects $20,000,000 in fees from fishermen and sportsmen and declared that the State of Oregon has a field every bit as promising as its Northeastern sister.

Many Attend Luncheon. Among those who attended the University Club luncheon were H. B. Van Dusen, William H. King, J. S. Seibert, John Gill, E. A. Barker, George Warren, H. R. Olsen, George B. McLeod, Dr. W. T. Foster, Professor Hastings, M. J. Finley, H. J. Reynolds, Henry O'Malley, W. L. Finley and others.

Not being able to visit the numerous fishing streams of the state, Mr. Redfield did the next best thing yesterday and saw views of the river moving pictures. He was the guest of Manager James, of the Majestic Theater. Scenes from the Rogue River, the Columbia River and other streams were shown, and the work at the several state and National fish hatcheries of the Northwest was presented in instructive detail.

"Within the next few years we expect to have all the activities of the Department of Commerce reproduced in moving pictures," commented the Secretary by way of manifesting his appreciation of the show.

Then in company with Henry O'Malley, superintendent, he went to view the Government fish hatchery at Oregon City. The trip was made by automobile, which the Secretary seemed much to enjoy.

Manufacturers Make Request. Mr. Redfield, who is accompanying the Secretary on his Western trip, also was a member of the automobile party.

Earlier in the day a committee of lumber manufacturers and bankers visited Mr. Redfield and conferred with him on the present Administration's attitude toward the lumber industry in the Northwest. He explained that the policy of the Government in this respect is formed principally in Congress, but assured them that personally he is quite friendly to the lumber interests.

Among those in the party were F. C. Knapp, R. S. Shaw, W. B. Mackay, W. C. Miles, Lloyd Wentworth, Wilson Clark, Frank H. Ransom, and J. C. Answorth, Edward Coalingham, G. Crawford, representing the bankers; L. Allen Lewis, representing the business men; and Joseph N. Teal, representing the Chamber of Commerce.

Since coming to Portland Mr. Redfield also has outlined his plans for a submarine survey off the coasts of Oregon, Washington and Alaska. He is adding Congress to appropriate funds for a wire drag with which this work can be done.

Lifesaving Work Desired. Had the submerged pinnacles off the Alaskan shore been charted the steamer California and 31 lives lost there last year could have been saved, he declared.

An appropriation of $130,000 has been made for a lighthouse at Cape St. Elias, which now is dark and dangerous, and an additional $60,000 is available for other aids to navigation in Alaska, while $225,000 will be expended on a powerful steamship to serve the light-house and other stations.
